FARMERS MARKET—THE village of Ashville held its annual Farmers Market Wednesday. A "Street flea market" everything from bird dogs to barbecued pork chops and from fruit jars to stone jugs was "hawked" by vendors who set up stands and trailers along the village's streets and sidewalks.

House Sets End-War Vote Tied To Military Aid Bill

Could Kill Entire Plan, Leaders Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rider ordering U.S. forces out of the Indochina war this year headed for House vote today with some leaders saying it could carry a military foreign-aid bill to defeat.

Leaders on both sides of the war issue predicted the mandate to pull U.S. forces out of Indochina in return for release of American prisoners and a limited cease-fire would be narrowly rejected.

Some, including Speaker Carl Albert and Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, said a $2.1-billion military foreign-aid bill could be voted down if the war-pullout mandate stays in it. Albert said he feared the bill could be rejected regardless.

But House Foreign Affairs E. Morgan, D-P., said:

"They'd better take this one if they want any foreign-aid bill. This is the swan song as far as I am concerned."

The Senate already has rejected President Nixon's foreign military-aid requests. Morgan indicated that if the House did the same foreign aid would not be dead but would be continued on an interim basis.

The war-pullout directive originally carried a deadline of Oct. 1 before House antiwar forces changed it to Dec. 31 to carry it past the November elections and give Nixon a longer period to withdraw the troops.

The directive would order all U.S. military forces in or over Indochina withdrawn so long as American prisoners were returned, GIs missing in enemy territory were accounted for and a cease-fire was established. The only exception would be for protection of withdrawing forces.

The mandate would carry the force of law but not cut off money for the war as would have a measure approved by the Senate.

In opening votes on the foreign aid bill, the House Wednesday night rejected by voice votes efforts to cut off U.S. aid to Cambodia and Thailand and to suspend aid to Portugal.

See Huge Wheat Sale To Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the Soviet Union may buy between 250 million and 400 million bushels of U.S. wheat, as much as one-fourth of this year's crop.

Officials say a number of private companies are involved in transactions, including one whose Soviet sales operations are headed by a former U.S. assistant secretary of agriculture.

Wheat market prices in the Midwest have risen sharply in recent days, reflecting rumors that a massive sale to Moscow is imminent. In Kansas City the price has climbed from $1.57 per bushel to $1.84.

If the big sale materializes, a 400-million-bushel transaction—and some sources say it could be) even more—would be equal to nearly half the present U.S. wheat surplus and a fourth of the 1972 crop, estimated at less than 1.6 billion bushels.

Asst. Agriculture Secretary Carroll G. Brunthaver said Wednseday in an interview that there has been tremendous demand for wheat in the market, presumably by private companies seeking grain for the Soviets.

"We keep hearing eight to 10 million tons," about 296 million to 375 million bushels, Brunthaver said. "That's entirely possible. Whether it's more than that, I don't know."

One of the export firms involved is Continental Grain Co. New York, which recently hired former Asst. Secretary Clarence D. Palmby, Brunthaver's predecessor, to head up its export-sales operations for the Soviet market.

Palmby was closely involved in U.S.-Soviet negotiations earlier this year. He resigned shortly before President Nixon announced on July 8 that the Soviet Union had agreed to buy at least $750 million worth of U.S. grain over the next three years.

Continental and another firm Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis, sold nearly 3 million tons of livestock feed grain to the Soviet Union last year, the first U.S. grain sale to that country in nearly a decade.

When the White House announced the new pact last month, most of the initial orders were thought to be for corn and other feed, although wheat was included in the options.

Since then, however, the Soviets have shown interest in substantial wheat purchases, a fact that has helped boost market prices here.

The Soviet Union wants feed grain to help increase livestock, dairy and poultry supplies for consumers. Wheat has come into the picture, however, because of huge losses to the Soviets' winter crops.

McGovern Opens Campaign With New Hampshire Stop

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — George McGovern today kicked off the first major trip in his presidential campaign by challenging President Nixon to a series of televised debates.

"If he thinks his own record is better than the changes I propose, why is he afraid to defend that record in face-to-face debates?" McGovern said in a statement handed to newsmen on the trip here from Washington.

With a new running mate finally selected and approved, the Democratic presidential candidate began a two-day swing to Machestre, Hartford, Conn., Providence, R.I., and New York City.

Although no welcome had been planned at Manchester, a crowd of about 100 persons turned out to watch his arrival at the airport.

McGovern and his aides describe the New England journey as a "listening trip" to find out what is on the minds of voters.

The first stop is the J.F. McElwain Co. shoe factory in Manchester, a largely symbolic apperance for McGovern. He says it was his appearance there last Feb. 18 during the New Hampshire primary campaign that he first fully appreciated his appeal to blue-collar workers.

"That's the place where it became apparent to me that these factory workers were sympathetic," McGovern said in Washington Wednesday. "I've always seen that as the turning-point in the campaign."

But on this trip, he said, "instead of making a speech to them I'm going back to listen—to ask them what they think the next president of the United States ought to be concerning himself with, what they're worried about . . . ."

A Harris Survey poll published Wednesday showed McGovern trailing President Nixon 57 to 34 with 9 per cent undecided.

As McGovern's New England trip was being mapped, running-mate Sargent Shriver was buy in Washintgon meeting Democratic party officials and boning up on McGovern's position on the campaign issues.

One McGovern aide said that every time McGovern's "issue men" meet to brief Shriver, they keep getting interrupted by phone calls and demands that Shriver make an appearance.

Shriver himself told a television executive Tuesday night that he could not appear on a network program Wednesday. "They're not ready to unleash me yet," he joked.

Shriver's nomination to fill the vice-presidential spot on the ticket was overwhelmingly approved by the Democratic National Committee Tuesday night.

Man Charged In 3-Death County Crash

Howard Reed, 51-year-old Deeds Dairy truck driver from Lancaster, was charged with failure to yield the right of way at a stop sign and three counts of second degree vehicular homicide by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Jim Deal Wednesday morning.

Reed was driver of a delivery truck that crashed into the Paul Pennington family car Monday morning and killed Pennington, his wife Leona, and their son John, and injured three other Pennington boys.

James Pennington, 9, is listed in "fair" condition in Children's Hospital, Columbus.

Paul Pennington, 15, is in "fair" condition in Berger Hospital.

Kevin Pennington, 14, was dismissed from Berger Hospital Wednesday morning.

Handgun Control Faces Uncertain Fate In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A ban on the sale of easily concealable handguns has been passed by the Senate and sent to an uncertain fate in the House.

The Senate passed the measure, 68 to 25, late Wednesday after three days of debate and overwhelming rejection of stronger gun controls.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the bill's chief sponsor, said it would "take out of the marketplace the weapons used most frequently by criminals."

The Senate bill is aimed primarily at cheap, snub-nosed, light-weight handguns of the kind commonly called "Saturday night specials," but it also would bar the sale of other higher-quality weapons that are easily concealed.

Bayh said the bill would have prevented the legal sale of the guns used to assassinate Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968 and to shoot Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace three months ago.

The attempted assassination of Wallace during his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination spurred Senate action on the measure.

Bayh estimated the bill would ban the sale of about one million of the 2½ million pistols and revolvers sold each year in this country.

But it would do nothing about the millions of handguns now privately owned.

The Senate rejected attempts to outlaw private ownership of handguns and to require registration of all firearms and licensing of gun owners.

The Senate did adopt amendments making the murder or attempted murder of policemen, firemen and prison guards on active duty a federal crime and providing for priority handling in the federal courts of criminal trials involving use or possession of a firearm.

The bill also was amended to set an additional separate penalty for carrying or using a firarm in the commission of a felony.

The Senate rejected, 70 to 27, an amendment by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., to permit dealers to sell present stocks of the handguns outlawed by the legislation. It would have allowed continued sales of all models until the secretary of the Treasury acted to disapprove them.

In 1968 Congress ordered a ban on imports of handguns not suitable for sporting purposes and the regulations issued by the Treasury Department to enforce the law would be applied to domestic sales by the new bill.

Under an agreement offered by Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, and approved by voice vote, handguns meeting these criteria could be sold if suitable for self-protection.

Viet Reds Hold Firm At Paris

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong insisted today "there is no other way" to end the Vietnam war except for the United States to get out and stop supporting the present Saigon government.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief negotiator for the Viet Cong, stepped up her attacks on the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam at the 154th session of the Paris peace talks.

She called it "an administration of repression and terror" which was "set up by the United States to serve as an instrument of 'Vietnamization' of the war."

Mrs. Binh declared that if the U.S. government really wants to reach a solution to the war "there is no other way than at the same time as the total withdrawal of the American troops from South Vietnam, it stop supporting the bellicose group now in power," in Saigon.

The U.S. representative at the talks, William J. Porter, earlier told the Communists their charges of war crimes by South Vietnam and its allies are "unconvincing propaganda, especially when set beside your record of severity and harshness during your current massive offensive."

Army Drops $400 Million Copter Project

Less-Fancy Gunship To Be Sought As Substitute

WASHINGTON (AP) — After six years and $400 million, the Army has killed its trouble-plagued Cheyenne helicopter program to search anew for a cheaper, less-fancy gunship.

The Army Wednesday notified Congress and Lockheed Aircraft, builder of the Cheyenne its decision and announced that it will seek new bids from industry for "the smaller, less-costly aircraft."

The action followed by eight months the death of the Army's new dream tank, the MBT70, which military planners also conceded was too fancy and too costly. In that case, Congress killed the program.

"The basic point is we got too expensive and too sophisticated a machine," an Army spokesman said of the Cheyenne. "We can do it for less with a smaller machine."

Cheyenne was packed with electronic gadgetry, antitank missiles and machine guns, for knocking out enemy troops, tanks and guns at close range.

The Army wanted to buy 375 Cheyennes at a cost estimated between $3.5 million to $5.2 million each, more than the price of the F4 Phantom jet.

But Cheyenne ran into mechanical problems along with congressional fire from critics who questioned its value.

The Cheyenne also has been the center of a bitter and still-unsettled dispute between the Army and Air Force over each service's role in the job of protecting American ground troops.

With the Air Force pushing its version of a new close-air-support plane, some legislators are concerned they are being asked to back too many overlapping military projects.

Quang Tri City Areas Cleared

Vietnamese Marines Flush Out Snipers

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamee marines cleared the southern sector of Quang Tri City except for isolated snipers, field reports said today, and South Vietnamese bomber pilots claimed they knocked out 14 enemy tanks six miles to the southwest.

But 400 North Vietnamese held firm in the northern half of Quang Tri City, including in the Citadel, according to the reports.

A communique issued at northern military headquarters in Hue said four supply trucks were destroyed along with the 14 tanks, and 15 North Vietnamee soldiers were killed during the three-hour bombing raid.

Associated Press photographer Koichiro Mortia reported from Quang Tri that the marines advanced to the river that forms the southwestern boundary of the city. It was their first progress in two weeks.

Morita said that marine units in both the southern and northern sectors were receiving heavy mortar fire from North Vitnamese troops on the opposite side of the Thach Han River.

One marine unit fought within 500 yards of the Citadel and claimed killing 61 North Vietnamese Wednesday. Five marines were reported killed and 39 wounded.

Fighting erupted on all sides of the city, and U.S. bombers knocked out four North Vietnamese tanks on the outskirts, field reports said.

Government spokesmen at Hue claimed 273 North Vietnamese troops were killed in fighting around Quang Tri, on the western flanks of Hu near an outpost called Checkmate, and in the Que Son Valley south of Da Nang. Fourteen South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and 95 wounded.

Well-Known Ohio Newsman William S. Miller, 60, Dies

LOGAN, Ohio (AP) — William S. Miller, editor and publisher, The Logan Daily News for the past 25 years, died at his home early today.

He was 60.

Miller had been on vacation, and death apparently occurred as he slept. The cause was not immediately determined.

Miller was a native of Logan and spent much of his newspaper career with The Daily News, starting in 1935. He also had worked as editor of The Wilmington News Journal, the New Lexington News and as copy editor of the old Ohio State Journal.

Survivors include his widow, Frances, and five children, Steven, an Associated Press business news editor in New York; David, who lives near Logan; Janie, a student at Miami Ohio University; Brian and Chris, both of the home.

Miller served with the Marine Corps in the South Pacific during the war and participated in the Iwo Jima campaign as a combat correspondent for Leatherneck Magazine. Upon his return to this country he was managing editor of that magazine and later became managing editor of the Marine Corps Gazette.

He was named managing editor of The Daily News in 1946 and was appointed editor and manager in 1947.

Miller was a chief promoter of the Hocking Hills State Park complex, and charter member and past president of the Buckeye Trail Association which developed a hiking trail that extends from Cincinnati through southeast and east Ohio and north to Lake Erie.

He personally scouted, cleared and marked the Buckeye Trail through Hocking County and in 1970 received a distinguished achievement award for that work. He was honored last November by the Southeast Ohio Regional Council as one of its Men of The Year.

Miller worked more than 20 years with the Logan Trade Clubs Industrial Development program and served on its planning committee.

Funeral plans are pending.

Walter Brennan Aids American Party

Burglars Hit Local Store

A burglary at the Merit Shoe store, 121 W. Main St., early this morning is under investigation by Circleville police.

A passerby notified police at 4:55 a.m. that the front glass door of the shoe store had been shattered.

Ptl. Larry Jirles and Ray Dulan, accompanied by Timothy Shackle, store manager, made a check of the store.

According to Shackle, the safe had been opened and $216 taken. The thieves then relocked the safe.

Entry to the building was apparently gained by crawling through the hole in the glass as the door was still locked when the police arrived.

Tax Repeal Almost Certain To Be On Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With the filing of petitions Wednesday to force a November vote on repeal of the state income tax, opponents conceded it will be difficult to stop the referendum.

"I think it's going to be tough to keep it off the ballot," said John Mahaney, chief lobbyist for the Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants, one of the groups opposing repeal.

The council, Ohio Education Association and other major opponents are expected to contend that petitions were handled illegally during the final few weeks of the drive to get sufficient signatures to put the issue on the ballot.

John Hall, director of the OEA, called a news conference today to discuss opposition strategy.

Meanwhile, proponents, buoyed by the success of their drive and offered assistance by the American Civil Liberties Union, threatened legal action as a result of pressure brought aginst petition circulators to not return the papers. They claim the constitutional rights of signers were violated.

Republican legislators who spearheaded the repeal movement delivered to Secretary of State Ted Brown's office Wednesday 24 cardboard boxes of petitions containing what they said were just under 370,000 names.

It takes 318,414 valid signatures to put the tax, of from .5 to 3.5 per cent on individual income and 4 to 8 per cent on corporations, on the ballot.

Brown has said invalid signatures usually run 10 to 13 per cent on constitutional amendment petitions. Even if they run that high, however, enough names would remain to force the vote.

The issue would go to the voters in the form of an amendment that, if approved, would repeal the tax of Jan. 1 and provide that any future income tax must go to a vote of the people.

The tax was enacted by the legislature last year.

Rep. Robert Netzley, R-7 Laura, leader of the repeal movement, and his followers contend the tax isn't needed,

Metric System Board Set Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committe has approved a bill to establish a National Metric Conversion Board to plan for a change by the United States to the metric system.

The intent of the legislation, approved Wednesday, is to make the metric system the dominant system of weights and measures within 10 years.

The United States is the only major country not yet committed to the metric system.

Well-Known Ohio Newsman William S. Miller, 60, Dies

LOGAN, Ohio (AP) — William S. Miller, editor and publisher, The Logan Daily News for the past 25 years, died at his home early today.

He was 60.

Miller had been on vacation, and death apparently occurred as he slept. The cause was not immediately determined.

Miller was a native of Logan and spent much of his newspaper career with The Daily News, starting in 1935. He also had worked as editor of The Wilmington News Journal, the New Lexington News and as copy editor of the old Ohio State Journal.

Survivors include his widow, Frances, and five children, Steven, an Associated Press business news editor in New York; David, who lives near Logan; Janie, a student at Miami Ohio University; Brian and Chris, both of the home.

Miller served with the Marine Corps in the South Pacific during the war and participated in the Iwo Jima campaign as a combat correspondent for Leatherneck Magazine. Upon his return to this country he was managing editor of that magazine and later became managing editor of the Marine Corps Gazette.

He was named managing editor of The Daily News in 1946 and was appointed editor and manager in 1947.

Miller was a chief promoter of the Hocking Hills State Park complex, and charter member and past president of the Buckeye Trail Association which developed a hiking trail that extends from Cincinnati through southeast and east Ohio and north to Lake Erie.

He personally scouted, cleared and marked the Buckeye Trail through Hocking County and in 1970 received a distinguished achievement award for that work. He was honored last November by the Southeast Ohio Regional Council as one of its Men of The Year.

Miller worked more than 20 years with the Logan Trade Clubs Industrial Development program and served on its planning committee.

Funeral plans are pending.

Walter Brennan Aids American Party

Man Charged In 3-Death County Crash

Howard Reed, 51-year-old Deeds Dairy truck driver from Lancaster, was charged with failure to yield the right of way at a stop sign and three counts of second degree vehicular homicide by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Jim Deal Wednesday morning.

Reed was driver of a delivery truck that crashed into the Paul Pennington family car Monday morning and killed Pennington, his wife Leona, and their son John, and injured three other Pennington boys.

James Pennington, 9, is listed in "fair" condition in Children's Hospital, Columbus.

Paul Pennington, 15, is in "fair" condition in Berger Hospital.

Kevin Pennington, 14, was dismissed from Berger Hospital Wednesday morning.

Burglars Hit Local Store

A burglary at the Merit Shoe store, 121 W. Main St., early this morning is under investigation by Circleville police.

A passerby notified police at 4:55 a.m. that the front glass door of the shoe store had been shattered.

Ptl. Larry Jirles and Ray Dulan, accompanied by Timothy Shackle, store manager, made a check of the store.

According to Shackle, the safe had been opened and $216 taken. The thieves then relocked the safe.

Entry to the building was apparently gained by crawling through the hole in the glass as the door was still locked when the police arrived.

Tax Repeal Almost Certain To Be On Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With the filing of petitions Wednesday to force a November vote on repeal of the state income tax, opponents conceded it will be difficult to stop the referendum.

"I think it's going to be tough to keep it off the ballot," said John Mahaney, chief lobbyist for the Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants, one of the groups opposing repeal.

The council, Ohio Education Association and other major opponents are expected to contend that petitions were handled illegally during the final few weeks of the drive to get sufficient signatures to put the issue on the ballot.

John Hall, director of the OEA, called a news conference today to discuss opposition strategy.

Meanwhile, proponents, buoyed by the success of their drive and offered assistance by the American Civil Liberties Union, threatened legal action as a result of pressure brought aginst petition circulators to not return the papers. They claim the constitutional rights of signers were violated.

Republican legislators who spearheaded the repeal movement delivered to Secretary of State Ted Brown's office Wednesday 24 cardboard boxes of petitions containing what they said were just under 370,000 names.

It takes 318,414 valid signatures to put the tax, of from .5 to 3.5 per cent on individual income and 4 to 8 per cent on corporations, on the ballot.

Brown has said invalid signatures usually run 10 to 13 per cent on constitutional amendment petitions. Even if they run that high, however, enough names would remain to force the vote.

The issue would go to the voters in the form of an amendment that, if approved, would repeal the tax of Jan. 1 and provide that any future income tax must go to a vote of the people.

The tax was enacted by the legislature last year.

Rep. Robert Netzley, R-7 Laura, leader of the repeal movement, and his followers contend the tax isn't needed.

Metric System Board Set Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committe has approved a bill to establish a National Metric Conversion Board to plan for a change by the United States to the metric system.

The intent of the legislation, approved Wednesday, is to make the metric system the dominant system of weights and measures within 10 years.

The United States is the only major country not yet committed to the metric system.

Loan Plan Would Allow Rate Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board proposed new regulations today to allow federal savings and loan associations to offer variable interest rate mortgages to home buyers for the first time.

The regulations merely permit savings and loan associations to offer such mortgages. Not only would the associations have the choice, but homebuyers could choose between a fixed and a variable interest rate when borrowing from federally insured savings and loan associations.

The regulations contain provisions for the variable interest rate to fluctuate both up and down according to a specified index that would be readily available to the homebuyer.

Variable interest rates could result in changes for either the term of the mortgage or the monthly payment or both. A mortgage could be extended to a maximum maturity of 35 years.

Chairman Preston Martin said the variable rate mortgage would appeal to the home buyer who finds himself locked into loans with high interest rates without being able to refinance them except by penalty fees.

He also said that the change would make a home mortgage a more attractive investment, thus making money more readily available to borrowers, especially during tight-money situations.

Lenders like the idea because it offers protection against an inflationary impact as reflected by rising interest rates.

Rule Out Vote Machines

KENTON, Ohio (AP)—A judge today ruled unconstitutional voting machines used in more than 20 per cent of Ohio's counties.

Hardin County Common Pleas Court Judge Harry Kaylor ruled voting machines used in Hardin County elections were unconstitutional and void. Court sources had said the suit would apply to certain voting machines used in 18 other counties.

Kenton attorneys John Roof and Carlos Faulkner contended the machines were unconstitutional because candidates names are rotated on a precinct - to precinct basis rather than ballot to ballot. They said this means one candidate could have his name the top of the ballot in large precincts, thereby having an advantage in the voting.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown requested that he be included as defendant in the suit, along with the Hardin County Board of Elections.

Stock List Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices floated upward in moderate trading today, but the movement was mild compared with last week's rally.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 0.75 to 951.91. Advances led declines 631 to 509 among 1,510 issues traded on the Big Board.

Eldon Grimm of Walston & Co. said: "A lot of specific issues are strong. Low-priced speculative stocks are moving now, which indicates more public participation."

What some analysts called low-priced speculative issues included Boise Cascade, up ⅝ to 12, and Litton Industries, up ¼ to 14. Both have been depressed recently.

Varian Associates was the morning volume leader, unchanged at 20⅜. Other Big Board actives included Lubrizol, down ½ to 49½; Extendicare, up ¼ to 19; and Illinois Power, down ¼ to 30⅛.

Brumfield Is Released On Probation

Leon Brumfield, whose arrearage on support payments was one of the largest on record in the Pickaway County courts, entered a guilty plea at arraignment on a new charge of non-support brought by the recent grand jury and was found guilty of violating probation on the original non-support charge brought against him by his ex-wife.

Brumfield was brought back to this court from New Mexico to face the charges. After the court found him guilty in hearing Wednesday morning, it continued his probation under the same terms levied in July, 1970. He was ordered to pay an additional amount weekly to make up the arrearage.

Also scheduled to appear was William Dudding, Kingston, to face a charge of rape. When Dudding did not arrive for his court appearance, the court ordered a capias issued for his arrest and his attorney, Leo Hall, withdrew from the case.

Damon Wise, indicted for the grand theft of copper wire, appeared again for arraignment but entered no plea, seeking time to employ his own attorney and make bond.

Court Dismisses Appeal On Will

Court of Appeals for the Fourth District has affirmed a judgment issued in Pickaway County courts dismissing a claim by the heirs of the late M. E. Swackhammer.

The opinion filed today agrees with the local court's decision to dismiss the case, basing its action on the fact that it had been filed three years past the one year filing period allowed by law on a malpractice issue.

The district court ruled that the contestants of the will, who claimed that attorney E. A. Smith had been guilty of breach of duty growing out of a contract, could not seek damages under that law as it had no bearing in this particular case. The judges ruled that it would be appropriately filed as malpractice.

Marvin Swackhammer and others had appealed the judgment of the Pickaway County Common Pleas Court, alleging in their petition that Smith had drafted a will for their father contrary to his expressed desires and thereby his children were disinherited.

The heirs had contested the will earlier and it was overturned by the local court, but the Court of Appeals ruled against the petitioners when the matter was taken to the higher court.

Old Salts, Navy Wives Moan Over Women On Warships

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Many old Navy salts would prefer a girl in every port to one behind every porthole.

"It's unreal," moaned Chief Stan Plank as he nursed a drink Wednesday afternoon at the stag bar in a service club at the Naval Station.

Plank wasn't alone in his disbelief at the Navy's latest directive, one that will allow women to serve aboard combat vessels. Many of Plank's fellow Navy chiefs — the senior enlisted personnel in the service — echoed his misgivings about the order handed down Tueday by the Chief of Naval Operations, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt.

Their doubts about the program also were shared by many Navy wives who now have to wrestle with the thought of their husbands going out to sea for a half a year or more with women.

"You put men and women on a ship together for six months and you're going to have troubles," said Frances Dovale, whose husband is a steward aboard the carrier Independence.

Turning to a second-class petty officer at the door of the Navy exchange, she pointed a finger in his face and laughed.

"Now, in six months, you know you're going to find a way."

"It's no place for a woman," claimed Mary Mountford. "If they want that, they ought to set them out on the battlefield.

"I think the woman's place is in the home with the children," added the mother of four whose husband is attached to a port services unit at the Naval Station.

To be sure, not all hands were knocking Zumwalt's directive. "Great, bring them on in," said a chuckling Chief C.W. Thomas of Washington.

"On a sub, we'd love it," said Petty Officer 2.C. John Pedroni, a torpedoman serving aboard the attack nuclear submarine Ray. But Pedroni added with a sigh that there was "no way" he could foresee women aboard the boats.

"We're out 70 to 80 days and they couldn't handle it," he said.

Some Navy wives have mixed feelings about the program. "I believe they can do it," said Nancy Lawless, whose husband is a first class machinist's mate aboard the guided missile destroyer Leahy. She paused and added: "Now, I don't know about seasickness. Women are kind of delicate, you know."

The prospects of friction among the crew members seemed to bother most chiefs. "Will they have morale problems!" predicted Chief Radioman Larry Fanagan.

Some chiefs expressed regret that the change was coming, but especially that it was coming before they would have a chance to go down to sea with sailors in ships.

"I'm going to be retired the first of September," said Chief Roy O'Quinn of Norfolk. "This should have been done 25 years ago."

Find High-Powered Beer Not Much Better Than 3.2

By JAMES STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Many a collegiate beer party has speculated that the amount of 3.2 beer necessary for intoxication is roughly equivalent to that needed to drown an elephant.

It's not true. In fact, by the time the elephant drowned, he'd probably be dead drunk.

The state Department of Liquor Control's advisory committee recently ordered laboratory tests of the so called "high-powered" beers and discovered that the highest alcohol content barely exceeded four per cent.

"The fact is that the idea of high-powered beer, of six or seven per cent alcohol content, is just a myth. Three-two (per cent) beer is not that much different," said Department Director Richard Guggenheim.

Richard Navarre, manager of Columbus' August Wagner Breweries, confirmed the finding.

"When I first went into the beer business, I was under the impression that 'high-powered' beer was up around six per cent."

"But the fact is, since the beginning of time at least in this country, beer has always been about four."

Ohio, like a number of other states, permits 3.2 per cent beer sales to 18-yer-olds, but not the sale of hard liquor or other beer. Under local option clauses, some areas in the state permit only 3.2 sales.

That could change, in light of the laboratory tests, Guggenheim said.

"One of the things under consideration by the committee is just doing away with the 3.2 distinction in state law," he said.

He stressed, however, that the committee — made up of a cross-section of the liquor industry, legislators and other public groups — could only propose the move. The department, itself, he said, has taken no stand.

Guggenheim indicated that the test results came as a surprise to him.

"I know a lot of kids think they're really getting something with the 'high-powered' stuff and think, 'Gee, we're getting drunk,' but it's just psychological."

Tax Sharing Readied By Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has finished its work on the $29.8-billion revenue-sharing bill for cities and states.

Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said he hopes that congressional action, including settlement of differences with a House-passed revenue-sharing bill, will be completed before the break for the Republican National Convention.

Before sending the measure to the Senate floor, the committee Wednesday voted to phase out a mechanism providing 75 per cent federal funds for social-service programs and replace it with grants totaling $1 billion a year beginning Jan. 1, 1973.

The committee added a provision for child-care and family-planning services for welfare mothers estimated to total $1 billion in the current fiscal year.

The committee bill calls for distribution of the $29.8-billion revenue-sharing fund on the basis of population, per capita income and tax effort.

The measure would reduce grants to 17 states and increase allocations to 33 states compared with criteria adopted earlier by the House.

Committee sources said that although allocations to the more populous states would be reduced, the largest cities generally would receive more money than under the House bill.

Money Bill Faces Likely Nixon Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a $30.5 billion appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare although there were predictions President Nixon would veto the bill.

The bill provides $1.76 billion in excess of what the President requested, including substantial increases for education and health purposes.

Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., said after the bill was approved by a 239 to 166 vote Wednesday night that "the President will have no recourse but to veto it" since the bill would increase the budget deficit.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

A controversial provision seeks to limit expenditures for social services. The bill is expected to provide for allotment of social service funds on the basis of population, per capita income, welfare consolidation and "past experience in social service program delivery."

The bill is a compromise between an original House version providing $28.6 billion and a Senate version providing $31.3 billion. It is for the current fiscal year.

Another bill approved by the House and sent to the President would provide $13.4 billion for the Department of Agriculture and for environmental and consumer programs.

Bombs, Gunfire Rock Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Bombs and gunfire rocked the city of Armagh, the religious capital of all Ireland, Wednesday night after a day of mass protest by Northern Ireland's Roman Catholics.

Two bombs caused extensive damages in the center of the city, whose 120,000 population is half Catholic, and 15 shots were fired at troop patrols. There were no casualties, although one bullet buried itself in a soldier's flak jacket.

The violence in the seat of Ireland's Protestant and Catholic archbishops topped a day of gunfire and riot cross Northern Ireland as Catholics took to the streets to mark the first anniversary of the British Government's internment without trial laws.

Flu Vaccine Holds Hope For Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists say they have developed a new kind of vaccine which might head off a major, worldwide influenza epidemic and may eventually control the widespread disease.

The National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases Wednesday announced that development of the vaccine "holds future promise for the eventual control" of influenza.

Scientists who developed the preparation, administered as a nasal spray rather than by injection, said it might head off the flu epidemic forcast for the late 1970s.

In tests on prisoner-volunteers, the still-experimental vaccine gave complete protection to men exposed to the virulent Hong Kong-type germ, the institute said.

The scientists said the techniques employed in producing the new vaccine probably could be used to make other vaccines capable of combatting new strains of flu germs that might appear in the future.

The institute said the new vaccine must still undergo extensive trials and be licensed for manufacture before it can be made available to the public.

Checkers Champion Hopes For Rebirth Of Interest

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Now that the United States has discovered chess, Alfred Barrow is hoping for a new interest in another old game: checkers.

Not just ordinary checkers like most kids play, but a complicated game called international checkers.

Barrow is the national champion and will represent the United States at a world tournament in Holland next year.

International checkers, he explained, is played on a board with 100 squares, rather than the usual 64, and there are 20 pieces on each side.

"In Europe, a checker tournament can draw 10,000 participants," the 23-year-old dockworker said. "In this country, they don't even manufacture the board. You've got to import it from overseas."

For some reason, Barrow said, big-board checkers in the United States seems to be played primarily by blacks.

"There are about 15 clubs organized in the country and most of the members are black," he said. "The largest club is ours in New Orleans. Blacks have been playing the game here for over 100 years."

Barrow said he started playing when he was 12 or 13, making the rounds of the game being played in barber shops, funeral homes and other unlikely spots.

A few weeks ago he packed his brown and beige board and traveled to Detroit to play a seven-game title match with defending champion Carl Smith, 51, of Chicago.

"I guess you could call it an upset," Barrow said. "He was a heavy favorite."

In the international game, a player can move his pieces backward or forward, and a king — a checker which has been crowned — can move any number of diagonal spaces like a bishop in chess.

The greater number of squares on the big board allows for more possibilities for moves and there are so many variations nobody has figured them all out yet, Barrow said.

Loan Plan Would Allow Rate Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board proposed new regulations today to allow federal savings and loan associations to offer variable interest rate mortgages to home buyers for the first time.

The regulations merely permit savings and loan associations to offer such mortgages. Not only would the associations have the choice, but homebuyers could choose between a fixed and a variable interest rate when borrowing from federally insured savings and loan associations.

The regulations contain provisions for the variable interest rate to fluctuate both up and down according to a specified index that would be readily available to the homebuyer.

Variable interest rates could result in changes for either the term of the mortgage or the monthly payment or both. A mortgage could be extended to a maximum maturity of 35 years.

Chairman Preston Martin said the variable rate mortgage would appeal to the home buyer who finds himself locked into loans with high interest rates without being able to refinance them except by penalty fees.

He also said that the change would make a home mortgage a more attractive investment, thus making money more readily available to borrowers, especially during tight-money situations.

Lenders like the idea because it offers protection against an inflationary impact as reflected by rising interest rates.

Rule Out Vote Machines

KENTON, Ohio (AP)—A judge today ruled unconstitutional voting machines used in more than 20 per cent of Ohio's counties.

Hardin County Common Pleas Court Judge Harry Kaylor ruled voting machines used in Hardin County elections were unconstitutional and void. Court sources had said the suit would apply to certain voting machines used in 18 other counties.

Kenton attorneys John Roof and Carlos Faulkner contended the machines were unconstitutional because candidates names are rotated on a precinct - to precinct basis rather than ballot to ballot. They said this means one candidate could have his name the top of the ballot in large precincts, thereby having an advantage in the voting.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown requested that he be included as defendant in the suit, along with the Hardin County Board of Elections.

Stock List Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices floated upward in moderate trading today, but the movement was mild compared with last week's rally.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 0.75 to 951.91. Advances led declines 631 to 509 among 1,510 issues traded on the Big Board.

Eldon Grimm of Walston & Co. said: "A lot of specific issues are strong. Low-priced speculative stocks are moving now, which indicates more public participation."

What some analysts called low-priced speculative issues included Boise Cascade, up ⅝ to 12, and Litton Industries, up ¼ to 14. Both have been depressed recently.

Varian Associates was the morning volume leader, unchanged at 20⅜. Other Big Board actives included Lubrizol, down ¼ to 49½; Extendicare, up ¼ to 19; and Illinois Power, down ¼ to 30¼.

Brumfield Is Released On Probation

Leon Brumfield, whose arrearage on support payments was one of the largest on record in the Pickaway County courts, entered a guilty plea at arraignment on a new charge of non-support brought by the recent grand jury and was found guilty of violating probation on the original non-support charge brought against him by his ex-wife.

Brumfield was brought back to this court from New Mexico to face the charges. After the court found him guilty in hearing Wednesday morning, it continued his probation under the same terms levied in July, 1970. He was ordered to pay an additional amount weekly to make up the arrearage.

Also scheduled to appear was William Dudding, Kingston, to face a charge of rape. When Dudding did not arrive for his court appearance, the court ordered a capias issued for his arrest and his attorney, Leo Hall, withdrew from the case.

Damon Wise, indicted for the grand theft of copper wire, appeared again for arraignment but entered no plea, seeking time to employ his own attorney and make bond.

Court Dismisses Appeal On Will

Court of Appeals for the Fourth District has affirmed a judgment issued in Pickaway County courts dismissing a claim by the heirs of the late M. E. Swackhammer.

The opinion filed today agrees with the local court's decision to dismiss the case, basing its action on the fact that it had been filed three years past the one year filing period allowed by law on a malpractice issue.

The district court ruled that the contestants of the will, who claimed that attorney E. A. Smith had been guilty of breach of duty growing out of a contract, could not seek damages under that law as it had no bearing in this particular case. The judges ruled that it would be appropriately filed as malpractice.

Marvin Swackhammer and others had appealed the judgment of the Pickaway County Common Pleas Court, alleging in their petition that Smith had drafted a will for their father contrary to his expressed desires and thereby his children were disinherited.

The heirs had contested the will earlier and it was overturned by the local court, but the Court of Appeals ruled against the petitioners when the matter was taken to the higher court.

Old Salts, Navy Wives Moan Over Women On Warships

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Many old Navy salts would prefer a girl in every port to one behind every porthole.

"It's unreal," moaned Chief Stan Plank as he nursed a drink Wednesday afternoon at the stag bar in a service club at the Naval Station.

Plank wasn't alone in his disbelief at the Navy's latest directive, one that will allow women to serve aboard combat vessels. Many of Plank's fellow Navy chiefs — the senior enlisted personnel in the service — echoed his misgivings about the order handed down Tueday by the Chief of Naval Operations, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt.

Their doubts about the program also were shared by many Navy wives who now have to wrestle with the thought of their husbands going out to sea for a half a year or more with women.

"You put men and women on a ship together for six months and you're going to have troubles," said Frances Dovale, whose husband is a steward aboard the carrier Independence.

Turning to a second-class petty officer at the door of the Navy exchange, she pointed a finger in his face and laughed. "Now, in six months, you know you're going to find a way."

"It's no place for a woman, claimed Mary Mountford. "If they want that, they ought to set them out on the battlefield.

"I think the woman's place is in the home with the children," added the mother of four whose husband is attached to a port services unit at the Naval Station.

To be sure, not all hands were knocking Zumwalt's directive. "Great, bring them on in," said a chuckling Chief C.W. Thomas of Washington.

"On a sub, we'd love it," said Petty Officer 2.C. John Pedroni, a torpedoman serving aboard the attack nuclear submarine Ray. But Pedroni added with a sigh that there was "no way" he could foresee women aboard the boats:

"We're out 70 to 80 days and they couldn't handle it," he said.

Some Navy wives have mixed feelings about the program. "I believe they can do it," said Nancy Lawless, whose husband is a first class machinist's mate aboard the guided missile destroyer Leahy. She paused and added: "Now, I don't know about seasickness. Women are kind of delicate, you know."

The prospects of friction among the crew members seemed to bother most chiefs. "Will they have morale problems!" predicted Chief Radioman Larry Fanagan.

Some chiefs expressed regret that the change was coming, but especially that it was coming before they would have a chance to go down to sea with sailors in ships.

"I'm going to be retired the first of September," said Chief Roy O'Quinn of Norfolk. "This should have been done 25 years ago."

Find High-Powered Beer Not Much Better Than 3.2

By JAMES STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Many a collegiate beer party has speculated that the amount of 3.2 beer necessary for intoxication is roughly equivalent to that needed to drown an elephant.

It's not true. In fact, by the time the elephant drowned, he'd probably be dead drunk.

The state Department of Liquor Control's advisory committee recently ordered laboratory tests of the so called "high-powered" beers and discovered that the highest alcohol content barely exceeded four per cent.

"The fact is that the idea of high-powered beer, of six or seven per cent alcohol content, is just a myth. Three-two (per cent) beer is not that much different," said Department Director Richard Guggenheim.

Richard Navarre, manager of Columbus' August Wagner Breweries, confirmed the finding.

"When I first went into the beer business, I was under the impression that 'high-powered' beer was up around six per cent."

"But the fact is, since the beginning of time at least in this country, beer has always been about four."

Ohio, like a number of other states, permits 3.2 per cent beer sales to 18-year-olds, but not the sale of hard liquor or other beer. Under local option clauses, some areas in the state permit only 3.2 sales.

That could change, in light of the laboratory tests, Guggenheim said.

"One of the things under consideration by the committee is just doing away with the 3.2 distinction in state law," he said.

He stressed, however, that the committee — made up of a cross-section of the liquor industry, legislators and other public groups — could only propose the move. The department, itself, he said, has taken no stand.

Guggenheim indicated that the test results came as a surprise to him.

"I know a lot of kids think they're really getting something with the 'high-powered' stuff and think, 'Gee, we're getting drunk,' but it's just psychological."

Money Bill Faces Likely Nixon Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a $30.5 billion appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare although there were predictions President Nixon would veto the bill.

The bill provides $1.76 billion in excess of what the President requested, including substantial increases for education and health purposes.

Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., said after the bill was approved by a 239 to 166 vote Wednesday that "the President will have no recourse but to veto it" since the bill would increase the budget deficit.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

A controversial provision seeks to limit expenditures for social services. The bill is expected to provide for allotment of social service funds on the basis of population, per capita income, welfare consolidation and "past experience in social service program delivery."

The bill is a compromise between an original House version providing $28.6 billion and a Senate version providing $31.3 billion. It is for the current fiscal year.

Another bill approved by the House and sent to the President would provide $13.4 billion for the Department of Agriculture and for environmental and consumer programs.

Tax Sharing Readied By Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has finished its work on the $29.8-billion revenue-sharing bill for cities and states.

Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said he hopes that congressional action, including settlement of differences with a House-passed revenue-sharing bill, will be completed before the break for the Republican National Convention.

Before sending the measure to the Senate floor, the committee Wednesday voted to phase out a matching program providing 75 per cent federal funds for social-service programs and replace it with grants totaling $1 billion a year beginning Jan. 1, 1973.

The committee added a provision for child-care and family-planning services for welfare mothers estimated to total $1 billion in the current fiscal year.

The committee bill calls for distribution of the $29.8-billion revenue-sharing fund on the basis of population, per capita income and tax effort.

The measure would reduce grants to 17 states and increase allocations to 33 states compared with criteria adopted earlier by the House.

Committee sources said that although allocations to the more populous states would be reduced, the largest cities generally would receive more money than under the House bill.

Bombs, Gunfire Rock Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Bombs and gunfire rocked the city of Armagh, the religious capital of all Ireland, Wednesday night after a day of mass protest by Northern Ireland's Roman Catholics.

Two bombs caused extensive damages in the center of the city, whose 120,000 population is half Catholic, and 15 shots were fired at troop patrols. There were no casualties, although one bullet buried itself in a soldier's flak jacket.

The violence in the seat of Ireland's Protestant and Catholic archibishops topped a day of gunfire and riot cross Northern Ireland as Catholics took to the streets to mark the first anniversary of the British Government's internment without trial laws.

Flu Vaccine Holds Hope For Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists say they have developed a new kind of vaccine which might head off a major, worldwide influenza epidemic and may eventually control the widespread disease.

The National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases Wednesday announced that development of the vaccine "holds future promise for the eventual control" of influenza.

Scientists who developed the preparation, administered as a nasal spray rather than by injection, said it might head off the flu epidemic forecast for the late 1970s.

In tests on prisoner-volunteers, the still-experimental vaccine gave complete protection to men exposed to the virulent Hong Kong-type germ, the institute said.

The scientists said the techniques employed in producing the new vaccine probably could be used to make other vaccines capable of combatting new strains of flu germs that might appear in the future.

The institute said the new vaccine must still undergo extensive trials and be licensed for manufacture before it can be made available to the public.

20 Men Graduate As Cincy Fire Cadets

CINCINNATI (AP) — Twenty young men will graduate Friday as the first class in the Cincinnati Fire Department's new cadet program.

The graduation ceremonies will be held in the Convention Exposition Center here. The cadets, who will now continue their training at local fire stations and at the Ohio College of Applied Sciences, have been in training in the Fire Department program since March 27.

Checkers Champion Hopes For Rebirth Of Interest

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Now that the United States has discovered chess, Alfred Barrow is hoping for a new interest in another old game: checkers.

Not just ordinary checkers like most kids play, but a complicated game called international checkers.

Barrow is the national champion and will represent the United States at a world tournament in Holland next year.

International checkers, he explained, is played on a board with 100 squares, rather than the usual 64, and there are 20 pieces on each side.

"In Europe, a checker tournament can draw 10,000 participants," the 23-year-old dockworker said. "In this country, they don't even manufacture the board. You've got to import it from overseas."

For some reason, Barrow said, big-board checkers in the United States seems to be played primarily by blacks.

"There are about 15 clubs organized in the country and most of the members are black," he said. "The largest club is ours in New Orleans. Blacks have been playing the game here for over 100 years."

Barrow said he started playing when he was 12 or 13, making the rounds of the game being played in barber shops, funeral homes and other unlikely spots.

A few weeks ago he packed his brown and beige board and traveled to Detroit to play a seven-game title match with defending champion Carl Smith, 51, of Chicago.

"I guess you could call it an upset," Barrow said. "He was a heavy favorite."

In the international game, a player can move his pieces backward or forward, and a king — a checker which has been crowned — can move any number of diagonal spaces like a bishop in chess.

The greater number of squares on the big board allows for more possibilities for moves and there are so many variations nobody has figured them all out yet, Barrow said.

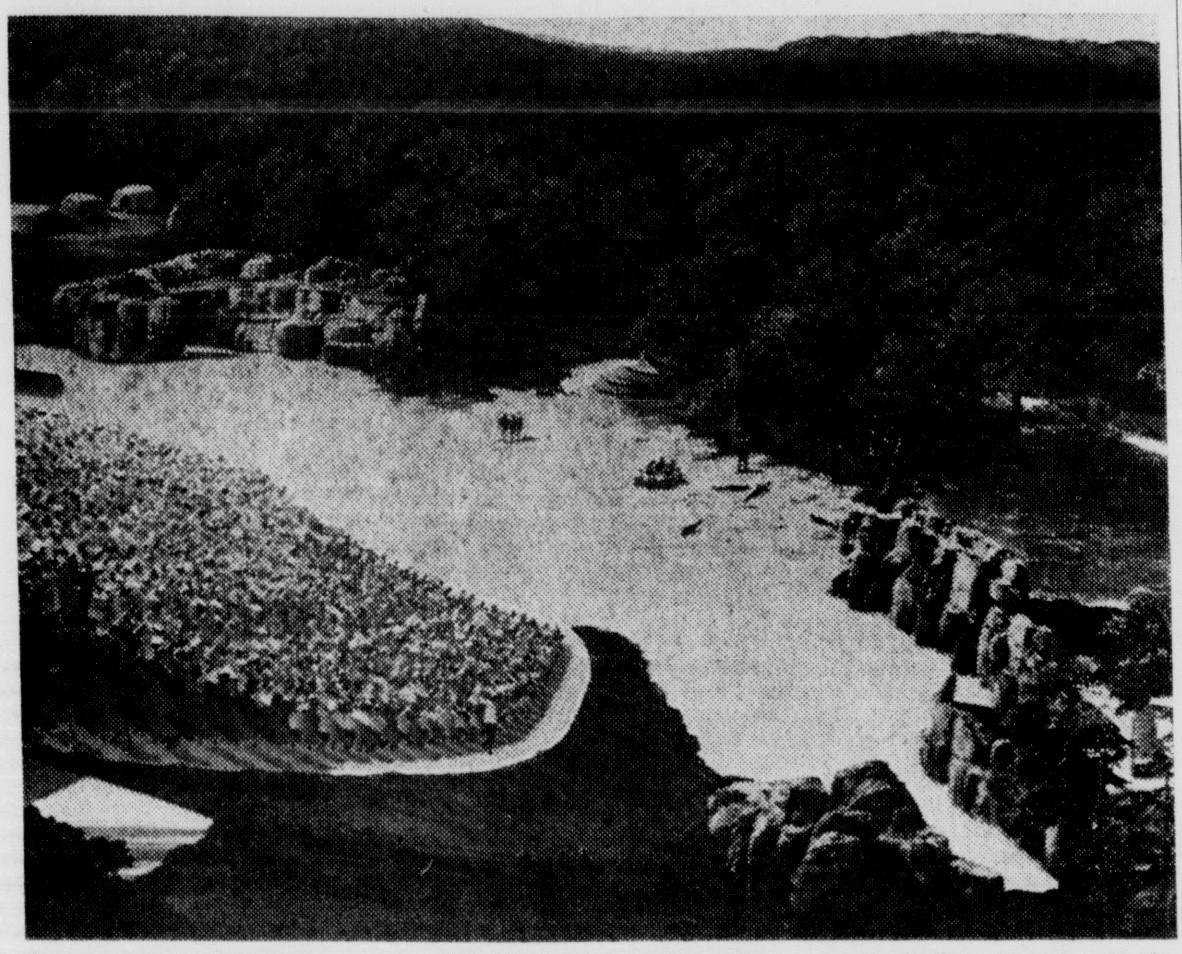
Cincy Orchestra, Shawnee Chief To Attend Dedication



DEDICATION PLANNED — Scioto Society has announced its agenda for the day - long celebration in honor of the Sugarloaf Mountain amphitheatre's dedication Sept. 8. That Saturday will be filled with music of all varieites and an ox roast in the late afternoon, closing with a "pops" concert by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. Several local singing groups and the Circleville Tiger Band will also be taking part in the ceremonies at the amphitheatre site.

A quiet hillside, in an area once populated by Indians of the Shawnee tribe, will be reawakened to its heritage and those Indians brought to life again when Allan Eckert's "Tecumseh!" takes the stage at the new and unique outdoor amphitheatre on Sugarloaf Mountain.

That amphitheatre, which will be capable of taking 1,600 persons nightly back into the past to view the struggle of the red man against the invading whites, will be dedicated Sept. 9.

Citizens of the Scioto Valley, who will reap the benefits of the historic drama and tourism, are invited to share in the celebration dedicating the outdoor theatre. A number of notable personages will be on hand to share the event, including the drama's author, and Arthur Roulette, tribal chief of the Shawnee Nation in Oklahoma.

The dedication is a full day's event, beginning at 12:30 with entertainment continuous throughout the afternoon and evening. The Scioto Society has obtained the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra which will present a "pops" concert under the stars, featuring music for every taste. This group's performance will close the entire day of festivities.

* * *

TO COVER expenses of the orchestra and to assist in funding construction of the outdoor drama site, the Society is selling tickets at three locations in the south central Ohio area. Locally, the ticket agency is at Yates Buick where tickets for the ox roast and the musical entertainment and dedication ceremonies may be purchased.

In Chillicothe, tickets are available at the Ross Highland Auto Assn., Main St., and in Waverly at Kalf's Lumber. Tickets have been on sale since Aug. 1.

Scioto Scociety has planned a full day of entertainment for veryone who comes to share the dedication of the amphitheatre which will be completed by then. The rain shelter and coordinating facilities will not yet be up, but the ceremony is a good opportunity for persons to get a first look at the quiet mountainide which offers a feeling of peace and solitude for all who come and provides the ideal setting for the theatre, and its play.

Beginning 12:30, high school bands from south central Ohio, will perform numerous musical selections. Circleville's Tiger Marching Band, directed by Gary Dean, will be among those bands participating.

Following the bands, guests will be entertained in a "wandering minstrel" style while they are enjoying a dinner at the ox roast. Serving will be from 3:30 until 5:30 p.m. A number of combos, quartets, trios, folk groups, and other musical units will perform in this informal style.

A choir from a Chillicothe church will then sing out with soulful and gospel music as its part of the day-long program.

* * *

DURING this time, visitors may view various displays covering the history of this area, Tecumseh and the Shawnee Indian tribes during the period of the drama, the late 18th century.

Or permit one of the numerous tour guides to offer a description of the amphitheatre's planning as they direct small groups around the site.

This amphitheatre is unique in the United States in its use of numerous and different leveled stages on which "Tecumseh!" will be performed. The stage (or stages) will stretch out beyond the seating area to include a Shawnee village far left and white man artillery emplacements to the extreme right. The back stage will be a small lake, representing a river on which much action in the play will take place.

The whole amphitheatre is enclosed in a leafy glen of tall trees which enclose it from the hectic pace of civilization.

At 7:30 p.m. the dedication ceremony begins. Political dignitaries and the play's author and Shawnee from Oklahoma will be among the special guests.

Following the official dedicatory ceremony, the Cincinnati Symphony will take the stage. Directed by Eric Kuntzel, the musicians will present a concert under the stars, closing the day's activities.

Horse-drawn carriages were introduced about 1600.

Views On TV-Radio

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Throughout TV land, the evening local news show often comes forth like an electronic age Chautauqua. About the only things missing are a banjo introduction and a Hopi band doing a ceremonial rain dance.

In perhaps 100 cities, local television stations have attempted to zap up news presentation in the highly successful manner achieved by New York's ABC Channel 7 "Eyewitness News."

The format calls for a variety of "communicators" in a relaxed and somewhat informal setting. They do not give the news so much as "discuss" it. The premise is that the viewer feels as though he is included in a conversation among well-informed, agreeable, exciting personalities.

At Channel 7, it works wonderfully well.

Elsewhere, the imitators sometimes fall into bad taste, stupidity and plain dumb demonstrations of their amateurism as actors and-or newsmen. At one station out West, for example, a report of a sordid murder was followed almost immediately by some childish by-play in which the on-camera "communicator" could not suppress laughter.

Back at ABC's Channel 7, on the 18th Floor of the executive building along Manhattan's Avenue of the Americas, sits the 37-year-old TV inventor of the new format: Albert T. Primo.

Sometimes, hearing of what is going on at other stations, he may ask what he hath wrought. If he doesn't, others do.

What hath you wrought, he was asked.

"The second generation ot television news journalism," he said. "We are serious and concientious as newmen. The difference with traditional TV journalim is that we are more informal and our reporting is made more understandable in the human terms of our viewers."

As to the news content and the approach to news, Primo said the key difference came in shifting emphasis from what happened to what does it mean to me?

It all began Nov. 17, 1968, with the Eyewitness label and Roger Grimsby, whose sort of tough guy, hardline, no-nonsense news reporter image projected a bit of the traditional, conventional newsman, and Bill Beutel, whose youthfulness and good looks had patent appeal for the pre-Geritol set, as coanchormen.

Primo also began to switch an old practice in the news business: instead of training reporters to become experts in various specialized fields, Primo trained the expert as newsmen.

And so, Frank Gifford, the flashy pro football star, and Jim Bouton, a more than literate baseball player, took on sports reporting chores. Kevin Sanders came on as the sort of house intellectual — an at-large critic on all matters cultural. Melba Tolliver, an attractive young black woman, was discovered in the ABC steno pool and was sent to school to learn journalism and return as a reporter. Geraldo Rivera, a Puerto Rican who was a store-front lawyer, is the show's people expert.

Asked whether this blend might not be the same as the cynical political ploy in which a party figures it needs one Catholic, one Jew, one Protestant, one black, one farmer, one this and one that, Primo said such factors played a role but that the thing was to find people who complemented one another and who worked well together.

One criticism of the format of such news shows is that there is a good bit of horseplay and inside gag which intrude on the delivery of new and tarnishes its quality. Primo said there was a danger that this could happen but that it was the job and duty of the news director or producer to keep the show disciplined.

What Primo hath wrought has had its rewards.

ABC-TV local news on Channel 7 moved from being noncompetitive (as far as the ratings) to by-passing both CBS and NBC.

For Primo it has brought him the 18th floor office and a new title: vice president news.

A quiet hillside, in an area once populated by Indians of the Shawnee tribe, will be reawakened to its heritage and those Indians brought to life again when Allan Eckert's "Tecumseh!" takes the stage at the new and unique outdoor amphitheatre on Sugarloaf Mountain.

That amphitheatre, which will be capable of taking 1,600 persons nightly back into the past to view the struggle of the red man against the invading whites, will be dedicated Sept. 9.

Citizens of the Scioto Valley, who will reap the benefits of the historic drama and tourism, are invited to share in the celebration dedicating the outdoor theatre. A number of notable personages will be on hand to share the event, including the drama's author, and Arthur Roulette, tribal chief of the Shawnee Nation in Oklahoma.

The dedication is a full day's event, beginning at 12:30 with entertainment continuous throughout the afternoon and evening. The Scioto Society has obtained the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra which will present a "pops" concert under the stars, featuring music for every taste. This group's performance will close the entire day of festivities.

TO COVER expenses of the orchestra and to assist in funding construction of the outdoor drama site, the Society is selling tickets at three locations in the south central Ohio area. Locally, the ticket agency is at Yates Buick where tickets for the ox roast and the musical entertainment and dedication ceremonies may be purchased.

In Chillicothe, tickets are available at the Ross Highland Auto Assn., Main St., and in Waverly at Kalf's Lumber. Tickets have been on sale since Aug. 1.

Scioto Scociety has planned a full day of entertainment for veryone who comes to share the dedication of the amphitheatre which will be completed by then. The rain shelter and coordinating facilities will not yet be up, but the ceremony is a good opportunity for persons to get a first look at the quiet mountainide which offers a feeling of peace and solitude for all who come and provides the ideal setting for the theatre, and its play.

Beginning 12:30, high school bands from south central Ohio, will perform numerous musical selections. Circleville's Tiger Marching Band, directed by Gary Dean, will be among those bands participating.

Following the bands, guests will be entertained in a "wandering minstrel" style while they are enjoying a dinner at the ox roast. Serving will be from 3:30 until 5:30 p.m. A number of combos, quartets, trios, folk groups, and other musical units will perform in this informal style.

A choir from a Chillicothe church will then sing out with soulful and gospel music as its part of the day-long program.

* * *

DURING this time, visitors may view various displays covering the history of this area, Tecumseh and the Shawnee Indian tribes during the period of the drama, the late 18th century.

Or permit one of the numerous tour guides to offer a description of the amphitheatre's planning as they direct small groups around the site.

This amphitheatre is unique in the United States in its use of numerous and different leveled stages on which "Tecumseh!" will be performed. The stage (or stages) will stretch out beyond the seating area to include a Shawnee village far left and white man artillery emplacements to the extreme right. The back stage will be a small lake, representing a river on which much action in the play will take place.

The whole amphitheatre is enclosed in a leafy glen of tall trees which enclose it from the hectic pace of civilization.

At 7:30 p.m. the dedication ceremony begins. Political dignitaries and the play's author and Shawnee from Oklahoma will be among the special guests.

Following the official dedicatory ceremony, the Cincinnati Symphony will take the stage. Directed by Eric Kuntzel, the musicians will present a concert under the stars, closing the day's activities.

Horse-drawn carriages were introduced about 1600.

NEW YORK (AP) — Throughout TV land, the evening local news show often comes forth like an electronic age Chautauqua. About the only things missing are a banjo introduction and a Hopi band doing a ceremonial rain dance.

In perhaps 100 cities, local television stations have attempted to zap up news presentation in the highly successful manner achieved by New York's ABC Channel 7 "Eyewitness News."

The format calls for a variety of "communicators" in a relaxed and somewhat informal setting. They do not give the news so much as "discuss" it. The premise is that the viewer feels as though he is included in a conversation among well-informed, agreeable, exciting personalities.

At Channel 7, it works wonderfully well.

Elsewhere, the imitators sometimes fall into bad taste, stupidity and plain dumb demonstrations of their amateurism as actors and-or newsmen. At one station out West, for example, a report of a sordid murder was followed almost immediately by some childish by-play in which the on-camera "communicator" could not suppress laughter.

Back at ABC's Channel 7, on the 18th Floor of the executive building along Manhattan's Avenue of the Americas, sits the 37-year-old TV inventor of the new format: Albert T. Primo.

Sometimes, hearing of what is going on at other stations, he may ask what he hath wrought. If he doesn't, others do.

What hath you wrought, he was asked.

"The second generation of televison news journalism," he said. "We are serious and concientious as newmen. The difference with traditional TV journaiim is that we are more informal and our reporting is made more understandable in the human terms of our viewers."

As to the news content and the approach to news, Primo said the key difference came in shifting emphasis from what happened to what does it mean to me?

It all began Nov. 17, 1968, with the Eyewitness label and Roger Grimsby, whose sort of tough guy, hardline, no-nonsense news reporter image projected a bit of the traditional, conventional newsman, and Bill Beutel, whose youthfulness and good looks had patent appeal for the pre-Geritol set, as coanchormen.

Primo also began to switch an old practice in the news business: instead of training reporters to become experts in various specialized fields, Primo trained the expert as newsmen.

'And so, Frank Gifford, the flashy pro football star, and Jim Bouton, a more than literate baseball player, took on sports reporting chores. Kevin Sanders came on as the sort of house intellectual — an at-large critic on all matters cultural. Melba Tolliver, an attractive young black woman, was discovered in the ABC steno pool and was sent to school to learn journalism and return as a reporter. Geraldo Rivera, a Puerto Rican who was a storefront lawyer, is the show's people expert.

Asked whether this blend might not be the same as the cynical political ploy in which a party figures it needs one Catholic, one Jew, one Protestant, one black, one farmer, one this and one that, Primo said such factors played a role but that the thing was to find people who complemented one another and who worked well together.

One criticism of the format of such news shows is that there is a good bit of horseplay and inside gag which intrude on the delivery of new and tarnishes its quality. Primo said there was a danger that this could happen but that it was the job and duty of the news director or producer to keep the show disciplined.

What Primo hath wrought has had its rewards.

ABC-TV local news on Channel 7 moved from being noncompetitive (as far as the ratings) to by-passing both CBS and NBC.

For Primo it has brought him the 18th floor office and a new title: vice president news.

Grand Jury Sets Probe Of Gambling

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—Under stern instructions from Judge Paul Stapleton, the Campbell County grand jury will spend August investigating crime conditions and checking a secret probe by Kentucky police.

Stapleton of Campbell Circuit Court said that he and Judge Fred Warren "are aware of a resurgence of criminal violations, including gambling, prostitution and many collateral infractions of the law."

Japan-U.S. Summit

It is good that President Nixon is going to meet personally with Japan's new prime minister, Kakuei Tanaka, in an effort to resolve some of the problems which exist between Japan and the United States. As other recent summits have shown, direct meetings between heads of state can do much to dissipate the fog which sometimes clouds the issues and prevents diplomatic progress.

Japan and the United States have much to talk about. The trade pattern which has developed between the two alone is good for top-level discussions. The volume of trade now flowing between the two countries ranks among the highest bilateral exchange in the world.

It is heavliy unbalanced in favor of Japan, with the Japanese surplus $3 billion to $4 billion a year. America's deficit with Japan is close to the total U.S. trade deficit.

Attempts to reduce the deficit have contributed to strained relations between Washington and Tokyo. The two-day meeting in Hawaii to begin Aug. 31, at the invitation of President Nixon, may cover a number of topics. The trade situation could become an increasing irritant if an amicable agreement is not soon found.

What Is It?

It is not exactly a subject to enjoin national debate, but the United States Department of Agriculture is trying to find out if consumers have ever heard of Italian-style sausage, and if they have what they think it is.

The cause of the strange survey was a meat packer's request to use "Italian-style sausage" as a description for one of his products. Apparently that posed something of a quandary in these regulated days.

Federal law requires, first of all, that the word "style" be included in the name of any meat product which includes the name of a place. So far so good.

However, adds the department, "when the word 'style' is used, there must be a recognized . . . product identified with and peculiar to the area represented by the geographic term." Consequently, the Agriculture Department is asking consumers to write to the colossus in Washington if they have any definite ideas about what Italian sausage might be.

Of such nonsense is bureaucracy constructed. Long before the department gets around to the meat of the matter, the packer most likely will give up and call his product bologna. Everyone knows what that is, don't they?

The Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon for the Nobel Peace Prize?

A proposal now being circulated is gathering thousands of signatures toward that end, and may be included in a petition sent to the prize committee in Oslo, Norway.

Even if it isn't, the solicitation of signatures is causing quite a flap in business and financial circles, where the proposal was first circulated by the magazine "Finance."

Finance's publisher, Elizabeth MacDonald Manning, claims that in about one month after her proposal was made in the issue published July 5 she has received 3,486 concurring messages and just 29 dissents.

Many of the reponses are from prominent government and business officials, and some are accompanied by fervid statements.

Among signatures claimed so far are G. Keith Funston, Olin Corp. chairman, Arthur Burns, Federal Reserve chairman, and Sen. Strom Thurmond, D—S.C.

But those dissents! Some might best remain unpublished, the kindest of them being, "You've got to be kidding," and the more sophisticated being constructed of words like "an unparalleled effrontery."

Some suggested that Mrs. Manning, who once was a public relations executive and who has a reputation for imagination and innovation, has self-interest at heart, a thought she dismisses as to petty to consider.

Mrs. Manning, whose magazine is widely circulated among U.S. and foreign diplomats, bankers, finance officers, government officials and money managers, claims the motivation is sincere. "He is building a lasting peace," she states.

"What the world has witnessed this year was the sudden conversion of an idealistic vision of peace ino a more realistic version of working together instead of fighting wars," she wrote in her proposal.

She explained later that in her view the President is carefully evolving a strategy of peace that ties the world into a trading whole in which each nation will benefit and each will have a stake in keeping the peace.

By implication, she suggests that American businessmen, having so much to offer, can only benefit, as will the entire American economy through the opening of markets and the introduction of new goods.

Her peace prize proposal was first published in the June issue but since then has been reproduced widely. Another copy was published recently as an ad in the Wall Street Journal.

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that throw straw bosses for losses:

"What do you have to do around here to get a merit raise besides work yourself into an early grave?"

"They just told me to report to somebody they call Loudmouth Harry. Are you the guy?"

"How's that again, chief? You'll have to run that order by me once more. I didn't get it the first time."

"He'd dock his own mother an hour's pay if she were two minutes late."

"Is this really my paycheck, Harry, or something you planned to give to the poor?"

"He's so cheap that after he gets to knowing you better, he'll start borrowing a sandwich from you every day for his lunch."

"I don't know why everybody it always picking on you, Loudmouth. It could have been a lot worse. What if, for example, they'd given us a boss with brains?"

Don't worry too much about Harry. Ever since he got his store teeth, his bark has been worse than his bite."

"How about it, Loudmouth? Do you put another bar of soap in the shower room, or do you want a strike on your hands?"

"If there is anything in the factory you want to steal, just put it in a wheelbarrow and wheel it out the gates. You'll never get caught. As long as you're pushing a wheelbarrow, Harry thinks you are working."

"Harry started as an executive trainee 30 years ago, but he never managed to get out of basic training."

"Harry, when you tell me something you want me to do, should I kneel and say thank you, or is it all right if I just throw you a salute?"

"Hey, Harry, wake up—it's quitting time!"

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The delays now taking place are for a very good reason so whatever projects or work you have in mind can be better accomplished by the extra time afforded you. The lessons you learn today also can stand you in good stead for a long time to come.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Although your work may be frustrating today, don't let it get you down. Persevere and you still can gain your objective. What you need is the proper rest. Avoid one who gossips.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You would like to handle a financial affair today, but it would be better to concentrate on the personal instead. Try to have better rapport with the one you love.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get away from family worries and go to the amusements you enjoy. Then return to them with renewed vigor. You are able to cultivate the right people and make headway in social life.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day to have dental or other professional work done, so make an appointment early and stop worrying. Attend the social this evening and dress in excellent style.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Contact logical thinking persons you know and get the advice you want. Be sure the advice you receive is not misleading. Show more devotion to mate tonight for mutual harmony.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It is wise to get a health checkup before you delve into civic work you have to do. Plan your activities for the future much more wisely. Don't scatter your energies haphazardly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make plans that will help you operate on a more modern theme and thereby derive greater benefits. Await a better time to take care of personal anxieties. You're too emotional right now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Concentrate on gaining personal aims now and find the right friends who can help you. Sidestep advisers who are cold and calculating right now. Don't rely too much on your intuition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day to confer with higher-up who is in a most irritable mood, but fine for discussing matters with an associate. Your intuitive faculties are working well. Rely on them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Overwork would gain nothing now except frustration. Making new contacts of worth is your best bet. Put a little more punch in your regular activities and gain far better results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An associate can be very amusing now, so sidestep obligations that are not too important and have fun. There are facets to your capabilities that have not yet been tapped.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There could be some changes in your personal and business life today, but it is for the best. You can easily be more sure of yourself now than you have for some time. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people who early in life shows a definite fastidiousness that increases with maturity. As parents, you should teach to keep an eye on the goal and not to be too engrossed in details. Then this becomes a very successful life. Art, fashion, music are fine here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I have several keloid scars on my back where cysts were removed.

I have been told that these ugly scars can be removed by surgery.

What assurance do I have that the same keloid scars will not return again as a result of the operation?

Miss C.S., Va.

Dear Miss S.:

A keloid is a firm, dense thickening of the skin that follows a wound, a laceration, or even the surgical removal of any skin tissue. Normally, skin wounds heal with a fine line that is thin and sometimes barely visible.

The elevated thickened keloid scar sometimes occurs without any known reason.

Doctors who perform surgery usually have no way of knowing who will heal with a keloid scar. It always comes as a disappointment to them, too, when this type of healing unexpectedly occurs.

Occasionally, a thickened scar may occur, even in people who do not have a keloid tendency if the wound has been infected.

Once a doctor is aware of the keloid tendency, as he would be in your case, he does have methods at his disposal to prevent their recurrence.

Intensive X-ray treatment of your new scar, shortly after the keloids are removed, may keep them from coming back. Some doctors have been enthusiastic about the use of cortisone and some chemicals to prevent the formation of keloids.

You must, of course, discuss with your doctor the possibility that keloids may come back. Only in this way can you avoid disappointment.

Four months ago I suffered a stroke, and my left arm and hand have been partly paralyzed.

The therapy treatments so far have not been helpful. Should I continue treatment?

Mr. A.P., La.

Dear Mr. P.:

Under no circumstance should you discontinue the physiotherapy treatments.

It is important tht the muscle tone of your arm and hand be maintained while waiting for the possibility of the return of normal function.

About one year ago, the right side of my jaw suddenly popped. It was painful and I could hardly open my mouth. This lasted a short while, and comes back every couple of weeks. The pain shoots to my ear, and I can hardly chew.

What kind of doctor takes care of such problems?

Mrs. M. H. T., SC.

Dear Mrs. T.:

Your story is typical of some problem in the jaw joint, almost invariably connected with a distortion of the dental bite. There are many dental surgeons who specialize in the treatment of this condition, which is known as temperomandibular joint disease.

You own dentist, who knows your condition, is in the best position to help you find such a specialist.

Poker Vs Chess

By JEFFERY HART

Leonid Brezhnev versus Richard Nixon is very much a chess player pitted against a poker player.

The style of the expert poker player has as its trademark the carefully calculated plunge. Soviet grand strategy, in contrast, resembles the slowly developing, systematic play of a chess master.

If you look at a map of the Eurasian land mass, Soviet grand strategy may be instantly grasped. It is classic, rational, and all the moves fit nicely into the overall design: a long-range, flanking operation with Western Europe as the ultimate politico-military target. On the northern flank, Findland is well within the Soviet orbit; Norway and Sweden are neutralized, and, in any case, completely outgunned. Soviet strategy doubtless envisions their increasing cooperation with Soviet aims. On the southern flank, Soviet power advanced westward in the Mediterranean and in North Africa. Oil and other natural resources fall under Soviet control. The strategic vise tightens on Western Europe. Soviet premiers come and go, but the great chess strategy moves steadily forward.

Nixon, in contrast, is a spectacular gambler, but also an exceptionally shrewd one. His moves are, characteristically, unpredictable and sometimes startling, but though they are often risky — much more so than Soviet moves — Nixon also takes care to minimize the risk involved. And Nixon's very unpredictability makes him difficult for the other players to counter.

For example, it is now being said that LBJ ought to have mined Haiphong and got the war over with long ago; that Nixon has shown that the Soviets would not do anything about it.

This argument is fallacious. First of all, Nixon had perceived that at the present time Soviet-Chinese hostility had deepended to the point where each power was more hostile to the other than either was to the U.S. This had the effect of reducing the chances of a U.S.-Soviet blowup over the mining. Nixon further minimized the risk with his Peking visit. The Soviets could never be sure what he and Chou had said to each other. And, as a sweetener, Nixon could hold out to the Soviets the hope of trade agreements: e.g., access to U.S. computer technology, to much-needed feed grains, and to credits for developing natural gas deposits in Siberia. Not all of these cards were similarly playable in 1964 when the Johnson Administration considered mining, and, in any case, the whole thing had to be carefully orchestrated.

Thus, when Nixon played his startling May 9 card and mined the ports, he did so in a specific and carefully prepared context. A gamble, yes, but not so great a gamble as it seemed to many.

The SALT agreements are clearly another large gamble. And so were the sudden moves in the international economic arena. If you lose on one of these hands, the cost could be very high indeed, but so far the poker player in the White House has shown a shrewd sense of the odds.

And, interestingly enough, Nixon actually was a poker player at one point, and a highly successful one. When he was a naval officer in the Pacific during World War II, he took up the game. "I had a theory for playing draw poker," an officer named Stewart told one of Nixon's biographers. "Nixon liked what I said. We played two-handed poker without money for four or five days, until he learned the various plays. Soon his playing became tops." Indeed, Nixon's Pacific poker winnings became the sole financial foundation for his post-war career.

On this date in 1792, the French monarchy was overthrown as mobs in Paris attacked the palace of King Louis IV.

On this date:

In 1821, Missouri became the 24th state.

In 1845, the U.S. Naval Academy was established at Annapolis, Md.

In 1914, France declared war on Austria-Hungary at the start of World War I.

In 1921, Franklin D. Roosevelt was stricken with polio at his summer home at Campobello Island in Canada.

In 1945, the Japanese offered to surrender in World War II if the emperor would be permitted to keep his throne.

In 1967, the people of Gibraltar voted to retain their link with Britain rather than return to Spanish sovereignty.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union rejected a proposed U.S. inspection plan as part of any disarmament agreement.

Five years ago: A U.S. commission on civil disorders recommended that the National Guard improve its riot training and recruit more negroes.

One year ago: In Northern Ireland, the death toll was put at 19 in three days of violence and terrorist acts.

Mrs. Nixon Tells Press That 'Any Career Is Noble'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "You don't have to go to college to have a career," Mrs. Richard Nixon told a gathering of newswomen.

She said there should be more training for persons who can't go to college.

"I think any career is noble' she said.

Displaying confidence and a gentle sense of humor, Mrs. Nixon held forth at a rare hour-long session with 16 invited newswomen in the yellow Oval Room of the White House family quarters.

She touched on subjects ranging from the presidential campaign and her opposition to "wholesale abortion on demand," to Secret Service worries about protecting the President.

She was asked to comment on protective measures in view of the disclosures during the trial of Arthur Bremer, convicted of shooting Gov. George Wallace, that Bremer had once stalked Nixon.

Secret Service officials, she said, are "terribly worried about it and feel that certain precautions should be taken. They're going to make these decisions and we'll have to mind."

Discussing the campaign, she defined the essential issue as she sees it:

"I think Dick has laid the course and now he wants to carry it out. He has done a marvelous job, at home and in peace fields, and he wants to see more of his plans progress."

Her personal campaign, she said, will involve "meeting all the people I can of every political faith."

She said Nixon has weathered his first term well, describing her husband as "a very steady, sturdy person . . . He also is not irritated by small things."

Mrs. Nixon also voiced hope there will be a woman in the Cabinet or on the Supreme Court in the next four years.

Engineers To Limit Lake Milton Level

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Youngstown Park and Recreation Commission has voted to have the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers limit the water level of Lake Milton.

The commissioners said that reducing the water level to four feet before the spillway would reduce pressure on the dam and dirt embankment, which have shown deterioration in recent years.

Japan-U.S. Summit

It is good that President Nixon is going to meet personally with Japan's new prime minister, Kakuei Tanaka, in an effort to resolve some of the problems which exist between Japan and the United States. As other recent summits have shown, direct meetings between heads of state can do much to dissipate the fog which sometimes clouds the issues and prevents diplomatic progress.

Japan and the United States have much to talk about. The trade pattern which has developed between the two alone is good for top-level discussions. The volume of trade now flowing between the two countries ranks among the highest bilateral exchange in the world.

It is heavliy unbalanced in favor of Japan, with the Japanese surplus $3 billion to $4 billion a year. America's deficit with Japan is close to the total U.S. trade deficit.

Attempts to reduce the deficit have contributed to strained relations between Washington and Tokyo. The two-day meeting in Hawaii to begin Aug. 31, at the invitation of President Nixon, may cover a number of topics. The trade situation could become an increasing irritant if an amicable agreement is not soon found.

What Is It?

It is not exactly a subject to enjoin national debate, but the United States Department of Agriculture is trying to find out if consumers have ever heard of Italian-style sausage, and if they have what they think it is.

The cause of the strange survey was a meat packer's request to use "Italian-style sausage" as a description for one of his products. Apparently that posed something of a quandary in these regulated days.

Federal law requires, first of all, that the word "style" be included in the name of any meat product which includes the name of a place. So far so good.

However, adds the department, "when the word 'style' is used, there must be a recognized . . . product identified with and peculiar to the area represented by the geographic term." Consequently, the Agriculture Department is asking consumers to write to the colossus in Washington if they have any definite ideas about what Italian sausage might be.

Of such nonsense is bureaucracy constructed. Long before the department gets around to the meat of the matter, the packer most likely will give up and call his product bologna. Everyone knows what that is, don't they?

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon for the Nobel Peace Prize?

A proposal now being circulated is gathering thousands of signatures toward that end, and may be included in a petition sent to the prize committee in Oslo, Norway.

Even if it isn't, the solicitation of signatures is causing quite a flap in business and financial circles, where the proposal was first circulated by the magazine "Finance."

Finance's publisher, Elizabeth MacDonald Manning, claims that in about one month after her proposal was made in the issue published July 5 she has received 3,486 concurring messages and just 29 dissents.

Many of the reponses are from prominent government and business officials, and some are accompanied by fervid statements.

Among signatures claimed so far are G. Keith Funston, Olin Corp. chairman, Arthur Burns, Federal Reserve chairman, and Sen. Strom Thurmond, D—S.C.

But those dissents! Some might best remain unpublished, the kindest of them being, "You've got to be kidding," and the more sophisticated being constructed of words like "an unparalleled effrontery."

Some suggested that Mrs. Manning, who once was a public relations executive and who has a reputation for imagination and innovation, has self-interest at heart, a thought she dismisses as to petty to consider.

Mrs. Manning whose magazine is widely circulated among U.S. and foreign diplomats, bankers, finance officers, government officials and money managers, claims the motivation is sincere. "He is building a lasting peace," she states.

"What the world has witnessed this year was the sudden conversion of an idealistic vision of peace ino a more realistic version of working together instead of fighting wars," she wrote in her proposal.

She explained later that in her view the President is carefully evolving a strategy of peace that ties the world into a trading whole in which each nation will benefit and each will have a stake in keeping the peace.

By implication, she suggests that American businessmen, having so much to offer, can only benefit, as will the entire American economy through the opening of markets and the introduction of new goods.

Her peace prize proposal was first published in the June issue but since then has been reproduced widely. Another copy was published recently as an ad in the Wall Street Journal.

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that throw straw bosses for losses:

"What do you have to do around here to get a merit raise besides work yourself into an early grave?"

"They just told me to report to somebody they call Loudmouth Harry. Are you the guy?"

"How's that again, chief? You'll have to run that order by me once more. I didn't get it the first time."

"He'd dock his own mother an hour's pay if she were two minutes late."

"Is this really my paycheck, Harry, or something you planned to give to the poor?"

"He's so cheap that after he gets to knowing you better, he'll start borrowing a sandwich from you every day for his lunch."

"I don't know why everybody it always picking on you, Loudmouth. It could have been a lot worse. What if, for example, they'd given us a boss with brains?"

Don't worry too much about Harry. Ever since he got his store teeth, his bark has been worse than his bite."

"How about it, Loudmouth? Do you put another bar of soap in the shower room, or do you want a strike on your hands?"

"If there is anything in the factory you want to steal, just put it in a wheelbarrow and wheel it out the gates. You'll never get caught. As long as you're pushing a wheelbarrow, Harry thinks you are working."

"Harry started as an executive trainee 30 years ago, but he never managed to get out of basic training."

"Harry, when you tell me something you want me to do, should I kneel and say thank you, or is it all right if I just throw you a salute?"

"Hey, Harry, wake up—it's quitting time!"

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The delays now taking place are for a very good reason so whatever projects or work you have in mind can be better accomplished by the extra time afforded you. The lessons you learn today also can stand you in good stead for a long time to come.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Although your work may be frustrating today, don't let it get you down. Persevere and you still can gain your objective. What you need is the proper rest. Avoid one who gossips.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You would like to handle a financial affair today, but it would be better to concentrate on the personal instead. Try to have better rapport with the one you love.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get away from family worries and go to the amusements you enjoy. Then return to them with renewed vigor. You are able to cultivate the right people and make headway in social life.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day to have dental or other professional work done, so make an appointment early and stop worrying. Attend the social this evening and dress in excellent style.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Contact logical thinking persons you know and get the advice you want. Be sure the advice you receive is not misleading. Show more devotion to mate tonight for mutual harmony.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It is wise to get a health checkup before you delve into civic work you have to do. Plan your activities for the future much more wisely. Don't scatter your energies haphazardly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make plans that will help you operate on a more modern theme and thereby derive greater benefits. Await a better time to take care of personal anxieties. You're too emotional right now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Concentrate on gaining personal aims now and find the right friends who can help you. Sidestep advisers who are cold and calculating right now. Don't rely too much on your intuition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day to confer with higher-up who is in a most irritable mood, but fine for discussing matters with an associate. Your intuitive faculties are working well. Rely on them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Overwork would gain nothing now except frustration. Making new contacts of worth is your best bet. Put a little more punch in your regular activities and gain far better results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An associate can be very amusing now, so sidestep obligations that are not too important and have fun. There are facets to your capabilities that have not yet been tapped.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There could be some changes in your personal and business life today, but it is for the best. You can easily be more sure of yourself now than you have for some time. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people who early in life shows a definite fastidiousness that increases with maturity. As parents, you should teach to keep an eye on the goal and not to be too engrossed in details. Then this becomes a very successful life. Art, fashion, music are fine here.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I have several keloid scars on my back where cysts were removed.

I have been told that these ugly scars can be removed by surgery.

What assurance do I have that the same keloid scars will not return again as a result of the operation?

Miss C.S., Va.

Dear Miss S.:

A keloid is a firm, dense thickening of the skin that follows a wound, a laceration, or even the surgical removal of any skin tissue. Normally, skin wounds heal with a fine line that is thin and sometimes barely visible.

The elevated thickened keloid scar sometimes occurs without any known reason.

Doctors who perform surgery usually have no way of knowing who will heal with a keloid scar. It always comes as a disappointment to them, too, when this type of healing unexpectedly occurs.

Occasionally, a thickened scar may occur, even in people who do not have a keloid tendency if the wound has been infected.

Once a doctor is aware of the keloid tendency, as he would be in your case, he does have methods at his disposal to prevent their recurrence.

Intensive X-ray treatment of your new scar, shortly after the keloids are removed, may keep them from coming back. Some doctors have been enthusiastic about the use of cortisone and some chemicals to prevent the formation of keloids.

You must, of course, discuss with your doctor the possibility that keloids may come back. Only in this way can you avoid disappointment.

Four months ago I suffered a stroke, and my left arm and hand have been partly paralyzed.

The therapy treatments so far have not been helpful. Should I continue treatment?

Mr. A.P., La.

Dear Mr. P.:

Under no circumstance should you discontinue the physiotherapy treatments.

It is important tht the muscle tone of your arm and hand be maintained while waiting for the possibility of the return of normal function.

About one year ago, the right side of my jaw suddenly popped. It was painful and I could hardly open my mouth. This lasted a short while, and comes back every couple of weeks. The pain shoots to my ear, and I can hardly chew.

What kind of doctor takes care of such problems?

Mrs. M. H. T., SC.

Dear Mrs. T.:

Your story is typical of some problem in the jaw joint, almost invariably connected with a distortion of the dental bite. There are many dental surgeons who specialize in the treatment of this condition, which is known as temperomandibular joint disease.

You own dentist, who knows your condition, is in the best position to help you find such a specialist.

Poker Vs Chess

By JEFFERY HART

Leonid Brezhnev versus Richard Nixon is very much a chess player pitted against a poker player.

The style of the expert poker player has as its trademark the carefully calculated plunge. Soviet grand strategy, in contrast, resembles the slowly developing, systematic play of a chess master.

If you look at a map of the Eurasian land mass, Soviet grand strategy may be instantly grasped. It is classic, rational, and all the moves fit nicely into the overall design: a long-range, flanking operation with Western Europe as the ultimate politico-military target. On the northern flank, Findland is well within the Soviet orbit; Norway and Sweden are neutralized, and, in any case, completely outgunned. Soviet strategy doubtless envisions their increasing cooperation with Soviet aims. On the southern flank, Soviet power advanced westward in the Mediterranean and in North Africa. Oil and other natural resources fall under Soviet control. The strategic vise tightens on Western Europe. Soviet premiers come and go, but the great chess strategy moves steadily forward.

Nixon, in contrast, is a spectacular gambler, but also an exceptionally shrewd one. His moves are, characteristically, unpredictable and sometimes startling, but though they are often risky — much more so than Soviet moves — Nixon also takes care to minimize the risk involved. And Nixon's very unpredictability makes him difficult for the other players to counter.

For example, it is now being said that LBJ ought to have mined Haiphong and got the war over with long ago; that Nixon has shown that the Soviets would not do anything about it.

This argument is fallacious. First of all, Nixon had perceived that at the present time Soviet-Chinese hostility had deepended to the point where each power was more hostile to the other than either was to the U.S. This had the effect of reducing the chances of a U.S.-Soviet blowup over the mining. Nixon further minimized the risk with his Peking visit. The Soviets could never be sure what he and Chou had said to each other. And, as a sweetener, Nixon could hold out to the Soviets the hope of trade agreements: e.g., access to U.S. computer technology, to much-needed feed grains, and to credits for developing natural gas deposits in Siberia. Not all of these cards were similarly playable in 1964 when the Johnson Administration considered mining, and, in any case, the whole thing had to be carefully orchestrated.

Thus, when Nixon played his startling May 9 card and mined the ports, he did so in a specific and carefully prepared context. A gamble, yes, but not so great a gamble as it seemed to many.

The SALT agreements are clearly another large gamble. And so were the sudden moves in the international economic arena. If you lose on one of these hands, the cost could be very high indeed, but so far the poker player in the White House has shown a shrewd sense of the odds.

And, interestingly enough, Nixon actually was a poker player at one point, and a highly successful one. When he was a naval officer in the Pacific during World War II, he took up the game. "I had a theory for playing draw poker," an officer named Stewart told one of Nixon's biographers. "Nixon liked what I said. We played two-handed poker without money for four or five days, until he learned the various plays. Soon his playing became tops." Indeed, Nixon's Pacific poker winnings became the sole financial foundation for his post-war career.

Mrs. Nixon Tells Press That 'Any Career Is Noble'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "You don't have to go to college to have a career," Mrs. Richard Nixon told a gathering of newswomen.

She said there should be more training for persons who can't go to college.

"I think any career is noble' she said.

Claim Of Viet Red 'Massacre' Downgraded By Newsman

EDITOR'S NOTE — Soldiers and fleeing civilians died in the South Vietnamese retreat from Quang Tri late in April. A State Department report has told of a massacre of 1,000 to 2,000 civilians by the North Vietnamese. An Associated Press correspondent who spent most of the past four months on the northern front examines the episode in the following analysis.

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of South Vietnamese were killed trying to escape from Quang Tri City before its fall. The slaughter was indiscriminate, by definition a massacre.

But from evidence at the scene and in the aftermath, the action April 29-30 was not "a deliberate North Vietnamese army massacre of helpless civilians," as State Department spokesman John King described it.

The carnage suggested a cold-blooded North Vietnamese resolve to stop all traffic on Highway 1, in callous disregard of civilian targets. But there was no evidence of a deliberate intent to single out the civilian refugees.

More than half the victims were South Vietnamese soldiers, and Washington's estimate of 1,000 to 2,000 dead seems inflated.

Interviews with survivors of the massacre and a visual inspection of the death site indicate 200 to 600 dead. Panic was a major contributing factor to the bloodshed.

North Vietnamese forces surrounded Quang Tri and cut Highway 1, its southern escape route to Hue, a week before the fall of the province capital. South Vietnamese marines who were given the job of reopening the highway fought their way to within eight miles of Quang Tri. Three convoys of South Vietnamese troops and civilians tried to flee southward on Highway 1 between April 24 and 30. They were ambushed by North Vietnamese forces entrenched on both sides of the highway, four to eight miles southeast of Quang Tri.

This correspondent was with South Vietnamese marines who fought their way to the southernmost ambush site April 30. Wounded survivors who passed the advancing marines said their convoy had been hit by mines, mortars, rocket grenades and small-arms fire from North Vietnamese dug in as close as 20 yards to the roadway.

According to the State Department, the North Vietnamese used antipersonnel artillery shells with fuses set for air bursts, which "shredded the refugee column" with sprays of shrapnel.

But frontline witnesses reported no air bursts before April 30 — any such would have killed troops of the enemy's own ambush force as well as the fleeing South Vietnamese.

Air bursts were fired by North Vietnamese gunners April 30; May 1 and many civilians were hit. By then the civilians were intermingled with South Vietnamese rangers fighting their way out of Quang Tri.

Only a small portion of one ambushed convoy was visible from the South Vietnamese lines in those last hectic days before the fall of Quang Tri. The full savagery of the slaughter did not become apparent until two months later, when Saigon's paratroopers returned to the scene at the spearhead of a counteroffensive. This correspondent was with the paratroopers.

Hundreds of wrecked vehicles and corpses littered a four-mile stretch of Highway 1. Four out of five vehicles were military — Jeeps, trucks, tanks, armored personnel carriers, artillery pieces and ambulances. Civilian vehicles included buses, motorcycles and bicycles.

Civilian and military vehicles were jumbled so close together it was obvious the North Vietnamese could not fire on one without hitting the other. The concentration of wreckage at certain points also indicated panic on the part of the South Vietnamese.

Convoy drivers appeared to have been so intent on fleeing Quang Tri they continued to drive into withering fire even after lead vehicles were hit and the highway was blocked.

Graves registration workers found 186 civilians dead at ambush sites.

It is not known how many military dead were recovered. South Vietnamese officials did not announce the military toll, and informants only knew of a burial service for 40 unidentified soldiers. It appears, however, that most of the victims were soldiers because most of the wrecked vehicles were military.

Several hundred bodies are believed to have been destroyed by decomposition over a two-month period in Quang Tri's searing dry season and through napalm strikes by American planes to prevent the enemy from using South Vietnamese military equipment at the ambush sites.

Bulldozers that cleared the highway at the start of Saigon's counteroffensive piled unrecognizable remains in heaps along with the wreckage of vehicles.

All this would seem to account for a maximum estimate of 600 dead.

One American here who says he contributed to the report asserts he clearly informed the State Department that 100-200 civilians had been killed in the ambushes. He could not explain how the figure had risen to 1,000 to 2,000 except to say: "There must have been a screwup somewhere along the line."

Ex-Japanese Airman Bares Plan To Bomb New York

By ROBERT LIU
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Tamotsu Takahashi was a 22-year-old airman in the Imperial Japanese Army and his country was at war with the United States.

Even so, he stiffened when he learned about his assignment: Bomb New York.

It was Aug. 9 1945 — and Japan's military leaders realized they were fast losing World War II. An atomic bomb annihilated Hirochima three days earlier; a second devastated Nagaski on Aug. 9

Japan surrendered on Aug. 14. But, meanwhile, its leaders cast about desperately for ways to turn the tide of defeat. Takahashi's mission — a one-way suicidal flight — grew out of this desperation.

He was a wireless operator at an air base north of Tokyo when he was ordered to report to another base for a secret mission.

"I didn't know what it was all about, and my superiors said nothing," Takahashi recalls. But he gradually pieced together details:

Three long-range KI77s, twin-engine planes developed for civilian use, were to be refitted. They would carry bombs, extra fuel and a crew of two: a pilot and a wireless operator-navigator.

Five years earlier, a KI77 and a crew of eight flew 10,200 miles non-stop on a circular route over Manchuria. This exceeded the 6,750 miles to New York, but allowance was being made for the heavy bomb load.

To guarantee success for the mission, Takahashi says, the planes were to climb to 29,00 feet where the eastbound jet stream would give them extra speed and distance.

Once over New York, the planes were to drop their bombs and then crash.

Claim Of Viet Red 'Massacre' Downgraded By Newsman

EDITOR'S NOTE — Soldiers and fleeing civilians died in the South Vietnamese retreat from Quang Tri late in April. A State Department report has told of a massacre of 1,000 to 2,000 civilians by the North Vietnamese. An Associated Press correspondent who spent most of the past four months on the northern front examines the episode in the following analysis.

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of South Vietnamese were killed trying to escape from Quang Tri City before its fall. The slaughter was indiscriminate, by definition a massacre.

But from evidence at the scene and in the aftermath, the action April 29-30 was not "a deliberate North Vietnamese army massacre of helpless civilians," as State Department spokesman John King described it.

The carnage suggested a cold-blooded North Vietnamese resolve to stop all traffic on Highway 1, in callous disregard of civilian targets. But there was no evidence of a deliberate intent to single out the civilian refugees.

More than half the victims were South Vietnamese soldiers, and Washington's estimate of 1,000 to 2,000 dead seems inflated.

Interviews with survivors of the massacre and a visual inspection of the death site indicate 200 to 600 dead. Panic was a major contributing factor to the bloodshed.

North Vietnamese forces surrounded Quang Tri and cut Highway 1, its southern escape route to Hue, a week before the fall of the province capital. South Vietnamese marines who were given the job of reopening the highway fought their way to within eight miles of Quang Tri. Three convoys of South Vietnamese troops and civilians tried to flee southward on Highway 1 between April 24 and 30. They were ambushed by North Vietnamese forces entrenched on both sides of the highway, four to eight miles southeast of Quang Tri.

This correspondent was with South Vietnamese marines who fought their way to the southernmost ambush site April 30. Wounded survivors who passed the advancing marines said their convoy had been hit by mines, mortars, rocket grenades and small-arms fire from North Vietnamese dug in as close as 20 yards to the roadway.

According to the State Department, the North Vietnamese used antipersonnel artillery shells with fuses set for air bursts, which "shredded the refugee column" with sprays of shrapnel.

But frontline witnesses reported no air bursts before April 30 — any such would have killed troops of the enemy's own ambush force as well as the fleeing South Vietnamese.

Air bursts were fired by North Vietnamese gunners April 30; May 1 and many civilians were hit. By then the civilians were intermingled with South Vietnamese rangers fighting their way out of Quang Tri.

Only a small portion of one ambushed convoy was visible from the South Vietnamese lines in those last hectic days before the fall of Quang Tri. The full savagery of the slaughter did not become apparent until two months later, when Saigon's paratroopers returned to the scene at the spearhead of a counteroffensive. This correspondent was with the paratroopers.

Hundreds of wrecked vehicles and corpses littered a four-mile stretch of Highway 1. Four out of five vehicles were military — Jeeps, trucks, tanks, armored personnel carriers, artillery pieces and ambulances. Civilian vehicles included buses, motorcycles and bicycles.

Civilian and military vehicles were jumbled so close together it was obvious the North Vietnamese could not fire on one without hitting the other. The concentration of wreckage at certain points also indicated panic on the part of the South Vietnamese.

Convoy drivers appeared to have been so intent on fleeing Quang Tri they continued to drive into withering fire even after lead vehicles were hit and the highway was blocked.

Graves registration workers found 186 civilians dead at ambush sites.

It is not known how many military dead were recovered. South Vietnamese officials did not announce the military toll, and informants only knew of a burial service for 40 unidentified soldiers. It appears, however, that most of the victims were soldiers because most of the wrecked vehicles were military.

Several hundred bodies are believed to have been destroyed by decomposition over a two-month period in Quang Tri's searing dry season and through napalm strikes by American planes to prevent the enemy from using South Vietnamese military equipment at the ambush sites.

Bulldozers that cleared the highway at the start of Saigon's counteroffensive piled unrecognizable remains in heaps along with the wreckage of vehicles.

All this would seem to account for a maximum estimate of 600 dead.

One American here who says he contributed to the report asserts he clearly informed the State Department that 100-200 civilians had been killed in the ambushes. He could not explain how the figure had risen to 1,000 to 2,000 except to say: "There must have been a screwup somewhere along the line."

Ex-Japanese Airman Bares Plan To Bomb New York

By ROBERT LIU
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Tamotsu Takahashi was a 22-year-old airman in the Imperial Japanese Army and his country was at war with the United States.

Even so, he stiffened when he learned about his assignment: Bomb New York.

It was Aug. 9 1945 — and Japan's military leaders realized they were fast losing World War II. An atomic bomb annihilated Hirochima three days earlier; a second devastated Nagaski on Aug. 9

Japan surrendered on Aug. 14. But, meanwhile, its leaders cast about desperately for ways to turn the tide of defeat. Takahashi's mission — a one-way suicidal flight — grew out of this desperation.

He was a wireless operator at an air base north of Tokyo when he was ordered to report to another base for a secret mission.

"I didn't know what it was all about, and my superiors said nothing," Takahashi recalls. But he gradually pieced together details:

Three long-range KI77s, twin-engine planes developed for civilian use, were to be refitted. They would carry bombs, extra fuel and a crew of two: a pilot and a wireless operator-navigator.

Five years earlier, a KI77 and a crew of eight flew 10,200 miles non-stop on a circular route over Manchuria. This exceeded the 6,750 miles to New York, but allowance was being made for the heavy bomb load.

To guarantee success for the mission, Takahashi says, the planes were to climb to 29,00 feet where the eastbound jet stream would give them extra speed and distance.

Once over New York, the planes were to drop their bombs and then crash.

Miss Deborah Lynn Harter Weds Dennis Boltenhouse

MRS. DENNIS LEE BOLTENHOUSE

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Deborah Lynn Harter and Mr. Dennis Lee Boltenhouse at 4 p.m. July 22nd in the Circleville Church of God.

The Rev. Melvin E. Harter Jr., brother of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony before the altar adorned with two large baskets of gladiolus and daisies flanked by candleabra. White satin bows on the pews added to the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Ray Sr., Route 1, Stoutsville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hoop, 213 Third Ave., Circleville.

Music was provided preceding the ceremony by Mrs. Dale Fogler of Tarlton.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor length embroidered white lace gown dotted with pearls. Streamers from a satin sash tied in a bow at the front fell softly down the A-line skirt which formed a brief train at the back. The bride's three tiered nylon veil was caught to a cluster of acetate and nylon lace daisies. She carried a bouquet of white daisies with satin streamers atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Kenneth Combs, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and maid of honor was Miss Vicky Williams. Bridesmaid was Miss Karen Williams and Miss Mary Jo Hoop, sister of the groom was junior bridesmaid.

The attendants all wore formal length gowns of airy polyeter sprinkled with green and yellow daisies over taffeta lining. They carried bouquets of yellow daisies.

Flower girl was Miss Kathy Hoop, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a blue full length dress with an empire waistline and satin bow and carried a basket of yellow and white daisies. Ring bearer was Master Robbie Davis, a cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother was attired in a pink dress with white accessories and the groom's mother chose a navy blue dres also with white accesories. Corages for the mother were of white canations.

A reception in the Service Center of Good Shepherd United Methodist Church followed the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. Melvin Harter of Tennessee, Mrs. Ronald Harter of Lancater, sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. Joseph Rundio of Ashville.

The new Mrs. Boltenhouse attended Amanda-Clearcreek High School. Mr. Boltenhouse graduated from Circleville High School and is employed at Reynolds Metals in Ashville.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Paul Stonerock, London; Mrs. Maxine Dixon and Larry of Ashville, Mrs. Richard Stevens of Stoutsville and Miss Terri Conrad of Amanda.

The couple now resides at 121½ E. Water St. in Circleville.

Wiseman Family Reunion Slated

On the 64th anniversary of its first meeting, the Wiseman Family Assn. will hold its 59th annual reunion August 27, on the campus of Rio Grande College, Rio Grande, Ohio. Organized in 1908 by the family of Isaac Wiseman, a soldier in the Revolutionary War, the first reunion was held on the farm of Isaac and his wife, Elizabeth, near New Salem, Ohio. Since that time, his descendants have spread to practically all states in the union.

However, qualifications for membership were changed some years ago to include all persons bearing the name of Wiseman and relatives or descendants thereof. The Assn. meets each year on the last Sunday in August.

The reunion begins with the traditional "basket" or "covered dish" dinner at noon in the college's Community Hall followed by a program and business meeting in the afternoon. Extensive genealogical records and information, along with pictures and photographs of ancestors and former reunion groups are displayed by family historians.

Acting president of the group is Robert N. Wiseman, Point Pleasant, W. Va. and secretary, Raymond, O. Wiseman of Huntington, W. Va.

Couple Weds In Kentucky

Sandra K. Greene became the bride of Edward A. Stewart Aug. 4th in Ashland, Ky.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Norris, Circleville and Robert Greene, Stoutsville. She is a 1970 graduate of Circleville High School.

Mr. Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Stewart, Wheelersburg, Ohio. He is a 1968 graduate of Waverly High School and is a former student of Bliss College in Columbus.

Personals

Mrs. Marvin Landers, Woodland, Calif., is visiting her mother, Mrs. R. M. Leach, 113 Northridge Road.

Acker-Kneece Reunion Planned

The Acker-Kneece Reunion will be held at Blendon Woods, near Westerville, beginning at noon Aug. 20th.

Morning Circle Has Program About Prayers

Morning WSCS Circle of Calvary United Methodist Church met recently in the church basement. President, Mrs. Dale DeLong opened the meeting by reading the poem "Sheer Joy."

Missionary Day at the Stoutsville Camp was attended by 15 members. A picnic dinner was served at the DeLong cabin with Mrs. Mack DeLong as hostess.

Announcement was made that the Clothing Center will be open the last Wednesday in August and articles are needed for children to wear for school.

Members were urged to save old eyeglasses, postage stamps, Betty Crocker coupon, nylon hose and plastic bags for projects being carried out in the society.

Reading course books were provided for those wishing to finish the required reading during the year. A greeting card was signed to be sent to Mrs. Minnie Lumpe.

The next scheduled meeting of the Christian Women's Club is from 11:45 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Aug. 16th at Pickaway Arms.

A district meeting is to be held Sept. 18th at Washington C.H. The annual meeting of the West Ohio Conference WSCS will be Sept. 29th in Worthington.

A tour to the United Nations was announced for Oct. 2-7th.

A brunch consisting of a variety of doughnuts, orange juice and tea and coffee were served.

For the program Mrs. Henry McCain and Mrs. DeLong presented a lesson on prayer, prayer requests and prayer healing.

The next meeting will be Sept. 12th with Mrs. James Salyer as program leader. Hostesses will be Mrs. Marion DeLong and Mrs. Francis Davis.

Shower Honors Ruth Good

Ruth Good, bride-elect of Henry E. Lochbaum, was recently honored with a miscellaneous shower at the Nazarene Fellowship Center decorated in a yellow and white color theme. Hostesses were Mrs. Kenneth Good, the honored guests mother and Rosemary Good, her sister.

Prizes won for games were awarded to Grace Lochbaum, Ruth Davis and Becky McCoy who in turn presented them to Miss Good.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to: Faye and Jackie Martin, Marilyn Good, Janie and Larry Lochbaum, Redith Lochbaum, Becky McCoy, Ellen Cox, Debbie Callihan, Linda Wynkoop, Mary Good, Debbie Davis, Ruth Davis, Ethel Martin, Rose Lauerman, Faye Sowers, Betty Snyder, Dorothy Snyder and Mary Alice Greenwood.

Sending gifts as they were unable to attend were Mrs. John Dennis Mrs. Marvin Nungester, Mrs. Robert Knopf, Iris Imler, Miriam Starkey, Donna Imler and Alfred Roberts, great-uncle of the bride.

Sorority To Visit German Village

Xi Eta Epsilon Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority will meet 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Schmidt's Sausage Haus, 240 E. Kossuth St., Columbus for lunch.

Members may enjoy shopping and touring German Village before and after lunch.

Missionary Society Hears Report On Camp Meeting

A report on Missionary Day was made at the August meeting of Women's Missionary Society of the Laurelville Church of God held at the church with 12 members and two guests attending. Devotions included prayer by Jo Hardman.

Margie Ebert related portions of the main speaker's message on Missionary Day at the Warsaw Camp Meeting. He said that we are to be missionaries at home first then in the community and abroad. To illustrate the need in a community he told of a recent experience in a city ghetto where children were asked "What are the signs of spring to you?" Their answers are: "More mud," "Mother gone more at night" and "more drunks on the street."

He said that we are hypocritical when we send money and men overseas in missionary work and never knock on a door at home. He quoted the verse ". . . Lo I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world" and said "no go — no lo." He advised each person to pray, "Reform the world Lord and begin with me."

Judy Summers and Charlotte Ash reported on the African Tea they attended at the camp.

The business meeting, presided over by Margie Ebert, president, began with members responding to roll call with a Bible verse containing the word harvest.

The annual Prayer Retreat will be held at the church on Aug. 22nd. It was decided to have a fish fry in September, a yard and bake sale in October and the holiday bazaar on Nov. 9th. Also announced was a miscellaneous shower to be held for a recent bride in the congregation, Mrs. Connie (McCabe) Lenox.

The goal of $500 for the Warsaw Building Fund was more than met and has been donated.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Marilyn Fry and refreshments were served by Carol Tatman and Ruth Reid.

Three new members, Mrs. Connie Hanley, Mrs. Vernon Harrison and Mrs. Charlene Riffle were welcomed.

Mrs. Kerns conducted the election with Mrs. Orlando Brown, president; Mrs. Curt Moss, vice president; Mrs. Tom Hutchinson, secretary and Mrs. Gene Kerns, secretary.

Mrs. Kerns expressed appreciation to members for their help during the past year and turned the remainder of the meeting over to the new president.

Job Opportunity Program Revived

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Greater Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce will revive its job opportunity program, Operation Native Son, Dec. 28-29 at the Cincinnati Convention-Exposition Center.

The object of the meetings will be to bring together graduating college seniors and industry representatives for mass interviews. Returning servicemen with college degrees will also be welcome.

The sessions are intended to supplement the on-campus interviewing programs conducted by many large companies but rarely by small firms, said a chamber spokesman.

Wedding Plans Are Finalized

Final plans have been made for the wedding of Miss Terry Lynn Carter to Charles Ronald Greenwood.

The ceremony will take place 2:30 p.m. Aug. 12th at the Williamsport United Mtthodist Church. The Rev. Richard Crosby will perform the open church ceremony.

Miss Deborah Lynn Harter Weds Dennis Boltenhouse

MRS. DENNIS LEE BOLTENHOUSE

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Deborah Lynn Harter and Mr. Dennis Lee Boltenhouse at 4 p.m. July 22nd in the Circleville Church of God.

The Rev. Melvin E. Harter Jr., brother of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony before the altar adorned with two large baskets of gladiolus and daisies flanked by candleabra. White satin bows on the pews added to the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Ray Sr., Route 1, Stoutsville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hoop, 213 Third Ave., Circleville.

Music was provided preceding the ceremony by Mrs. Dale Fogler of Tarlton.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor length embroidered white lace gown dotted with pearls. Streamers from a satin sash tied in a bow at the front fell softly down the A-line skirt which formed a brief train at the back. The bride's three tiered nylon veil was caught to a cluster of acetate and nylon lace daisies. She carried a bouquet of white daisies with satin streamers atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Kenneth Combs, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and maid of honor was Miss Vicky Williams. Bridesmaid was Miss Karen Williams and Miss Mary Jo Hoop, sister of the groom was junior bridesmaid.

The attendants all wore formal length gowns of airy polyeter sprinkled with green and yellow daisies over taffeta lining. They carried bouquets of yellow daisies.

Flower girl was Miss Kathy Hoop, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a blue full length dress with an empire waistline and satin bow and carried a basket of yellow and white daisies. Ring bearer was Master Robbie Davis, a cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother was attired in a pink dress with white accessories and the groom's mother chose a navy blue dres also with white accesories. Corages for the mother were of white canations.

A reception in the Service Center of Good Shepherd United Methodist Church followed the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. Melvin Harter of Tennessee, Mrs. Ronald Harter of Lancater, sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. Joseph Rundio of Ashville.

The new Mrs. Boltenhouse attended Amanda-Clearcreek High School. Mr. Boltenhouse graduated from Circleville High School and is employed at Reynolds Metals in Ashville.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Paul Stonerock, London; Mrs. Maxine Dixon and Larry of Ashville, Mrs. Richard Stevens of Stoutsville and Miss Terri Conrad of Amanda.

The couple now resides at 121½ E. Water St. in Circleville.

Wiseman Family Reunion Slated

On the 64th anniversary of its first meeting, the Wiseman Family Assn. will hold its 59th annual reunion August 27, on the campus of Rio Grande College, Rio Grande, Ohio. Organized in 1908 by the family of Isaac Wiseman, a soldier in the Revolutionary War, the first reunion was held on the farm of Isaac and his wife, Elizabeth, near New Salem, Ohio. Since that time, his descendants have spread to practically all states in the union.

However, qualifications for membership were changed some years ago to include all persons bearing the name of Wiseman and relatives or descendants thereof. The Assn. meets each year on the last Sunday in August.

The reunion begins with the traditional "basket" or "covered dish" dinner at noon in the college's Community Hall followed by a program and business meeting in the afternoon. Extensive genealogical records and information, along with pictures and photographs of ancestors and former reunion groups are displayed by family historians.

Acting president of the group is Robert N. Wiseman, Point Pleasant, W. Va. and secretary, Raymond, O. Wiseman of Huntington, W. Va.

Couple Weds In Kentucky

Sandra K. Greene became the bride of Edward A. Stewart Aug. 4th in Ashland, Ky.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Norris, Circleville and Robert Greene, Stoutsville. She is a 1970 graduate of Circleville High School.

Mr. Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Stewart, Wheelersburg, Ohio. He is a 1968 graduate of Waverly High School and is a former student of Bliss College in Columbus.

Personals

Mrs. Marvin Landers, Woodland, Calif., is visiting her mother, Mrs. R. M. Leach, 113 Northridge Road.

Morning Circle Has Program About Prayers

Morning WSCS Circle of Calvary United Methodist Church met recently in the church basement. President, Mrs. Dale DeLong opened the meeting by reading the poem "Sheer Joy."

Missionary Day at the Stoutsville Camp was attended by 15 members. A picnic dinner was served at the DeLong cabin with Mrs. Mack DeLong as hostess.

Announcement was made that the Clothing Center will be open the last Wednesday in August and articles are needed for children to wear for school.

Members were urged to save old eyeglasses, postage stamps, Betty Crocker coupon, nylon hose and plastic bags for projects being carried out in the society.

Reading course books were provided for those wishing to finish the required reading during the year. A greeting card was signed to be sent to Mrs. Minnie Lumpe.

The next scheduled meeting of the Christian Women's Club is from 11:45 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Aug. 16th at Pickaway Arms.

A district meeting is to be held Sept. 18th at Washington C.H. The annual meeting of the West Ohio Conference WSCS will be Sept. 29th in Worthington.

A tour to the United Nations was announced for Oct. 2-7th.

A brunch consisting of a variety of doughnuts, orange juice and tea and coffee were served.

For the program Mrs. Henry McCain and Mrs. DeLong presented a lesson on prayer, prayer requests and prayer healing.

The next meeting will be Sept. 12th with Mrs. James Salyer as program leader. Hostesses will be Mrs. Marion DeLong and Mrs. Francis Davis.

Shower Honors Ruth Good

Ruth Good, bride-elect of Henry E. Lochbaum, was recently honored with a miscellaneous shower at the Nazarene Fellowship Center decorated in a yellow and white color theme. Hostesses were Mrs. Kenneth Good, the honored guests mother and Rosemary Good, her sister.

Prizes won for games were awarded to Grace Lochbaum, Ruth Davis and Becky McCoy who in turn presented them to Miss Good.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to: Faye and Jackie Martin, Marilyn Good, Janie and Larry Lochbaum, Redith Lochbaum, Becky McCoy, Ellen Cox, Debbie Callihan, Linda Wynkoop, Mary Good, Debbie Davis, Ruth Davis, Ethel Martin, Rose Lauerman, Faye Sowers, Betty Snyder, Dorothy Snyder and Mary Alice Greenwood.

Sending gifts as they were unable to attend were Mrs. John Dennis Mrs. Marvin Nungester, Mrs. Robert Knopf, Iris Imler, Miriam Starkey, Donna Imler and Alfred Roberts, great-uncle of the bride.

Sorority To Visit German Village

Xi Eta Epsilon Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority will meet 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Schmidt's Sausage Haus, 240 E. Kossuth St., Columbus for lunch.

Members may enjoy shopping and touring German Village before and after lunch.

Missionary Society Hears Report On Camp Meeting

A report on Missionary Day was made at the August meeting of Women's Missionary Society of the Laurelville Church of God held at the church with 12 members and two guests attending. Devotions included prayer by Jo Hardman.

Margie Ebert related portions of the main speaker's message on Missionary Day at the Warsaw Camp Meeting. He said that we are to be missionaries at home first then in the community and abroad. To illustrate the need in a community he told of a recent experience in a city ghetto where children were asked "What are the signs of spring to you?" Their answers are: "More mud," "Mother gone more at night" and "more drunks on the street."

He said that we are hypocritical when we send money and men overseas in missionary work and never knock on a door at home. He quoted the verse ". . . Lo I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world" and said "no go — no lo." He advised each person to pray, "Reform the world Lord and begin with me."

Judy Summers and Charlotte Ash reported on the African Tea they attended at the camp.

The business meeting, presided over by Margie Ebert, president, began with members responding to roll call with a Bible verse containing the word harvest.

The annual Prayer Retreat will be held at the church on Aug. 22nd. It was decided to have a fish fry in September, a yard and bake sale in October and the holiday bazaar on Nov. 9th. Also announced was a miscellaneous shower to be held for a recent bride in the congregation, Mrs. Connie (McCabe) Lenox.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wife Finds Out Husband Is Engaged!

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a Navy man for three years. We have a darling baby. I thought we had a good marriage until last week when I flew home to see my parents in West Virginia. I sat next to a pretty blonde girl on the plane and we started talking. She told me her fiance was on "The ----", and she named the ship. That was the ship my husband was on. Then she showed me his picture and I nearly fainted.

Her "fiance" was MY husband! I couldn't contain my amazement, so I told her. Then it was her turn to nearly faint. The poor kid started to shake and cry and I had to calm her down. We spent the rest of the flight comparing notes. Abby, my husband was such a clever liar. He had this girl friend for over a year and I never suspected a thing.

The girl said she would never see my husband again and I believe her. I'm not sure how to handle this. I still love him, and there's the baby to consider. What should I do? I don't think I could ever trust him again.

HURT IN SEATTLE

DEAR HURT: Tell him you know about the "fiance" and ask him if he's ready to settle down and be a proper husband and father. One swallow doesn't make a summer, and one escapade doesn't ruin a marriage forever. Give him another chance, and don't mention it again.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard that it is considered bad manners to tip the owner of the shop even if she has done your hair, so I never do. But how about when you aren't sure if the hairdresser is a manager or if she is in on the profits? I once asked, "Do you accept tips," and the girl turned red and sputtered around and didn't know what to do.

Another time, when I tried to tip a hairdresser (a man) and he raised his eyebrows and said, "Puhleeze, I own this shop!"

I never know what to do. Help?

IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: When in doubt, offer a tip. For every "puhleeze," you'll get 100 "thank yous."

DEAR ABBY: We are three couples who enjoy going out for dinner together. When we go to a restaurant, we always divide the check up into thirds and it has always worked out fine.

Lately, however, this one couple seems to go overboard, fancy desserts, and more expensive dinners than the rest of us. We like this couple a lot and don't want to lose their friendship over this; but we don't like the extra expense.

Any suggestions?

X Y AND Z

DEAR X Y AND Z: When you order, ask for separate checks. Your friendship will last longer if you eliminate the cause of resentment.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO SWINGER IN LOUISVILLE": Tell your husband that you are no swinger and you didn't marry him to play musical beds. If he thinks "swinging" with a variety of different partners can "save" a marriage, he's mistaken. I can't think of anything that could kill it quicker.

Stoutsville

Mrs. Linda Miller of Rockledge, Fla. is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Justus in Circleville and grandmother Mrs. Nellie Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters, Bryan and Eddy of Georgia, are visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Estill Salyers and family were Friday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Conrad.

Mrs. Francis Floyd, Gene, Beth and Carla of Rochester, Mich., spent several days visiting Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Adams and family in Circleville and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Floyd and family.

Mrs. Mabel Estech and Mrs. George A. Stierhoff of Columbus visited Mrs. May Rhymer Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCain were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Conrad, also Mrs. Floyd Hughy and Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Angelo (Kathryn Lape) of Lancaster visited Mrs. May Rhymer Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. William R. McKenna (Joan Kefauver) and daughter Tracy of Alemeda, Calif. visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Woods Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Rhymer spent several days in Greenville, Ohio at a horse shoe pitching contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Conrad and daughters, Mrs. Mike McCain and son, Michael, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hashman were Sunday afternoon and evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Conrad.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Wynkoop, sons Jim, John, Mark and grandson Matthew Noble were Mr. and Mrs. John Heeter, Billy and Timmy of Columbus, Mrs. Georgia Zeimer and Mrs. A. B. Wynkoop.

The best lawns of all are fed both spring and fall!

The biggest single cause of disappointing lawns is underfeeding. All too many homeowners think that feeding in the spring takes care of the lawn's needs for the entire year. But it doesn't. No lawn food lasts that long. For your lawn's sake, replenish its food supply now to encourage fall's natural processes of developing new blades, intensifying color and thickening the weave.

TURF BUILDER is America's favorite lawn fertilizer. Applied now, it not only develops a thicker, sturdier and greener lawn this fall, it will also help your grass winter better and get off to a faster start next spring.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Wife Finds Out Husband Is Engaged!

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a Navy man for three years. We have a darling baby. I thought we had a good marriage until last week when I flew home to see my parents in West Virginia. I sat next to a pretty blonde girl on the plane and we started talking. She told me her fiance was on "The ----", and she named the ship. That was the ship my husband was on. Then she showed me his picture and I nearly fainted.

Her "fiance" was MY husband! I couldn't contain my amazement, so I told her. Then it was her turn to nearly faint. The poor kid started to shake and cry and I had to calm her down. We spent the rest of the flight comparing notes. Abby, my husband was such a clever liar. He had this girl friend for over a year and I never suspected a thing.

The girl said she would never see my husband again and I believe her. I'm not sure how to handle this. I still love him, and there's the baby to consider. What should I do? I don't think I could ever trust him again.

HURT IN SEATTLE

DEAR HURT: Tell him you know about the "fiance" and ask him if he's ready to settle down and be a proper husband and father. One swallow doesn't make a summer, and one escapade doesn't ruin a marriage forever. Give him another chance, and don't mention it again.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard that it is considered bad manners to tip the owner of the shop even if she has done your hair, so I never do. But how about when you aren't sure if the hairdresser is a manager or if she is in on the profits? I once asked, "Do you accept tips," and the girl turned red and sputtered around and didn't know what to do.

Another time, when I tried to tip a hairdresser (a man) and he raised his eyebrows and said, "Puhleeze, I own this shop!"

I never know what to do. Help?

IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: When in doubt, offer a tip. For every "puhleeze," you'll get 100 "thank yous."

DEAR ABBY: We are three couples who enjoy going out for dinner together. When we go to a restaurant, we always divide the check up into thirds and it has always worked out fine.

Lately, however, this one couple seems to go overboard, fancy desserts, and more expensive dinners than the rest of us. We like this couple a lot and don't want to lose their friendship over this; but we don't like the extra expense.

Any suggestions?

X Y AND Z

DEAR X Y AND Z: When you order, ask for separate checks. Your friendship will last longer if you eliminate the cause of resentment.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO SWINGER IN LOUISVILLE": Tell your husband that you are no swinger and you didn't marry him to play musical beds. If he thinks "swinging" with a variety of different partners can "save" a marriage, he's mistaken. I can't think of anything that could kill it quicker.

The best lawns of all are fed both spring and fall!

The biggest single cause of disappointing lawns is underfeeding. All too many homeowners think that feeding in the spring takes care of the lawn's needs for the entire year. But it doesn't. No lawn food lasts that long. For your lawn's sake, replenish its food supply now to encourage fall's natural processes of developing new blades, intensifying color and thickening the weave.

TURF BUILDER is America's favorite lawn fertilizer. Applied now, it not only develops a thicker, sturdier and greener lawn this fall, it will also help your grass winter better and get off to a faster start next spring.

P. (Eloise) Akers, Aug. 16; Leslie Fyffe, Vincent Tumeo, Lori Ellison, Donald Weimer, Sam Colter, Aug. 17; Darren Metger, Gene Grigsby Sr., Sharon Hildenbrand Osborne, Tamara Leigh McCarvey, Aug. 18; Terry Knox, Bill Hamman, John Mosley, Joyce McPherson, Gary Dearth, Leroy Newlon, Aug. 19.

It's happy anniversary time for Cecil and Judy Galloway Aug. 13; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Conley, Aug. 16; Joe and Nellie Wright, Aug. 17; the Michael Tarbills have Aug. 18; and for Mr. and Mrs. Franklin T. Riddle, Aug. 19.

Round-Up

Definitely Labor Day, Sept. 4, has been established as the annual Mustang Round-up for Westfall school district, so all of you can make a big X or a red circle of whatever is your favorite means of signifying an important date. It will be an all day affair this year with a variety of games, attractions, food concessions. Probably the highlight will be the Miss Mustang contest for any interested Westfall High School girl in grade nine through twelve. Details are still being firmed up.

Senior Citizens

Another word of reminder to any senior citizen (age 55 and over) who might be planning to attend the Ohio State Fair that tickets at half price can be purchased locally from me until Friday, Sept. 1. The ticket is good for any one day at the fair.

Fish Fry

Little League mothers and fathers extend a hearty come one, come all to a fund raising fish fry they are having this Saturday evening (Aug. 12) with serving from 4 until 8 p.m. On the menu will also be baked beans, potato salad, homemade pie and a beverage. The place to go is the American Legion Hall (just down the street from were Esther Reed and her two also be provided for those who so desire.

Dance

Now, after you have eaten a dandy fish dinner and helped the Little League fellows, why not meander up the street to the Pavilion and be a part of the Williamsport Volunteer Fire Dept. 50-50 dance, starting at 8 p.m. Even if dancing isn't your forte, there are seats available for listening to the toe tapping music provided by Jim Cochenour and his Pioneers. What is more fun than "dancer watching"? And it is all for a worthy cause.

Kings Island is the "in" place to go this summer and many villagers have made the scene. The most recent fun seekers were Esther Reedsand hr two, "Bobbie" and Jeff and enjoying the day with them was Carlos Rodriguez of Mexico City who is with the Dale Elliott family for a couple of months. Carlos was an eager visitor to our county fair since he had never experienced the like before in his life. The same held true for our Carmen.

This week the Beattys — Ron Cora Lee, Cindy, Brad — and their guests, Pam Williams and John Allen Graffis were Kings Islanders. One of the bright spots of their day was wacthing the Partridge family perform. Wow! they will be the envy of every teen-ager around. These kids dig the Partridges!

Ahhh! but it is good news in "Williamsportville" tonight. Our good friend John Steinhauser who suffered a heart attack several weeks ago and has been a patient at Mt. Carmel Hospital came home today to continue his recuperating. We all sincerely hope he recuperates to full and complete recovery.

John and his ever lovin' Minnie will welcome callers on a limited time basis. It will be necessary for John to mind his p's and q's from the doctor for quite some time yet and like all persons who have been seriously ill he needs to take it slow and easy. Welcome home John!

To continue with the good news, and still in the Steinhauser family too, it is our pleasure to report to one and all that Spec. 4 Steve Steinhauser has completed his year's tour of duty in Vietnam and is safely stateside and home fireside as well. Steve will be here until Sept. 10 and then will report to a base in Texas. At the present Steve and his wife (former Joy Welsh) are at home in Grove City. When he leaves for Texas Joy plans to be with him.

Welcome home Steve!

Keeping it all in the family let us bring you news of the Marion Steinhausers. Former rsidents of our town, Roundtown and also Marion, Ohio they have for a number of years resided in Winter Haven, Fla. Marion and his mate (the former Gretchen Graham of Clarksburg) send word that their son Dana enlisted in the Air Force for four years. On July 18 he arrived at Lackland Air Force Base.

His address is: AB Dana L. Steinhauser FR 295 509 686 PSC 5 5 QDN 3708 Flight 0893 Lackland AFB Texas 78236. I am certain he would be most happy to hear from friends who remember either him or his parents.

Arriving late Tuesday evening from Mackinac Island, Mich. where they have spent the summer were Big Mike and Ruth McCafferty. They will be with daughters Sandy Duvall, Margene Looney and their respective families and son Mike McCafferty and his redheads for a few days. Usually they winter in Scottsdale, Ari. but the say plans are to remain here at home base. So welcome home, Mike and Ruth!

Taking advantage of this "deliciously" cool weather, yours truly, daughters Amy, Becki and Carmen trekked off to Columbus today (Wednesdfay for a spot of getting ready for school shopping and a bit of a visit with our dearly beloved Aunt Sylvia Easterday and Uncle Edwin. Isn't it great to have relatives who are also truly good friends?

Hey Ronnie! Hey Terry! those countdown hours have begun — just a bit of "funning" for our about to be wed couple — Ron Greenwood and Terry Carter. Saturday, Aug. 12 is tHAT DAY!

Thought for this week: A good marriage is that in which each appoints the other guardian of his solitude" (Poet Rainer Maria Rilke).

Espionage Trial Goes To Judge

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Charges that M. Sgt. Walter T. Perkins tried to pass vital defense secrets to a Soviet spy in Mexico City go to a military judge for deliberation today.

Col. Joseph Peck will consider a verdict in the espionage case against Perkins, a 20-year Air Force veteran, at the conclusion of final arguments by attorneys.

Both sides rested their cases Wednesday.

The Air Force introduced testimony that five documents allegedly stolen by Perkins were crucial to protecting the nation against air invasion and the defense presented testimony from Perkins' Japanese-born wife Michiko.

She said through an interpreter that her husband consumed as much as a fifth of scotch whisky a day, often collapsed on the kitchen floor in a stupor and beat their children when drunk.

Perkins, 37, a father of four from Palo Verde, Calif., pleaded innocent by reason of temporary insanity due to acute alcoholism.

Battle Losses Dip In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The total of South Vietnamese military casualties last week was the lowest since the first week of the North Vietnamese offensive, and enemy casualties were the highest in three weeks, the South Vietnamese command anounced today.

The U.S. Command said seven Americans were killed and 36 wounded in action during the week, compared to a weekly average of nine killed and 31 wounded during the previous 18 weeks of the offensive. Three other Americans died of nonhostile causes.

The South Vietnamese command said 2,250 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed during the week, while 463 government troops were killed, 2,115 were wounded and 114 were missing.

Man Puts Himself On Rack In Quest To Be Policeman

DETROIT (AP) — "All through life," says Sanshiro Miyamoto, "the shorter person always has to do more to prove himself."

For Miyamoto, that little something extra includes whacks on the head. And sleep in traction, with weights hung from his feet. And a neck brace.

No medical problem confronts Miyamoto, but rather a desperate desire to become a cop.

When he applied for a spot on the Detroit force in April, Miyamoto was found to be two inches short of the 67-inch height required of city policemen.

But he said his decision had been made: "I woke up and realized I was 30 and that half of my life was over. For the rest of my life I want to be a policeman. I've made up my mind and that's it."

For two months, his wife pulled daily at a chain on his ankles, he slept in traction with weights hung from his feet and he wore a brace to push up his neck — all in an attempt to straighten his spine and put more space between his vertebrae.

After gaining a little, he had his wife whack him over the head with a board, hoping to raise a bump large enough to get him past the height test.

But at his last examination he was still a half - inch too short, and Miyamoto is back to the whacks and the traction and the brace.

"There's no question about this man's desire to be a policeman," said Lt. Kenneth P. Hlady of the police recruiting office.

How The Weather Looks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

A cold high pressure area settled over Ohio during the night, breaking low temperature marks for this date in many areas.

Toledo reported 45 degrees just before daybreak. The reading was five degrees below the previous record for the date. Other areas around the Buckeye State reported lows in the upper 40s.

The high pressure area will remain over the state today, producing abundant sunshine. Today's highs will be mostly in the 70s. Tonight's lows will be mostly in the 50.

The high pressure sytem will move to the east tonight and Friday. This will allow southerly winds to bring warm and humid air to Ohio on Friday. Highs Friday will reach the 80s.

FORECASTS

Clear and cool tonight. Lows in the 50s. Sunny and warmer Friday. Highs in the 80s.

LAKE SHORE, NORTHEAST INLAND, EAST CENTRAL, NORTHWEST INLAND— Clear and cool tonight. Lows in the upper 40s or low 50s. Mostly sunny andf warmer Friday. Highs in t 80s.

WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST, SOUTHEAST — Clear and cool tonight. Lows in the 50s. Mostly sunny and warmer Friday. Highs in the 80s.

Nursing Homes Face Closure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Welfare Department has given 18 nursing homes in the state until Sept. 1 to license their administrators or face closing.

The Ohio Nursing Home Association had reported Wednesday that 48 homes were in danger of closing, but the welfare department said that number was a count last week.

Uner a 1970 federal law, all nursing homes must have licensed administrators or be barred from participating in Medicaid programs providing health care for welfare recipients.

It's happy anniversary time for Cecil and Judy Galloway Aug. 13; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Conley, Aug. 16; Joe and Nellie Wright, Aug. 17; the Michael Tarbills have Aug. 18; and for Mr. and Mrs. Franklin T. Riddle, Aug. 19.

Round-Up

Definitely Labor Day, Sept. 4, has been established as the annual Mustang Round-up for Westfall school district, so all of you can make a big X or a red circle of whatever is your favorite means of signifying an important date. It will be an all day affair this year with a variety of games, attractions, food concessions. Probably the highlight will be the Miss Mustang contest for any interested Westfall High School girl in grade nine through twelve. Details are still being firmed up.

Senior Citizens

Another word of reminder to any senior citizen (age 55 and over) who might be planning to attend the Ohio State Fair that tickets at half price can be purchased locally from me until Friday, Sept. 1. The ticket is good for any one day at the fair.

Fish Fry

Little League mothers and fathers extend a hearty come one, come all to a fund raising fish fry they are having this Saturday evening (Aug. 12) with serving from 4 until 8 p.m. On the menu will also be baked beans, potato salad, homemade pie and a beverage. The place to go is the American Legion Hall (just down the street from were Esther Reed and her two also be provided for those who so desire.

Dance

Now, after you have eaten a dandy fish dinner and helped the Little League fellows, why not meander up the street to the Pavilion and be a part of the Williamsport Volunteer Fire Dept. 50-50 dance, starting at 8 p.m. Even if dancing isn't your forte, there are seats available for listening to the toe tapping music provided by Jim Cochenour and his Pioneers. What is more fun than "dancer watching"? And it is all for a worthy cause.

Kings Island is the "in" place to go this summer and many villagers have made the scene. The most recent fun seekers were Esther Reedsand hr two, "Bobbie" and Jeff and enjoying the day with them was Carlos Rodriguez of Mexico City who is with the Dale Elliott family for a couple of months. Carlos was an eager visitor to our county fair since he had never experienced the like before in his life. The same held true for our Carmen.

This week the Beattys — Ron Cora Lee, Cindy, Brad — and their guests, Pam Williams and John Allen Graffis were Kings Islanders. One of the bright spots of their day was wacthing the Partridge family perform. Wow! they will be the envy of every teen-ager around. These kids dig the Partridges!

Ahhh! but it is good news in "Williamsportville" tonight. Our good friend John Steinhauser who suffered a heart attack several weeks ago and has been a patient at Mt. Carmel Hospital came home today to continue his recuperating. We all sincerely hope he recuperates to full and complete recovery.

John and his ever lovin' Minnie will welcome callers on a limited time basis. It will be necessary for John to mind his p's and q's from the doctor for quite some time yet and like all persons who have been seriously ill he needs to take it slow and easy. Welcome home John!

To continue with the good news, and still in the Steinhauser family too, it is our pleasure to report to one and all that Spec. 4 Steve Steinhauser has completed his year's tour of duty in Vietnam and is safely stateside and home fireside as well. Steve will be here until Sept. 10 and then will report to a base in Texas. At the present Steve and his wife (former Joy Welsh) are at home in Grove City. When he leaves for Texas Joy plans to be with him.

Welcome home Steve!

Keeping it all in the family let us bring you news of the Marion Steinhausers. Former rsidents of our town, Roundtown and also Marion, Ohio they have for a number of years resided in Winter Haven, Fla. Marion and his mate (the former Gretchen Graham of Clarksburg) send word that their son Dana enlisted in the Air Force for four years. On July 18 he arrived at Lackland Air Force Base.

His address is: AB Dana L. Steinhauser FR 295 509 686 PSC 5 5 QDN 3708 Flight 0893 Lackland AFB Texas 78236. I am certain he would be most happy to hear from friends who remember either him or his parents.

Arriving late Tuesday evening from Mackinac Island, Mich. where they have spent the summer were Big Mike and Ruth McCafferty. They will be with daughters Sandy Duvall, Margene Looney and their respective families and son Mike McCafferty and his redheads for a few days. Usually they winter in Scottsdale, Ari. but the say plans are to remain here at home base. So welcome home, Mike and Ruth!

Taking advantage of this "deliciously" cool weather, yours truly, daughters Amy, Becki and Carmen trekked off to Columbus today (Wednesdfay for a spot of getting ready for school shopping and a bit of a visit with our dearly beloved Aunt Sylvia Easterday and Uncle Edwin. Isn't it great to have relatives who are also truly good friends?

Hey Ronnie! Hey Terry! those countdown hours have begun — just a bit of "funning" for our about to be wed couple — Ron Greenwood and Terry Carter. Saturday, Aug. 12 is tHAT DAY!

Thought for this week: A good marriage is that in which each appoints the other guardian of his solitude" (Poet Rainer Maria Rilke).

Espionage Trial Goes To Judge

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Charges that M. Sgt. Walter T. Perkins tried to pass vital defense secrets to a Soviet spy in Mexico City go to a military judge for deliberation today.

Col. Joseph Peck will consider a verdict in the espionage case against Perkins, a 20-year Air Force veteran, at the conclusion of final arguments by attorneys.

Both sides rested their cases Wednesday.

The Air Force introduced testimony that five documents allegedly stolen by Perkins were crucial to protecting the nation against air invasion and the defense presented testimony from Perkins' Japanese-born wife Michiko.

She said through an interpreter that her husband consumed as much as a fifth of scotch whisky a day, often collapsed on the kitchen floor in a stupor and beat their children when drunk.

Perkins, 37, a father of four from Palo Verde, Calif., pleaded innocent by reason of temporary insanity due to acute alcoholism.

Battle Losses Dip In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The total of South Vietnamese military casualties last week was the lowest since the first week of the North Vietnamese offensive, and enemy casualties were the highest in three weeks, the South Vietnamese command anounced today.

The U.S. Command said seven Americans were killed and 36 wounded in action during the week, compared to a weekly average of nine killed and 31 wounded during the previous 18 weeks of the offensive. Three other Americans died of non-hostile causes.

The South Vietnamese command said 2,250 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed during the week, while 463 government troops were killed, 2,115 were wounded and 114 were missing.

Man Puts Himself On Rack In Quest To Be Policeman

DETROIT (AP) — "All through life," says Sanshiro Miyamoto, "the shorter person always has to do more to prove himself."

For Miyamoto, that little something extra includes whacks on the head. And sleep in traction, with weights hung from his feet. And a neck brace.

No medical problem confronts Miyamoto, but rather a desperate desire to become a cop.

When he applied for a spot on the Detroit force in April, Miyamoto was found to be two inches short of the 67-inch height required of city policemen.

But he said his decision had been made: "I woke up and realized I was 30 and that half of my life was over. For the rest of my life I want to be a policeman. I've made up my mind and that's it."

For two months, his wife pulled daily at a chain on his ankles, he slept in traction with weights hung from his feet and he wore a brace to push up his neck — all in an attempt to straighten his spine and put more space between his vertebrae.

After gaining a little, he had his wife whack him over the head with a board, hoping to raise a bump large enough to get him past the height test.

But at his last examination he was still a half - inch too short, and Miyamoto is back to the whacks and the traction and the brace.

"There's no question about this man's desire to be a policeman," said Lt. Kenneth P. Hady of the police recruiting office.

How The Weather Looks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Here is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

A cold high pressure area settled over Ohio during the night, breaking low temperature marks for this date in many areas.

Toledo reported 45 degrees just before daybreak. The reading was five degrees below the previous record for the date. Other areas around the Buckeye State reported lows in the upper 40s.

The high pressure area will remain over the state today, producing abundant sunshine. Today's highs will be mostly in the 70s. Tonight's lows will be mostly in the 50.

The high pressure sytem will move to the east tonight and Friday. This will allow southerly winds to bring warm and humid air to Ohio on Friday. Highs Friday will reach the 80s.

FORECASTS

Clear and cool tonight. Lows in the 50s. Sunny and warmer Friday. Highs in the 80s.

LAKE SHORE, NORTHEAST INLAND, EAST CENTRAL, NORTHWEST INLAND— Clear and cool tonight. Lows in the upper 40s or low 50s. Mostly sunny andf warmer Friday. Highs in t 80s.

WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST, SOUTHEAST — Clear and cool tonight. Lows in the 50s. Mostly sunny and warmer Friday. Highs in the 80s.

Nursing Homes Face Closure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Welfare Department has given 18 nursing homes in the state until Sept. 1 to license their administrators or face closing.

The Ohio Nursing Home Association had reported Wednesday that 48 homes were in danger of closing, but the welfare department said that number was a count last week.

Uner a 1970 federal law, all nursing homes must have licensed administrators or be barred from participating in Medicaid programs providing health care for welfare recipients.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

The column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Is damage from a flood or hurricane considered a casualty loss for Federal income tax purposes?

A. Yes. Damage from a hurricane, flood or storm is considered a casualty loss if you actually sustained a loss. A personal casualty loss may be deductible to the extent that each loss exceeds $100. A casualty loss on business property or property held for the production of income is deductible in full, without regard to the $100 limitation. However, in both cases, the loss must be reduced by any insurance voceeds received, or expected to be received. For further information, IRS Publication 547, "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and Thefts," may be obtained free by sending a postcard to your Internal Revenue district office.

Q. What information should a taxpayer be prepared to show in order to justify a casualty loss deduction?

A. To establish a casualty loss deduction, you should be prepared to show: 1. the nature of the casualty and when it occurred; 2. that the loss was the direct result of the casualty; 3. that you were the owner of the property; 4. the cost or other basis of the property, evidenced by purchase contract, deed, etc. (improvements should be supported by checks, receipts, etc.); 5. depreciation allowed or allowable, if any; 6. value before and after the casualty; and 7. the amount of insurance or other compensation received or recoverable, including the value of repairs, restoration, and cleanup provided without cost by disaster relief agencies.

Photographs of your property before it was damaged, after the casualty and after it is repaired may be helpful in proving loss.

Q. I filed my Federal income tax return in March and still have not received my refund. What should I do?

A. Writhe the Internal Revenue Service Center where your return was filed. Be sure to give your name, current address, social security number and the approximate date your return was filed.

Q. I'm making the down payment on a home as a wedding gift for my son. Will he have to pay tax on it?

A. No. A gift is not taxable to the recipient. However, depending upon the size of the gift, the donor may have to file a quarterly gift tax return, Form 709, and pay a gift tax A return must be filed for the calendar quarter in which an individual's gifts to any one person for the year exceed $3000.

The next due date for the quarterly return is Aug. 15, 1972. Forms are available at IRS offices.

Blue Cross Rate Boost Too Small?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Even if its current rate increase request is granted, Blue Cross of Central Ohio probably will lose money next year on its non-group, direct pay subscribers, an official said Wednesday.

"With approval of the rate increase, our non-group losses for 1973 will exceed income if hospital costs increase in excess of 6 per cent, which they likely will," Howard C. Franz, the group's president, said.

Testifying at a Ohio Insurance Department hearing on the proposed increase, Franz said the $1.3 million annual rate hike would affect subscribers in 28 counties who receive their bills at home by mail.

Under the proposal, rates for individuals would increase from $8.90 to $10.75 per month and for families from $17.10 to $21.75 in Blue Cross' 70-day hospital contracts.

Rates in the "preferred' 120-day contracts would go from $11.65 to $14.55 for individuals and from $25.90 to $30.60 for families.

State Insurance Director said a decision on the request will be issued within 30 days after conclusion of testimony today in the two-day hearing.

Fight Gas Firm Plan

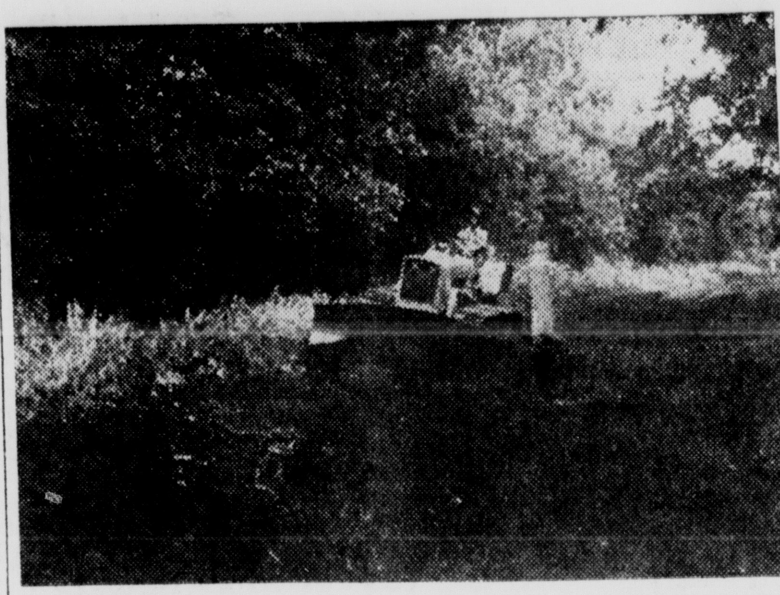
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP — Two of the state's major utilities say they will continue to oppose the proposed acquisition of Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. by the American Electric Power Co. of New York.

The Dayton Power and Light Co. and the Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co. reiterated their opposition after Ohio's municipal electric systems agreed to the merger.

The Ohio Municipal Electric Association announced it was dropping its opposition after AEP's decision to sell a new generating unit to American Municipal Power-Ohio if the merger were approved.

The unit would more than double AMP's current generating capacity. The municipal systems had contended the merger would put them at a competitive disadvantage in large-scale generation of power.

The promised merger currently is before the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.



RAILWAY — John Owens, Route 1, of A & O Excavating, levels the parking lot for the Hocking Valley Scenic Railway located at Nelsonville. The engine for the line, which is presently completed from Nelsonville to Carbon Hill, arrived last weekend, and the railroad will begin limited operation this weekend.

Itinerant Wheat Harvester Wants To Go Out On Own

HOLYOKE, Colo. (AP) — "I think I'm just burnt out," says Lonnie Pauls of his career as a nomadic wheat harvester. "I started cutting when I was 14, and I will be 22 in a few weeks."

The wheat combines starts each May in Texas, accompanied by teams of helpers called "stubblebums" or "wheaties," and work their way north to the fields in Canada by late September or October.

"The first three or four years are really fun," said Pauls. "It isn't that I mind cutting wheat, but more that I just want to see if I can go out and make it on my own."

During the winter home for the sun-burned youth is Buhler, Kan. From spring through autumn he is on the road as the No. 1 driver for his father, Ike, and his father's partner, Elmer Adrian.

"I have friends from Texas to Montana — good friends, people I could just drop in on," says Pauls. "You put in a lot of hours and hard work, but you see a lot of new country and make a hell of a lot of friends."

And even being away from home and folks can be an advantage, he confides. "I have seen some kids grow up in a hurry out here."

Pauls says he is not sure what job he will substitute for the one he has had for seven years, and admits he may eventually decide to rejoin the combines on their annual harvesting treks.

"I just want to try it on my own for a while. Dad and Elmer have worked hard for what they have ... one of the best wheat-harvest runs of anybody I know of. After a couple of years I might want to come back."

In the meantime, though, the monotony of thousands of tons of summer grains has taken a toll on the 21 year-old, and he longs for a different gold.

Audits Disclose Fund Shortages In School, Village

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Joseph Ferguson has reported shortages in a Belmont County School lunchroom account and in several Nelsonville city accounts.

The report Wednesday noted a $538 discrepancy between receipts and deposits in the lunchroom account at Mead School in Shadyside. School district officials said the loss was "unexplained."

Ferguson ordered Nelsonville Mayor Donald Bumgardner to repay a $119 shortage in the mayor's court fund. Bumgarder suggested, however, that court records may not have shown that some traffic fines are paid by installment rather than lump sums.

Eight Nelsonville city councilmen were told to repay $75 in raises received during the first three months of the year. Ferguson noted that Ohio law does not permit raises to be granted during an elected official's term of office.

The word halo — a circle of light — comes from the Greek name for a threshing floor on which oxen walked a circular path by going round and round the floor.

Auto Accidents Claim 4 Lives In Buckeye State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least four persons died in Ohio traffic accidents late Wednesday, and an elderly Toledo woman died in a crash just north of the Ohio-Michigan border.

Three died in a car-truck smashup at the intersection of Ohio 119 and U.S. 127 south of Celina. The dead were identified as Monica Thom, 16, and her mother Catherine, 53, both of Bascom, passengers in the car, and Randall Hayes, 28, of Deshler, driver of the truck.

William Jack Workman, 32, of Louisa, Ky., died when the truck he was driving left Ohio 73 south of the Highland-Adams county line and overturned in a farm pond.

Killed in the two-car smashup in Michigan was Nellie Hull, 80, of Toledo.

September 6 School Opening Is Scheduled Throughout City

Fritz F. Jacobs, Superintendent, announced today that the Circleville City Schools are rapidly being prepared for school opening on September 6. New additions at Nicholas Drive Elementary and Circleville High School will be ready and furniture is now being placed in these areas. Building renovation at all buildings is on schedule as maintenance and custodial crews continue the summer maintenance requirements.

School bus routes have been reviewed and will be announced in the Herald prior to the opening of school. They are generally the same as last year but will include transporting kindergarten students, both to and from school if the student is eligible, due to living more than one mile from the school assigned.

Certificated staff positions are all filled, including the special Federal and State programs. Additional positions have included a school psychologist, an additional junior high guidance counselor, an additional E.M.R. class, a learning disabilities class, all certificated librarians at the elementary schools, a full time principal at Nicholas Drive Elementary, five additional teachers at Nicholas and two additional teachers at Cir-Circleville High School.

Additional custodial time was provided at Nicholas Drive and Circlevillt High School.

Students new to the school district who have not yet registered should do so immediately at the junior high (grades 7-8-9). New elementary students, or those who have not yet registered for kindergarten or first grade, should register in the Superintendent's Office located in the junior high building. A birth certificate and immunization record should be submitted at the time of registration.

High school students new to the district (grades 10-11-12) should begin registering Aug. 14 at the high school. Registration hours at all locations are 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m.

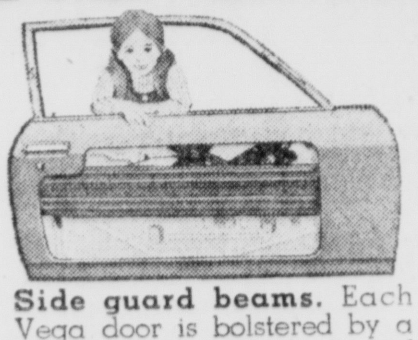
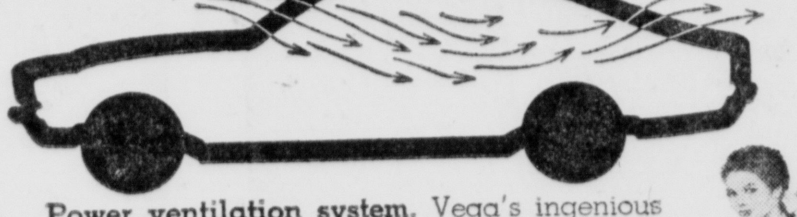
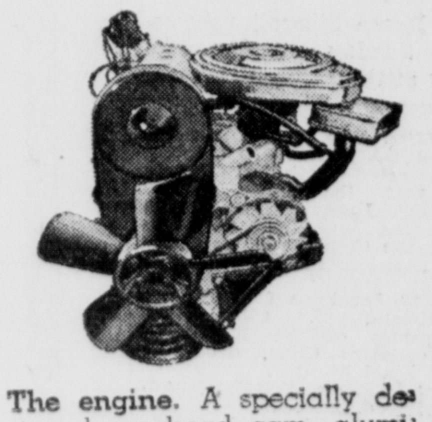
IT'S EASY TO MAKE AN ECONOMY CAR THAT SELLS FOR A FEW DOLLARS LESS THAN VEGA.
JUST LEAVE OUT THESE IMPORTANT FEATURES:

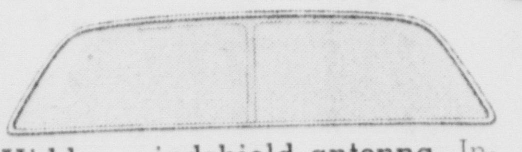




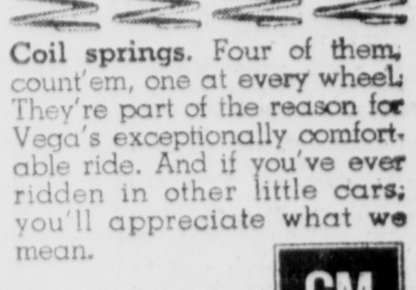
Side guard beams. Each Vega door is bolstered by a hefty steel beam that looks and works pretty much like the guard rails you see along a highway. You can't see them, but take our word they're there.
Power ventilation system. Vega's ingenious way to keep outside air continuously circulating inside even when the car is standing still and your windows are rolled up.



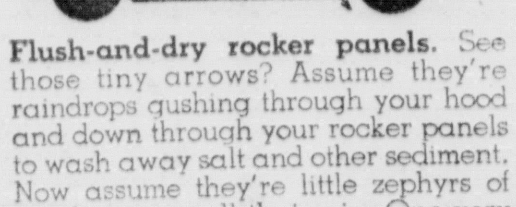
The engine. A specially designed overhead cam, aluminum block, 4-cylinder power plant. Big words to match an impressive performance. It delivers far more horsepower for its size than other little cars plus gas mileage that's right up there with the best of them.

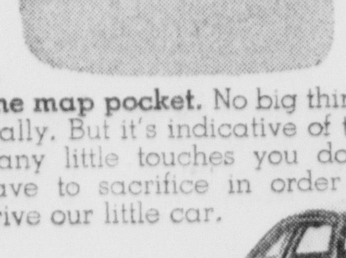


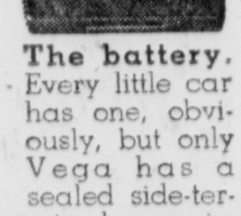
Hidden windshield antenna. Included when you order a factory installed AM or AM/FM radio.
Full foam bucket seats. No half-way measures here—full deep foam for your bottom and back, tapering up to form a built in head restraint. Very sporty, as well as comfortable, to go along with the rest of the interior.
Disc Brakes. Each front wheel of a Vega sports a big standard 10-inch disc brake for smooth stops.



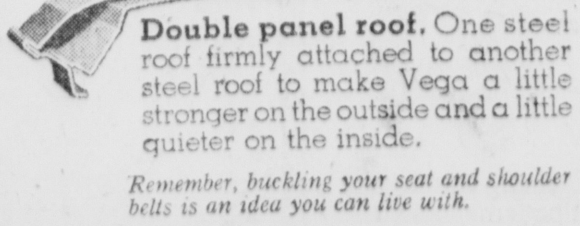
Coil springs. Four of them, count'em, one at every wheel. They're part of the reason for Vega's exceptionally comfortable ride. And if you've ever ridden in other little cars, you'll appreciate what we mean.







Flush-and-dry rocker panels. See those tiny arrows? Assume they're raindrops gushing through your hood and down through your rocker panels to wash away salt and other sediment. Now assume they're little zephyrs of air drying up all that rain. One very effective way to fight ugly rust.
The map pocket. No big thing, really. But it's indicative of the many little touches you don't have to sacrifice in order to drive our little car.
GM MARK OF EXCELLENCE
The battery. Every little car has one, obviously, but only Vega has a sealed side-terminal energizer-type battery. Which means your terminals will probably never corrode.



Double panel roof. One steel roof firmly attached to another steel roof to make Vega a little stronger on the outside and a little quieter on the inside.
Remember, buckling your seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

The column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Is damage from a flood or hurricane considered a casualty loss for Federal income tax purposes?

A. Yes. Damage from a hurricane, flood or storm is considered a casualty loss if you actually sustained a loss. A personal casualty loss may be deductible to the extent that each loss exceeds $100. A casualty loss on business property or property held for the production of income is deductible in full, without regard to the $100 limitation. However, in both cases, the loss must be reduced by any insurance voceeds received, or expected to be received. For further information, IRS Publication 547, "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and Thefts," may be obtained free by sending a postcard to your Internal Revenue district office.

Q. What information should a taxpayer be prepared to show in order to justify a casualty loss deduction?

A. To establish a casualty loss deduction, you should be prepared to show: 1. the nature of the casualty and when it occurred: 2. that the loss was the direct result of the casualty; 3. that you were the owner of the property; 4. the cost or other basis of the property, evidenced by purchase contract, deed, etc. (improvements should be supported by checks, receipts, etc.); 5. depreciation allowed or allowable, if any; 6. value before and after the casualty; and 7. the amount of insurance or other compensation received or recoverable, including the value of repairs, restoration, and cleanup provided without cost by disaster relief agencies.

Photographs of your property before it was damaged, after the casualty and after it is repaired may be helpful in proving loss.

Q. I filed my Federal income tax return in March and still have not received my refund. What should I do?

A. Writhe the Internal Revenue Service Center where your return was filed. Be sure to give your name, current address, social security number and the approximate date your return was filed.

Q. I'm making the down payment on a home as a wedding gift for my son. Will he have to pay tax on it?

A. No. A gift is not taxable to the recipient. However, depending upon the size of the gift, the donor may have to file a quarterly gift tax return, Form 709, and pay a gift tax A return must be filed for the calendar quarter in which an individual's gifts to any one person for the year exceed $3000.

The next due date for the quarterly return is Aug. 15, 1972. Forms are available at IRS offices.

Blue Cross Rate Boost Too Small?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Even if its current rate increase request is granted, Blue Cross of Central Ohio probably will lose money next year on its non-group, direct pay subscribers, an official said Wednesday.

"With approval of the rate increase, our non-group losses for 1973 will exceed income if hospital costs increase in excess of 6 per cent, which they likely will," Howard C. Franz, the group's president, said.

Testifying at a Ohio Insurance Department hearing on the proposed increase, Franz said the $1.3 million annual rate hike would affect subscribers in 28 counties who receive their bills at home by mail.

Under the proposal, rates for individuals would increase from $8.90 to $10.75 per month and for families from $17.10 to $21.75 in Blue Cross' 70-day hospital contracts.

Rates in the "preferred' 120-day contracts would go from $11.65 to $14.55 for individuals and from $25.90 to $30.60 for families.

State Insurance Director said a decision on the request will be issued within 30 days after conclusion of testimony today in the two-day hearing.

Fight Gas Firm Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP — Two of the state's major utilities say they will continue to oppose the proposed acquisition of Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. by the American Electric Power Co. of New York.

The Dayton Power and Light Co. and the Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co. reiterated their opposition after Ohio's municipal electric systems agreed to the merger.

The Ohio Municipal Electric Association announced it was dropping its opposition after AEP's decision to sell a new generating unit to American Municipal Power-Ohio if the merger were approved.

The unit would more than double AMP's current generating capacity. The municipal systems had contended the merger would put them at a competitive disadvantage in large-scale generation of power.

The promised merger currently is before the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

RAILWAY — John Owens, Route 1, of A & O Excavating, levels the parking lot for the Hocking Valley Scenic Railway located at Nelsonville. The engine for the line, which is presently completed from Nelsonville to Carbon Hill, arrived last weekend, and the railroad will begin limited operation this weekend.

Itinerant Wheat Harvester Wants To Go Out On Own

HOLYOKE, Colo. (AP) — "I think I'm just burnt out," says Lonnie Pauls of his career as a nomadic wheat harvester. "I started cutting when I was 14, and I will be 22 in a few weeks."

The wheat combines starts each May in Texas, accompanied by teams of helpers called "stubblebums" or "wheaties," and work their way north to the fields in Canada by late September or October.

"The first three or four years are really fun," said Pauls. "It isn't that I mind cutting wheat, but more that I just want to see if I can go out and make it on my own."

During the winter home for the sun-burned youth is Buhler, Kan. From spring through autumn he is on the road as the No. 1 driver for his father, Ike, and his father's partner, Elmer Adrian.

"I have friends from Texas to Montana — good friends, people I could just drop in on," says Pauls. "You put in a lot of hours and hard work, but you see a lot of new country and make a hell of a lot of friends."

And even being away from home and folks can be an advantage, he confides. "I have seen some kids grow up in a hurry out here."

Pauls says he is not sure what job he will substitute for the one he has had for seven years, and admits he may eventually decide to rejoin the combines on their annual harvesting treks.

"I just want to try it on my own for a while. Dad and Elmer have worked hard for what they have . . . one of the best wheat-harvest runs of anybody I know of. After a couple of years I might want to come back."

In the meantime, though, the monotony of thousands of tons of summer grains has taken a toll on the 21 year-old, and he longs for a different gold.

Audits Disclose Fund Shortages In School, Village

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Joseph Ferguson has reported shortages in a Belmont County School lunchroom account and in several Nelsonville city accounts.

The report Wednesday noted a $538 discrepancy between receipts and deposits in the lunchroom account at Mead School in Shadyside. School district officials said the loss was "unexplained."

Ferguson ordered Nelsonville Mayor Donald Bumgardner to repay a $119 shortage in the mayor's court fund. Bumgarder suggested, however, that court records may not have shown that some traffic fines are paid by installment rather than lump sums.

Eight Nelsonville city councilmen were told to repay $75 in raises received during the first three months of the year. Ferguson noted that Ohio law does not permit raises to be granted during an elected official's term of office.

The word halo — a circle of light — comes from the Greek name for a threshing floor on which oxen walked a circular path by going round and round the floor.

Auto Accidents Claim 4 Lives In Buckeye State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least four persons died in Ohio traffic accidents late Wednesday, and an elderly Toledo woman died in a crash just north of the Ohio-Michigan border.

Three died in a car-truck smashup at the intersection of Ohio 119 and U.S. 127 south of Celina. The dead were identified as Monica Thom, 16, and her mother Catherine, 53, both of Bascom, passengers in the car, and Randall Hayes, 28, of Deshler, driver of the truck.

William Jack Workman, 32, of Louisa, Ky., died when the truck he was driving left Ohio 73 south of the Highland-Adams county line and overturned in a farm pond.

Killed in the two-car smashup in Michigan was Nellie Hull, 80, of Toledo.

September 6 School Opening Is Scheduled Throughout City

Fritz F. Jacobs, Superintendent, announced today that the Circleville City Schools are rapidly being prepared for school opening on September 6. New additions at Nicholas Drive Elementary and Circleville High School will be ready and furniture is now being placed in these areas. Building renovation at all buildings is on schedule as maintenance and custodial crews continue the summer maintenance requirements.

School bus routes have been reviewed and will be announced in the Herald prior to the opening of school. They are generally the same as last year but will include transporting kindergarten students, both to and from school if the student is eligible, due to living more than one mile from the school assigned.

Perk Rips Gilligan On Hospital Costs

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk says he'll hold Gov. John J. Gilligan "personally responsible" for any hospital disorders that might occur should Gilligan decide not to make state funds available for outpatient care for indigents.

The disclosure came in a letter Perk sent to Gilligan in which the Cleveland mayor asked the governor to release $9.2 million in state funds to clear the way for $10.8 million in federal funds for Cleveland hospitals.

Modern horses are stronger and faster animals than their ancient ancestors.

Farmer Near Huron, Ohio Busy With Buffalo Herd

HURON, Ohio (AP)—Home on the range, where the buffalo roam, is not only in Texas but on Edward F. Otto's Berlin Township farm near Huron, Ohio.

Otto started with a herd of five seven years ago, but through purchases and reproduction now has 34 on his 500-acre farm. He plans to triple the herd in the next three years.

"It's not a hobby nor is it business," said Otto, 59. "I don't know what you should call it. But it does take up some time."

Otto, whose Lake Erie farm has been in the family since 1878, paid $400 a head for his first five buffalo by bidding for them from a federal game preserve near Fort Sill, Okla.

The herd produced eight calves this spring. He expects 12 to 15 calves next spring and about 30 calves by 1974-75.

"I want to get a herd of about 75," said the greenhouse owner who produces 75,000 baskets of tomatoes each year.

"They are so tame, they even come up in the winter and to the car in bad weather to get grain," he said.

He plans to slaughter his first animal, a young bull, this fall, and prove to his family that buffalo meat is better than beef.

He said when the United Methodist Church in Huron burns its mortgage later this year or next spring, he's going to have a buffalo roast.

Truman's Daughter To Publish Book

"I want to get a herd of about 75," said the greenhouse owner who produces 75,000 baskets of tomatoes each year.

"They are so tame, they even come up in the winter and to the car in bad weather to get grain," he said.

He plans to slaughter his first animal, a young bull, this fall, and prove to his family that buffalo meat is better than beef.

He said when the United Methodist Church in Huron burns its mortgage later this year or next spring, he's going to have a buffalo roast.

Truman's Daughter To Publish Book

NEW YORK (AP) — Margaret Truman Daniel says William Morrow & Co. will publish in January a book she has written about her father, former President Harry S. Truman.

Mrs. Daniel said Tuesday that material for the book came from the former chief executive's private papers, "letters and memoranda written by him."

Devastation Still Remains From June 16 - 23 Floods

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The floodwaters of Tropical Storm Agnes are long gone, but the signs of destation remain in the thousands of people still homeless, the hundreds of roads still impassable and the acres of cropland still barren.

An Associated Press survey of the area flooded by Agnes from June 16 to June 23 showed massive clean-up efforts have provided at least the basic necessities of life for the more than 500,000 persons in the East who suffered from the storm.

The hardest work still lies ahead, however.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has ordered 9,250 mobile homes at a cost of about $50 million for the Wilkes Barre, Pa., region, for example. But only three of 29 newly designated trailer areas are complete.

The Small Business Administration approved 714 loans totalling about $2.2 million for damaged homes and businesses in West Virginia. But it expects the final figure to reach $5 million for 1,600 loans.

The Office of Emergency Preparedness said Wednesday that Agnes caused 118 deaths and more than $3 billion in property damage. It said 5,000 square miles of land were inundated by 28.1 trillion gallons of water that fell and flooded communities along 4,500 miles of major rivers and 9,000 miles of streams and tributaries.

OEP Director George Lincoln said that more than $2.2 billion in federal and private relief will be available to help rebuild. He sid the expenditures represented "by far the largest federal outlay ever to assist states, counties and cities to spring back into first-class shape."

But the statistics don't tell the whole story.

They don't tell about the hard crab industry in Maryland where crabbers are catching more shellfish than ever, but can't sell them because of health department reports that raw sewage was washed into Chesapeake Bay by the storm.

And they don't tell about the Branchi family of Kingston, Pa. Water filled the first floor of their house, warping every door and window and wiping out all the furnishings.

In most areas, the most critical problems are finding housing for the homeless and repairing damaged streets and other city facilities.

In Virginia, where 12 persons died and one is missing, Agnes caused damage totalling $167,-491,300 in 59 of the state's 96 counties. "As far as we can determine, it was the state's worst flooding in terms of destruction, cost and water level — just about everything," said James Bradley of the Office of Civil Defense.

Ninety-six houses were destroyed; 1,346 suffered major damage; and 4,638 suffered minor damage. The total bill: almost $29 million.

Six hundred miles of interstate, primary and secondary roads and 130 bridges were destroyed or damaged. The total bill: $13 million.

In New York State, where 24 counties were flooded, private property losses are estimated at more than $400 million, public property losses at $221 million and agricultural losses at $84 million.

The Small Business Administration said that 19,122 homes and 1,723 businesses were destroyed or damaged in the seven hardest-hit counties.

Maryland officials won't even put a price tag on the damage yet. But the federal government alone is committed to spending $83 million for cleaning up the debris, repairing roads and bridges, fixing utilities, rebuilding damaged schools and making low-interest loans to homeowners.

In Ellicott City, Md., some entrepreneurs are giving tours of flood areas at 50 cents a head with profits going to storm victims. The tour includes hollow stores on West Main Street, condemned businesses and a walk through one building with holes in the floor.

Officials in Pennsylvania put the total flood damage at $2.5 billion. That includes 68,000 homes and nearly 3,000 small businesses destroyed or damaged. Crop damage, soil erosion and loss of livestock, farm buildings and machinery is figured at $270 million.

The clean-up efforts haven't been without problems, the latest of which occurred Wednesday with a three-sided shouting match in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., involving HUD Secretary George Romney, Gov. Milton J. Schapp and a crowd of flood victims.

The Democratic governor renewed his request for the federal government to pay off the old mortgages of families suffering heavy losses from Agnes.

Romney called Schapp's plan "unrealistic and demogogic" and said the governor was injecting political issues into the problem of flood recovery.

Min Matheson, head of the local Flood Victims Action Council, then pushed a picture of a devastated area in Romney's face and shouted: "You don't give a damn whether we live or die!"

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Here is an assortment of new books now available in the Sneek-a-Peek Room. They cover a variety of subjects and are written for different reading levels, beginning with very easy titles.

"Cowboys and What They Do" is a new title in the "I Can Read" series. It was written by Carla Greene and Leonard Kessler drew the pictures.

Prince is white mouse, a city-bred, pet store, pink-eyed mouse. He was a birthday present to the boy. In "Joey and the Birthday Present" he meets and spends the summer frolicking with pal Joey, who lives on the farm. They make a good pair. Even though the two mice have an opportunity to live together in free companionship, they decide to separate. They know Prince should return to the city with the boy. After all, he's his only pet!

Do you know what agouti fur looks like? It comes from cavies. What's a cavy? Answers to these questions can be found on the first few pages of "Guinea Pigs, All About Them" by Alvin and Virginia Silverstein.

Meindert de Jong's newest book is about Millicent-Millicent who wanted a cat of her own more than anything else in the world. When she found a kitten with blue eyes, eating olives, on Easter morning, she was sure her dream had come true. As always, de Jong writes with real understanding of a little girl's feelings. Lillian Hoban drew the illustrations, which add the final touches to a good story for little girls, "The Easter Cat."

"Archery for Boys and Girls" is a good guide to a sport fast becoming even more popular. Its author, G. Howard Gillelan, is archery editor of "Outdoor Life." He brings practical knowledge to the book, as well as fine photographic illustrations. There is added appeal in a personal message from Howard Hill, world famous archer.

Everything you ever wanted to know about mice, and maybe a bit more, can be found in "Mouse and Company". It is an attractive presentation, scientifically accurate, and is illustrated with remarkable black and white photographs. Even very young children like to look at the pictures and to hear the fascinating truth about mice. Lilo Hess wrote and did the camera work for this book.

Right down to the nitty-gritty, "Drugs and You" is a good source book for boys and girls. Its print is large and it is well illustrated with photographs, so its format will not discourage reluctant readers. Arnold Madison wrote the book, beginning with basic facts such as the awareness that aspirin, cigarettes, and even coffee are drugs. Then he goes on to identification, and properties. Finally he discusses drug abuse, addiction, and possible cures.

Sheryl L. Binns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Binns Jr., Route 5, Circleville, is the recipient of a Purdue University Merit Scholarship. The $900 scholarship is one of several presented to upper class students who have maintained high scholastic achievement.

SHERYL BINNS

Sheryl is a junior at Purdue, majoring in speech and hearing therapy. She is an active member of the Little Sister program, affiliated with Alpha Chi Rho fraternity and was chosen by the men of the fraternity to serve on the Alpha Chi Rho Sweetheart Court during the upcoming school year. She is presently spending the summer with her parents in Circleville.

Leighton McFerron, 439 Watt St. and a junior high school teacher at Teays Valley, completed a four week course of summer study at the University of Illinois' graduate school.

The course, mathematics for under-achievers, was given in conjunction with the U of I Commission on School Mathematics and was sponsored by the summer institute under the National Science Foundation.

William Sturgell, son of Mrs. Maggie Sturgell, 225 Scioto St., Ashville, has been accepted by Bliss College, 131 E. State St. in Columbus.

William has chosen to take his training in business administration and will begin his schooling Sept. 11.

Richard M. Petty, Ashville, was a June graduate of Ohio University, taking a Bachelor in Business Administration degree with high honors.

Another Ashville resident, Richard A. Barr, was presented a Bachelor of Science degree with honors during the same graduation ceremony.

The rank of distinguished student was attained by Helen D. Suchomel, 680 Garden Parkway, a student of humanities at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

Beth Ann McCoskey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCoskey of Circleville, was named to the A Honor Roll at Georgetown College for second semester 1971-72.

Dan J. Gibbs was graduated June 9 from Ohio State University in the college of engineering with a bachelor of science degree in Computer and Information Science.

Dan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Gibbs, 108 Rosewod Ave., is a 1967 graduate of Circleville High and a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Herbert R. Amey, a 1968 graduate of Circleville High, graduated with honors from Ohio University and was awarded a bachelor degree in journalism during June commencement ceremonies.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Amey.

Larry Pusey has been named to the Honor Roll for the spring term at Mount Vernon Nazarene College in Mount Vernon, Ohio.

Pusey is the son of Chaplin and Mrs. Paul Pusey, 115 Logan Elm Blvd.

A June graduate of Ohio University was Ronald L. Malone. Malone, of Route 3, Circleville, was presented with a bachelor degree in the field of education and given honors for his high scholastic achievement.

Suzanne Steinhauser, Route 3, and Lois Heffelfinger, 545 Green Acre Court, have been named to the spring semester dean's list at Capital University.

To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must be enrolled full-time at the univerity and have earned at least a 3.4 grade average (on a 4.0 basis) for the semester.

Devastation Still Remains From June 16-23 Floods

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The floodwaters of Tropical Storm Agnes are long gone, but the signs of destation remain in the thousands of people still homeless, the hundreds of roads still impassable and the acres of cropland still barren.

An Associated Press survey of the area flooded by Agnes from June 16 to June 23 showed massive clean-up efforts have provided at least the basic necessities of life for the more than 500,000 persons in the East who suffered from the storm.

The hardest work still lies ahead, however.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has ordered 9,250 mobile homes at a cost of about $50 million for the Wilkes Barre, Pa., region, for example. But only three of 29 newly designated trailer areas are complete.

The Small Business Administration approved 714 loans totalling about $2.2 million for damaged homes and businesses in West Virginia. But it expects the final figure to reach $5 million for 1,600 loans.

The Office of Emergency Preparedness said Wednesday that Agnes caused 118 deaths and more than $3 billion in property damage. It said 5,000 square miles of land were inundated by 28.1 trillion gallons of water that fell and flooded communities along 4,500 miles of major rivers and 9,000 miles of streams and tributaries.

OEP Director George Lincoln said that more than $2.2 billion in federal and private relief will be available to help rebuild. He sid the expenditures represented "by far the largest federal outlay ever to assist states, counties and cities to spring back into first-class shape."

But the statistics don't tell the whole story.

They don't tell about the hard crab industry in Maryland where crabbers are catching more shellfish than ever, but can't sell them because of health department reports that raw sewage was washed into Chesapeake Bay by the storm.

And they don't tell about the Branchi family of Kingston, Pa. Water filled the first floor of their house, warping every door and window and wiping out all the furnishings.

In most areas, the most critical problems are finding housing for the homeless and repairing damaged streets and other city facilities.

In Virginia, where 12 persons died and one is missing, Agnes caused damage totalling $167,491,300 in 59 of the state's 96 counties. "As far as we can determine, it was the state's worst flooding in terms of destruction, cost and water level — just about everything," said James Bradley of the Office of Civil Defense.

Ninety-six houses were destroyed; 1,346 suffered major damage; and 4,638 suffered minor damage. The total bill: almost $29 million.

Six hundred miles of interstate, primary and secondary roads and 130 bridges were destroyed or damaged. The total bill: $13 million.

In New York State, where 24 counties were flooded, private property losses are estimated at more than $400 million, public property losses at $221 million and agricultural losses at $84 million.

The Small Business Administration said that 19,122 homes and 1,723 businesses were destroyed or damaged in the seven hardest-hit counties.

Maryland officials won't even put a price tag on the damage yet. But the federal government alone is committed to spending $83 million for cleaning up the debris, repairing roads and bridges, fixing utilities, rebuilding damaged schools and making low-interest loans to homeowners.

In Ellicott City, Md., some entrepreneurs are giving tours of flood areas at 50 cents a head with profits going to storm victims. The tour includes hollow stores on West Main Street, condemned businesses and a walk through one building with holes in the floor.

Officials in Pennsylvania put the total flood damage at $2.5 billion. That includes 68,000 homes and nearly 3,000 small businesses destroyed or damaged. Crop damage, soil erosion and loss of livestock, farm buildings and machinery is figured at $270 million.

The clean-up efforts haven't been without problems, the latest of which occurred Wednesday with a three-sided shouting match in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., involving HUD Secretary George Romney, Gov. Milton J. Schapp and a crowd of flood victims.

The Democratic governor renewed his request for the federal government to pay off the old mortgages of families suffering heavy losses from Agnes.

Romney called Schapp's plan "unrealistic and demogogic" and said the governor was injecting political issues into the problem of flood recovery.

Min Matheson, head of the local Flood Victims Action Council, then pushed a picture of a devastated area in Romney's face and shouted: "You don't give a damn whether we live or die!"

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Here is an assortment of new books now available in the Sneek-a-Peek Room. They cover a variety of subjects and are written for different reading levels, beginning with very easy titles.

"Cowboys and What They Do" is a new title in the "I Can Read" series. It was written by Carla Greene and Leonard Kessler drew the pictures.

Prince is white mouse, a city-bred, pet store, pink-eyed mouse. He was a birthday present to the boy. In "Joey and the Birthday Present" he meets and spends the summer frolicking with pal Joey, who lives on the farm. They make a good pair. Even though the two mice have an opportunity to live together in free companionship, they decide to separate. They know Prince should return to the city with the boy. After all, he's his only pet!

Do you know what agouti fur looks like? It comes from cavies. What's a cavy? Answers to these questions can be found on the first few pages of "Guinea Pigs, All About Them" by Alvin and Virginia Silverstein.

Meindert de Jong's newest book is about Millicent-Millicent who wanted a cat of her own more than anything else in the world. When she found a kitten with blue eyes, eating olives, on Easter morning, she was sure her dream had come true. As always, de Jong writes with real understanding of a little girl's feelings. Lillian Hoban drew the illustrations, which add the final touches to a good story for little girls, "The Easter Cat."

"Archery for Boys and Girls" is a good guide to a sport fast becoming even more popular. Its author, G. Howard Gillelan, is archery editor of "Outdoor Life." He brings practical knowledge to the book, as well as fine photographic illustrations. There is added appeal in a personal message from Howard Hill, world famous archer.

Everything you ever wanted to know about mice, and maybe a bit more, can be found in "Mouse and Company". It is an attractive presentation, scientifically accurate, and is illustrated with remarkable black and white photographs. Even very young children like to look at the pictures and to hear the fascinating truth about mice. Lilo Hess wrote and did the camera work for this book.

Right down to the nitty-gritty, "Drugs and You" is a good source book for boys and girls. Its print is large and it is well illustrated with photographs, so its format will not discourage reluctant readers. Arnold Madison wrote the book, beginning with basic facts such as the awareness that aspirin, cigarettes, and even coffee are drugs. Then he goes on to identification, and properties. Finally he discusses drug abuse, addiction, and possible cures.

Don't Throw Stones In This House

By PAUL ALBRIGHT
Associated Press Writer

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — If you wouldn't mind life in a glass house, there's a "crystal castle" waiting in the Wyoming foothills.

Crystal castle is the informal name given to a "bottle house" built in the mid-1960's by a former Cheyenne man and his brother.

Although buildings using bottles instead of brick are not unknown, J. H. Widholm, now retired in Apache Junction, Ariz., used an unusual barbell design for the structure and built it with even more novel materials.

Widholm spent up to 10 years collecting formaldehyde bottles from mortuaries in Colorado and Wyoming. Then he began the painstaking construction of the one-bedroom home located 23 miles west of Cheyenne and about two miles from Crystal Lake.

Widholm and his brother, G. H. Widholm of Cheyenne, spent several years laying more than 30,000 empty formaldehyde bottles in specially mixed mortar that would stick to the glass.

Widholm and a succeeding owner used the house only for weekends and summer but the present owners, Mr. and Mrs. Steve McMikle of Cheyenne, lived in it for eight months.

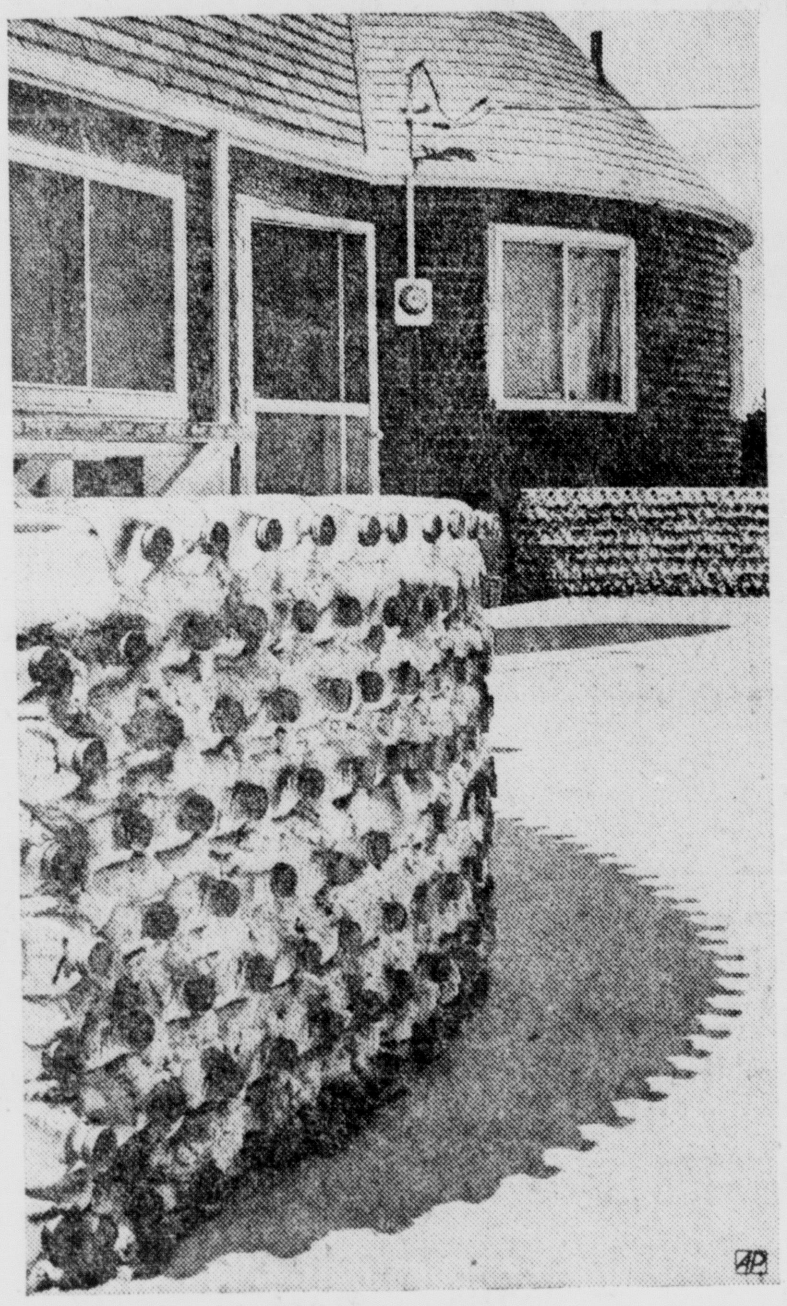
Mrs. McMikle said the home, which has plastered walls inside to cover the bottles, was comfortable but that schedule problems made the frequent trips to the city too much to continue.

The McMikle's are asking $17,500 for the house.

A neighbor, Dan Lill, keeps an eye on the place and says it has been remarkably free of vandalism over the years. The morning sun causes the house to glitter, he said, but the most unusual affect is on a bright moonlit night.

"The moon cuases the bottles to shine like there is a light inside,' said Lill. "I don't know how many times I have walked over there thinking someone inside with the light on only to find it was the moonlight shining on the bottles."

Mrs. McMikle says there has been little breakage with the bottles but the new owners will have a ready made start if any repairs are needed. There are about 200 spare formaldehyde bottles in the double garage.



GLASS HOUSE — This house in the Wyoming foothills is built with bottles instead of bricks. It was built by J. H. Widholm, who collected bottles for some 10 years before starting construction of the one-bedroom home which is located 23 miles west of Cheyenne.

Amtrak May Drop Cincy Rail Route

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Amtrak service, the largest money-losing route in the nationwide passenger network, could possibly be dropped if the losses continue.

Jim Bryant, director of public information for Amtrak, said Wednesday the Cincinnati service — from Washington, D.C.-Newport News, Va., through Cincinnati to Chicago — has lost $2 million since Amtrak's inception May 1, 1971 and would be most vulnerable to being eliminated next year if any services are dropped.

From May 1, 1971, through Dec. 31, 1971, the service has lost $1.2 million and another $800,000 from Jan. 1 to April 30 this year.

Amtrak is the National Railroad Passenger Corp., a government — industry combine organized last year to run the nation's passenger trains. The network consists of 216 trains a day on 26 basic routes throughout the country.

The Cincinnati service is the "weakest train in the entire system," Bryant said, and he said two factors were primarily responsible:

—It has cost Amtrak $600,000 to maintain Cincinnati's Union Terminal. He pointed out construction will begin shortly on a smaller Cincinnati station which, when finished, will be much less expensive to maintain.

—Poor trackage through Indiana forces trains to slow to 40 miles per hour and slower between Cincinnati and Chicago, causing problems with travel time for passengers. Penn Central, which owns the tracks, has no money to improve them, said Bryant.

Federal Court Approves Merger Of Railroads

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Officials of Illinois Central Railroad, Illinois Central Industries and Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroad announced here Wednesday federal court approval for merging the Illinois Central and Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroads.

The move, officials said, would also involve three small Mississippi lines. They are the Columbus and Greenville Railway Co., the Bonhomie and Hattiesburg Southern Railroad Co., and the Fernwood, Columbia Gulf Railroad Co.

Federal courts in St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., approved the merger by dismissing appeals to the move by the Missouri Pacific and Kansas City Southern Railroads.

The Interstate Commerce Commission had earlier approved the merger, railroad officials said.

Pentagon Papers Defendants To Start Antiwar Drive

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo say they will use the time from their postponed Pentagon Papers trial to make antiwar speeches and campaign against President Nixon.

"This administration is a menace to the rights of American citizens," said Ellsberg. He accused the government of "using the charges in this case to frighten other citizens out of revealing what they know about government lies deception and criminal behavior."

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 35, former Rand Corp. researchers on government projects, are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft in connection with the leak to news media of the top secret Pentagon Papers detailing origins of the Vietnam war.

The trial was halted before opening arguments by a wiretap dispute after jurors had already been sworn in. The U.S. Supreme Court has given defense attorneys time to file petitions for a high court hearing on the matter and probably won't rule on that until the justices reconvene in October.

The issue involves the government's refusal to disclose logs of a wiretapped conversation in which a defense attorney or consultant was overhead talking to a person unconnected with the trial.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne, who summoned jurors to his court Wednesday, told the 12 regular jurors and six alternates to remain on call indefinitely.

Byrne told them they would be summoned to court again in October, either for the trial's resumption or further instructions. Attorneys in the case say this may be the first time in legal history a sworn jury is being left in limbo for such an extended period.

Physicians Elect New Leadership

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Academy of Family Physicians meeting Tuesday installed Dr. Harry A. Killian of Willoughby as its 25th president. He succeeds Dr. Lauren M. Brown of Akron.

Other officers installed during the groups assembly were Drs. David A. Barr of Lima, president-elect; Alford C. Diller of Convoy, vice president; James C. Good of Columbus, treasurer; Richard W. Reiman of Wooster, speaker of the house; Fred V. Light of Cleveland, national delegate, and Robert S. Young of Johnstown, national alternate.

John Barrymore Jr. Given $100 Fine

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Actor-writer John Barrymore Jr. has been given until Oct. 5 to pay a $100 fine on a misdemeanor marijuana charge.

The son of the late film star John Barrymore pleaded no contest Tuesday to the charge at a preliminary hearing here.

House Panel Eyes Jane Fonda Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Internal Security Committee called a closed session today to discuss a member's request that actress Jane Fonda be subpoenaed to testify about her antiwar activities.

Rep. Fletcher Thompson of Georgia, third-ranking GOP member of the nine-man panel, asked the committee to subpoena Miss Fonda for questioning concerning "the entire realm of (her) activities while in the enemy capital of Hanoi and in communist North Vietnam."

Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., chairman of the basically conservative committee, told a reporter Wednesday that Miss Fonda "obviously was being used by the North Vietnamese."

As for whether she should be subpoenaed, Ichord said he would consult all members of the committee.

Ichord said also the question of giving Miss Fonda an official forum for expressing her views may influence the decision.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., a committee member who has repeatedly fought the panel's investigative activities, said he would oppose any attempt to force Miss Fonda to submit to questioning if it meant that Thompson, who is running this year for the Senate, would use the sessions as a publicity device.

Chill Air Remains Over East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Autumn-like weather clung to most of the eastern half of the nation today after pushing temperatures down to the 40s and 50s overnight.

Showers and thunderstorms, some heavy with gusty winds, swept through the Tennessee Valley and Gulf Coast states to the south Atlantic states and along parts of the Eastern Seaboard.

Rain also soaked areas from the western Plains to California and the Pacific Northwest.

But, the heaviest rains came in the Southeast, where in Greenwood, Miss., more than two inches fell during the night. Anniston, Ala. was drenched by more than an inch.

The rest of the nation had fair skies and comfortable temperatures, except for the far Southwest where 90-plus heat persisted.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 39 at Marquette County Airport, Mich., to 94 at both Blythe and Needles, Calif.

Issues Added To November County Ballots

Seven issues have been added to November ballots, according to information released by the Pickaway County Board of Elections, but only one will be received by all county voters.

The county wide issue concerns a tenth of one mill tax levy for a five year period starting in 1972 to maintain, operate and support the school for the retarded children of Pickaway County.

The proposed issue figures to be a penny tax on each $100 of valuation.

All voters but Circleville city residents will determine the outcome of a half mill tax levy to meet general health expenses in the General Health District of Pickaway County.

The levy, which would become effective 1972 if passed, seeks a 5 cents tax for each $100 of valuation.

The Village of Orient voters will decide the request for additional funds sought through a 3 mill tax levy to be placed on their ballots in November.

The levy, tomeet current expenses, would start in 1973 and require 30 cents on each $100 valuation for a five year priod.

A half-mill tax levy, to provide additional funds for fire protection, will be placed on Scioto Twp. ballots.

The levy, which would provide the funds for five years, starts in 1973.

A one mill would provide funds for fire and emergency protection for Harrison Twp.

It is also a five-year plan that would start in 1973.

Darbyville Village residents will decide a four question local option to determine liquor sale laws in their village in November.

Darby Twp. south precinct voters will determine an issue that would repeal zoning legislation passed in a similar election, May, 1971.

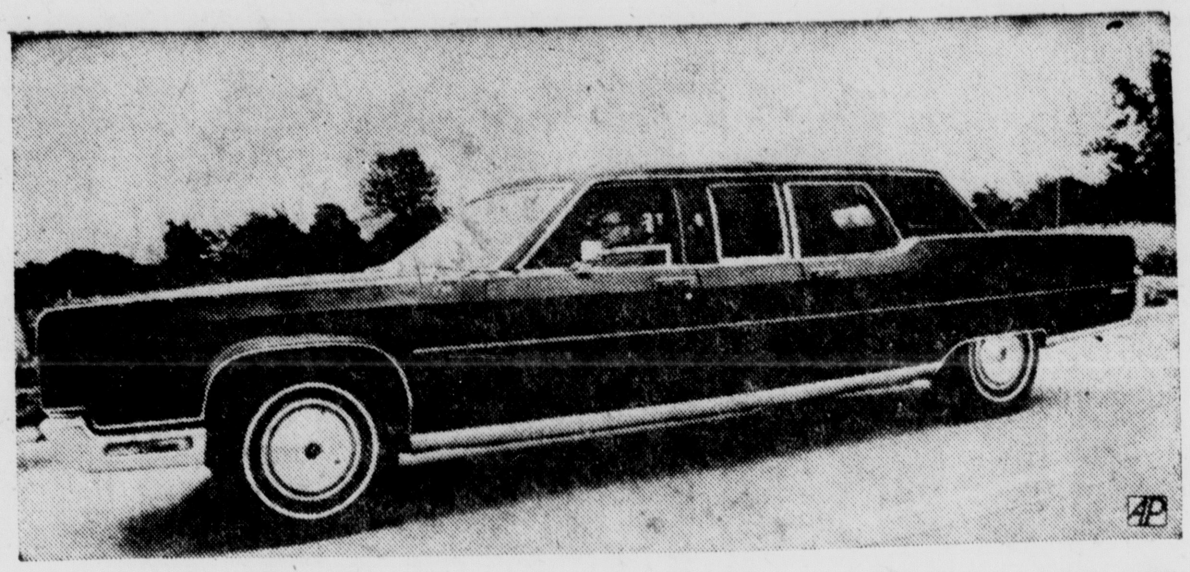
Drum & Bugle Competition Held At Marion

MARION, Ohio (AP) — A two-hour parade through Marion tonight by 135 marching unit kicks off the fifth annual U. S. Open Junior Drum & Bugle Corps National Championships.

Some 4,000 participants from the U.S. and Canada will be competing in three championship divisions, Class A, All-Girl and Open. Preliminary eliminations begin Friday morning at Marion Harding High School.

At stake in the competition, which continues through Saturday night, is $16,500 in prize money and a top prize of $3,000 and a large trophy to the winner in the Open class.

Returning to defend its 1971 title is two-time Open winner Blue Rock Corps of Wilmington, Del.



PRESIDENTIAL LIMOUSINE — Three years in the making, this hand crafted black Lincoln Continental gets a test drive through Dearborn, Mich. by an unidentified driver. The limousine made by the Ford Motor Co. will be trucked to Washington in a closed van with a secret escort and will be kept under cover until its formal showing. The car weighs 5,000 pounds more than a regular continental due to quarter-inch armor in the bottom, roof, and doors.

Ohio Business Ombudsman Program Said Big Success

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Businessman's Ombudsman program "surpassed our greatest expectation" during its first year in operation, Director David Sweet of the State Department of Economic and Communiy Development said Wednesday.

Sweet said the program has helped more than 3,000 businessmen tap directly into state resources, services and information with a minimum of delay.

The Ohio program, firt of its kind in the nation, was created to make it easier to use state services to grow and prosper.

Sweet said the program represents the "core of Ohio's new 'mind our own business' economic development philosophy."

He cited the situation of a Cleveland manufacturing firm owner as an example of how ombudsman assistance helped a businessman cut government red tape.

"The businessman applied for a federal loan in May, and it was still delayed in November. The businessman contacted the ombudsman, the ombudsman acted, and the loan was confirmed within a few days, saving a growing Ohio business and at least 18 jobs."

The ombudsman program was expanded six months ago, Sweet said, to include a retention-expansion program aimed at helping local communities identify potential problems for industry before the problems cause a company to move out of an area.

He said ombudsman personnel already have worked with 20 communities and more than 44 firms solved potential problems.

The cities of Lorain and Youngstown, Sweet said, have created organizations to deal directly with retention-expansion as a result of ombudsman work in their areas.

He said the Dayton Development Council has expanded its activities to include retention-expansion.

Don't Throw Stones In This House

By PAUL ALBRIGHT
Associated Press Writer

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — If you wouldn't mind life in a glass house, there's a "crystal castle" waiting in the Wyoming foothills.

Crystal castle is the informal name given to a "bottle house" built in the mid-1960's by a former Cheyenne man and his brother.

Although buildings using bottles instead of brick are not unknown, J. H. Widholm, now retired in Apache Junction, Ariz., used an unusual barbell design for the structure and built it with even more novel materials.

Widholm spent up to 10 years collecting formaldehyde bottles from mortuaries in Colorado and Wyoming. Then he began the painstaking construction of the one-bedroom home located 23 miles west of Cheyenne and about two miles from Crystal Lake.

Widholm and his brother, G. H. Widholm of Cheyenne, spent several years laying more than 30,000 empty formaldehyde bottles in specially mixed mortar that would stick to the glass.

Widholm and a succeeding owner used the house only for weekends and summer but the present owners, Mr. and Mrs. Steve McMikle of Cheyenne, lived in it for eight months.

Armed Forces Open Doors To Women In Most Fields

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — You've come a long way, baby, and now Uncle Sam wants you—in the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marines.

As an enticement, long-standing sex barriers to promotion and assignments have been dropped as the armed forces, though somewhat reluctantly, have begun to recognize women as equals.

With a changing eye toward motherhood, the military recently allowed female officers and enlisted women to do what many women do—have children and raise family.

There are female generals and admirals. Women soon will serve aboard ships at sea, and there may even be the rustle of skirts at West Point and Annapolis in the not-too-distant future.

Four years ago, this was unheard of at the Pentagon.

If they weren't nurses, women were limited mostly to being secretaries in uniform. The highest rank was colonel. Pregnancy meant automatic discharge, whether married or single.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird is responsible for many of the changes. Since taking office in 1969, he has pushed hard for equal opportunity, not only for blacks and other minorities, but for women as well.

The women's liberation movement has had some influence, but the military also has realized that as draft calls wind down, the services will need women to help meet their needs in the transition to an all-volunteer force next year.

At present, 34,000 women serve in the armed forces, accounting for about 1.5 per cent of the total number of Americans in uniform.

"By bringing in more women, the Army will be able to reduce the number of men required in noncombat jobs," explained Brig. Gen. Mildred C. Bailey, director of the Women's Army Corps.

She announced Monday that WAC strength will double to 24,000 by 1978 as women are put to work as missile-repair crewmen, radar technicians and virtually all other jobs except those involved in combat.

The Navy went a step further Tuesday with orders from Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. to prepare to welcome women aboard fighting ships at sea. Ratification of the amendment guaranteeing equal rights to women will sink nearly 200 years of Navy tradition, Zumwalt predicted. As a start, the admiral ordered all Navy billets opened to women along with the midshipmen programs on college campuses offering the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps program.

The Air Force was the first to open ROTC programs to women and the Army will do so in September.

While the Marines have issued no recent public announcements of their attitude toward women, they too are recruiting females.

The new, liberal approach to women in uniform has produced one reverse twist: civilian husbands of servicewomen were recently given the OK to shop in the commissary and Post Exchange, just like military wives.

Congress Scraps Volpe Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is ready to scrap the Nixon administration's request for open-ended authorization of money for programs intended to reduce highway deaths.

Nearly 300,000 persons have died in traffic accidents during the six years that broad-based federal legislation has been on the books. Authorities insist their program are beginning to save lives.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe has urged a series of revisions in the 1966 National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act so his department can increase the effectiveness of its programs through research, testing, public information and developing and enforcing new safety standards.

Armed Forces Open Doors To Women In Most Fields

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — You've come a long way, baby, and now Uncle Sam wants you—in the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marines.

As an enticement, long-standing sex barriers to promotion and assignments have been dropped as the armed forces, though somewhat reluctantly, have begun to recognize women as equals.

With a changing eye toward motherhood, the military recently allowed female officers and enlisted women to do what many women do—have children and raise family.

There are female generals and admirals. Women soon will serve aboard ships at sea, and there may even be the rustle of skirts at West Point and Annapolis in the not-too-distant future.

Four years ago, this was unheard of at the Pentagon.

If they weren't nurses, women were limited mostly to being secretaries in uniform. The highest rank was colonel. Pregnancy meant automatic discharge, whether married or single.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird is responsible for many of the changes. Since taking office in 1969, he has pushed hard for equal oportunity, not only for blacks and other minorities, but for women as well.

The women's liberation movement has had some influence, but the military also has realized that as draft calls wind down, the services will need women to help meet their needs in the transition to an all-volunteer force next year.

At present, 34,000 women serve in the armed forces, accounting for about 1.5 per cent of the total number of Americans in uniform.

"By bringing in more women, the Army will be able to reduce the number of men required in noncombat jobs," explained Brig. Gen. Mildred C. Bailey, director of the Women's Army Corps.

She announced Monday that WAC strength will double to 24,000 by 1978 as women are put to work as missile-repair crewmen, radar technicians and virtually all other jobs except those involved in combat.

The Navy went a step further Tuesday with orders from Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. to prepare to welcome women aboard fighting ships at sea. Ratification of the amendment guaranteeing equal rights to women will sink nearly 200 years of Navy tradition, Zumwalt predicted. As a start, the admiral ordered all Navy billets opened to women along with the midshipmen programs on college campuses offering the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps program.

The Air Force was the first to open ROTC programs to women and the Army will do so in September.

While the Marines have issued no recent public announcements of their attitude toward women, they too are recruiting females.

The new, liberal approach to women in uniform has produced one reverse twist: civilian husbands of servicewomen were recently given the OK to shop in the commissary and Post Exchange, just like military wives.

Chisox Blank Angels, 1-0

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The California Angels tried to knock on Wood Wednesday night—Wilbur Wood, that is—but Wood turned the tables and delivered a sharp rap of his own.

The portly knuckleballer of the Chicago White Sox outdueled California's flamethrowing Nolan Ryan 1-0, singled home the only run of the game and threw the race in the American League West into a turmoil.

The White Sox, six games out as recently as a week ago, climbed within one game of the one-time runaway Oakland A's, who lost to Kansas City 5-2.

Elsewhere, Detroit's lead in the AL East was shaved to one-half game of Baltimore when the Tigers split a doubleheader with New York 6-0, 1-2 while the Orioles battered Milwaukee 10-0. The Yankees trail by three games and Boston is four back after beating Cleveland 5-2. Minnesota, six out in the West, lost to Texas 3-2.

Chicago, without a hit against Ryan until the sixth inning, broke through with two out in the seventh. Ed Herrmann singled and Ryan wild pitched him to second. The Angels then decided to walk Luis Alvarado to get to Wood but the left-hander, who bats from the right side at a meager .157 clip, lined an opposite-field single inside the right field line.

"I'd say I got around on him real good," Wood laughed. "But I wouldn't trade my knuckler for his fast ball."

The Sox move into Oakland tonight for a four-game weekend series with the A's, who have dropped four in a row and six of their last seven games.

Kansas City tagged Oakland's Vida Blue, 4-7, for their first three runs and Cookie Rojas hit a two-run homer off Darold Knowles in the seventh. Rojas also ignited a two-run rally in the sixth with a double.

Texas scored three unearned runs to nip Minnesota behind the five-hit pitching of rookie Don Stanhouse. Vic Harris, another rookie, stole home for one run and Rich Billings drove in the decisive tally in the eighth ining with a sacrifice fly.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee Manager Del Crandall cast his vote for Baltimore in the AL East after the Orioles downed the Brewers for the third time in a row with Dave McNally pitching a four-hitter and hitting a home run, to boot.

"I don't see how you can stop this club," he said. "I think they've got all the ingredients—speed, defense, youth, talent, pitching and enough power. At least that's how they've looked in this series."

Reds Trip L.A., 6-3

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds pitcher Tom Hall had three perfect bunts Wednesday night, but said he certainly doesn't consider himself very adept at bunting.

"I've never been a particularly good bunter," he said, "I have a tendency to pull away on my bunts. I've never been to good bunting."

Despite his protestations to the contrary, Hall laid down three perfect bunts in the Reds' 6-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. He laid down the second of his bunts in the fourth inning to load the bases and then Pete Rose knocked in a run and broke a 2-2 deadlock with an infield out.

"Of course, I haven't had to many chances to bunt," said Hall, who has been primarily a reliever in his major league career.

Two innings later, Hall again loaded the bases with a bunt toward third and Rose cracked a two-run double off starter Bill Singer, 4-11. The Reds added another run on an infield out.

"I really didn't expect to be a starter, but I was told after the All-Star game I would be and as long as I can help the team, that's okay with me," said Hall, now 5-1.

The Dodgers' Frank Robinson, a former Red, set a major league record in the fourth inning when he hit his 14th homer of the year to give him the record of homering in the most parks 29. It was the 517th of his career, tied the score, and was his 1,601st run batted in. Only 12 players have more.

"I didn't get any particular thrill out of the home run," said Robinson. "After all, the idea is to win the game."

The Reds scored in the first when Rose walked and scored on Johnny Bench's double. They added another in the second on a single, a sacrifice and a wild pitch.

Dodgers' manager Walter Alston said "Singer has been hurt this year by the fact he missed three weeks with a broken finger. But tonight control was his biggest problem."

The win was the Reds' sixth in their last seven games and as a result of the Atlanta Braves' 6-0 win over Houston Wednesday. Cincinnati now holds a seven and a half game lead over the Astros in the National League's Western Division. Third-place Los Angeles is now 11 games out.

Texas Tech Coach Carlen Bares Campus Visit Setup

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, TEX. (AP) — When Jim Curlen arrived on the Texas Tech campus two years ago, he brought a new sense of excitement and expectation to Southwest Conference football circles.

Carlen remains behind, sometimes watching two shoolboy contests a night and viewing game films.

If Tech is on the road the game plan is altered.

"Say we play Rice in Houston," Carlen explained. "We cover the whole Houston area with our staff. They'll go down Thursday. There's a lot of schools in Huston. You get 15 people in there and you can see 30 games in person right there."

Upon their return, there is the analysis session, whereby players are rated by number.

"A 'one' is being definitely good enough and we think he can play," Carlen said. "A 'two' we think is good enough for a scholarship. A 'three' is very questionable. We didn't take any 'threes' this year.

Carlen insists that two coaches approve every prospect.

"Occassionally one coach will say he's good enough and one will say he's not good enough, and then I get in it and decide myself."

Under SWC rules, a prospect is permitted only one official visit to the campus. Coaches normally like to make it a memorable one.

"We bring them out here, and we like to house them in our own dormitory," Carlen said. "I don't get 'em rent cars. I never have entertained a kid real big.

"We want him to see campus life as it is, so when he comes back he's not disillusioned and spoiled."

Conference rules permit issuance of 50 new scholarships a year but do not restrict the number of prospects who may be invited to the campus.

"I don't really bring a lot of players on campus," Carlen said. "I only bring the ones we think are good enough . . .

"I'd rather not bring him and not have his pride hurt than to bring him here and then have to turn him down."

Carlen said 110 youngsters were brought in last year.

Once on campus, he said, "We try to adjust him to what college life is all about. And I want him to see our school from the inside out, so he'll know the good and the bad. And there's good and bad in every school.

"And that's our one visit."

Rookies And Veterans Cut As Grid Deadline Passes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I knew they had a lot of receivers and my chances were slim," said a dejected Jimmy Hines.

"But I thought I deserved a better chance. I worked hard," added Hines, acclaimed the world's fastest human after winning the 100-meter dash in the 1968 Summer Olympic Games at Mexico City.

Hines' Olympic glory faded into disappointment Tuesday, when he was cut by the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League. It probably ended his brief and undistinguished pro football career.

After two unproductive seasons as a wide receiver and a kick returner, he was cut by the Miami Dolphins in 1970. The Kansas City Chiefs picked him up, then dropped him last season.

Tuesday was the day NFL clubs had to reach the 60-player limit—not counting players who participated in the recent College All-Star game against the Dallas Cowboys — and there were other notable additions and subtractions.

The New England Patriots cut nine players, including eight-year veteran quarterback Mike Taliaferro.

Taliaferro, who fired 19 touchdown passes in 1969, tying him with Joe Namath for the lead in the old American Football League, did not participate in a single play last season. Rookie Jim Plunkett called every offensive play for the Pats.

Little Dick Post, the AFL's rushing leader in 1969 with 853 yeards, was waived by the Pittsburgh Steelers. He was attempting a comeback after undergoing a third operation on his right knee.

The Philadelphia Eagles cut veteran linebacker Doug Woodlief nd placed linebacker Adrian Young nd rookie safety Bobby Majors on the injured reserve list. Young has a sprained ankle and Majors is recuperating from tonsilitis.

The St. Louis Cardinals acquired offensive tackle Steve Wright and defensive lineman John Hoffman from the Chicago Bears, for an undisclosed draft choice, relased rookie running back Junior Riggins of Kansas nd placed six players, including quarterback Jim Hart and running back Larry Stegent, on injured waivers.

To replace Wright, the Bears obtained veteran Rich Buzin from the Los Angeles Rams for a future draft choice.

Elbert Drungo, Houston's starting offensive right tackle the past two season, was lost for the year after undergoing surgery to repair ligament damage in his right knee. Defensive tackle Gene Ferguson, who walked out of camp two weeks ago, was suspended by the Oilers.

And wide receiver Billy Parks, traded to Dallas last week by San Diego in the Duane Thomas deal, reported to the Cowboys' camp Tuesday.

Piranhas Hold Awards Fete

The Circleville "Piranha" Swim Team held its Annual Awards Banquet Thursday at Ted Lewis Park.

During the evening various awards were presented to top swimmers, and ribbons were presented to all swimmers who had earned them throughout the "Piranha's" undefeated season.

Certificates were also presented to the top ten scorers on the team: Nancy Guenther, Rojann Bowers, Jeff Lackey, Mark Beck, Dave Resler, Jay L. Arledge Janice Meschke Cindy Sparks, Steve Penn and Jeff Davies.

The following trophies were also awarded: To the Outstanding 8 and Under Swimmers, donated by Equitable Federal to John Bills; To the most Dedicated Boy Swimmer, donated by Circleville Kiwanis Club to Dave Resler; Most Dedicated Girl swimmer, donated by L. E. Cook and Son Insurance, to Terri Strawser; High Point Girl Swimmer, donated by Scioto Building and Loan, to Cindy Sparks; High Point Boy Swimmer, donated by 1st National Bank, to Jeff Davies; Outstanding First Year Swimmer, donated by The Savings Bank, to Kelly Steele; Outstanding Swimmer, donated by 3rd National Bank, to Cindy Sparks; Special plaques for effort were presented to Mike Sparks, John McCoy, Cindy Hughes and March Hutchison. These plaques were donated by Lowe's of Circleville, Dynamic Sales, Inc., Super-X Drugs and Palms Carry-Out.

Coaches trophies donated by Central Ohio Specialities and Central Heating & Cooling Company went to Jeff Davies and Steve Penn.

The trophy for the Outstanding Butterfly, donated by Beezie Anderson went to Steve Penn; the trophy for the Outstanding Backstroke, donated by Private Alan Krieger of the U.S. Army went to Jay L. Arledge; the trophy for the most outstanding Breaststroke Swimmer, donated by Debbie Shea went to Jeff Lackey; and the trophy for the most Outstanding Freestyle Swimmer, donated by Dr. Robert McCoy went to Janice Meschke.

During the evening, special tribute were paid by the swimmers and their parents to the coaching staff of the Swim Team: Jim Shea, head coach, and assistant coaches, Dick Penn, Vince DeFrank and Jeff Griffith.

Baseball Executives Hold Meeting

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Baseball club owners and executives went back to work today with one major issue—major league realignment—still under discussion and another at least temporarily sidetracked.

The question of overhauling the championship playoff series system was tabled Wednesday when the sponsoring Atlanta club of the National League withdrew its proposals after considerable discussion.

The realignment matter is the big issue on the agenda at baseball's two-day summer meetings, expected to close around noon today.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said that proposals to regroup into four six-team leagues or three eight-team leagues have found "considerable interest and much feeling against realignment."

Athens Wins American Legion Tilt

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Don Wood slammed two home runs and drove in five runs to lead Athens to a 10-1 victory over Cincinnati Budde in the state American Legion Baseball Tournament Wednesday.

The upset of the two-time champions put Athens in a good position to go all the way.

Athens was to go against Findlay, the only other team still unbeaten, in a morning contest today. Cincinnati faced Steubenville and Euclid clashed with Hillsboro in losers bracket games.

Earlier Wednesday, Cincinnati blanked Troy 5-0 in the completion of a game halted by rain Tuesday.

Hillsboro edged Columbus Scioto 7-6, Euclid whipped Marion 12-6 and Kirtland outslugged Van Wert 16-11.

Troy, Columbus, Marion and Van Wert were ousted, having suffered their second losses in the double-elimination tourney.

Ralph Gharasci Wins Golf Championship

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Ralph Gharasci celebrated his 16th birthday Wednesday by winning his second statewide golf championship of the season.

The Columbus linkster shot a one-over-par 71 on the 6,200-yard Marion Country Club course for a 36-hole total of 143 to win the Class A title in the Ohio Junior Open Golf Tournament.

Earlier in the year, Gharasi, a student at Columbus Watterson, captured the state high school golf championship.

Maj. Presley Kendall Wins Rifle Crown

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP) — Two center hits were all that separated champion Army Reserve Maj. Presley Kendall of Atlanta, Ga. from runnerup Army Reserve Maj. Bruce Meredith of Spartanburg, S.C. in the National Rifle Association prone small-bore championships decided here Wednesday.

Kendall totaled 6394-536x to Meredith's 6394-534x in the four days of prone small-bore shooting. David Ross, an Army Reserve Capt. from Houston, Tex. edged Kendall in the two-day any-sight prone title 6,199-289x to 6,199-277x. Meredith was third with 6,199-276x.

Manager Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics coached for the Montreal Expos in 1970 after being dropped as Boston Red Sox manager following the 1969 season.

Heat Shock Fells Kenton Youth

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 16-year-old Kenton high school youth was in critical condition in Ohio State University Hoscital today after he was given 15 units of blood Tuesday for treatment and heat shock, a hospital spokesman said.

Mark Valentine collapsed during football practice a week ago and was taken to Hardin Memorial Hospital. He was then transferred to University Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said the blood transfusion was given to combat damage from heat shock.

Conquistadors To Pick 18 Cagers

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Diego Conquistadors, the American Basketball Association's newest franchise, will select 18 players—two from each of the other nine teams—in the league's expansion draft today.

Each existing team will be able to protect six players—plus rookies.

Al Beauchamp Unconcerned About Not Being Starter

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals linebacker Al Beauchamp says he isn't concerned about not starting Saturday night when the Bengals meet the Detroit Lions at Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati in an exhibition game.

"The way I see it is that I'm not really No. 2," said the five-year veteran. "They want to takesa look at it, try various combinations, give everyone an opportunity to play and get the best men on the field.

"It doesn't interfere with the way I practice or play. I just look at it as good, healthy competition."

Beauchamp, a graduate of Southern University, is one of the original Bengals, a sixth-round draft choice in 1968.

In 1971 he intercepted six passes and ran one of those back for a touchdown, the third in his pro career.

"Sure, I'm proud of those interceptions," he said, "but I'd trade it all just to be on a championship team."

The 6-foot-2, 237-pounder feels the Bengals "have a good team. We're solid. We have the depth. We can play different people and have the same effort."

Beauchamp turned 28 in June and said that "if I stay healthy and help the team, I hope I can play another four years. I'd sure like to. And I'd like to go with this team to the championship."

He said he finds training camp life pretty good to him.

"It's a lot easier now," he said "becauseI know what's ing on. I know what you're supposed to do and how you're supposed to do it, and I feel comfortable with Vince (Costello, the Bengals linebacker coach)."

OU's Bill Hess Sees Mid-Am Race Open

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University's Bill Hess, dean of the league coaches, best described the 1972 Mid-American Conference football scramble.

"It's very wide open since we've gotten Toledo back to normal," said Hess, whose Bobcats were co-avored with Miami in a preseason coaches' poll Tuesday.

"At least, I think we've got Toledo back to normal. I'd hate to go through another year of that," Hess said of Toledo's three-year splurge that led to a 14-0 conference record, three titles and the nation's longest major streak of 35 victories.

Despite those imposing statistics, Toledo was relegated to fifth in the coaches' poll and fourth in news media balloting during Mid-American meetings here.

Miami and Ohio earned 37 points apiece from the coaches, followed by Bowling Green with 35 points, Western Michigan 28, Toledo 21 and Kent State 10.

The newsmen made Miami thtir sole title choice with 146 points to 131½ for Bowling Green. Ohio was third with 125½ and then came Toledo with 81, Western Michigan 72 and Kent State 29.

Although Toledo lost 15 starts, Rocket coach Jack Murphy refuses to be pessimistic.

Tuxedo Gene Wins Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tuxedo Gene paced the mile in a new lifetime mark of 2:03 4-5 Wednesday night to win the featured race at Scioto Downs and pay $10.20, $5 and $4.20.

Lippe Hanover returned $4 and $3.20 for second and Si Si Adios $4.40 for show.

The 7-9 daily double combination of Dougs Special and Instant Winner was woth $79, and the 3-5 quinella $66.30.

Attendance was 4,494; handle $205,022.

Kevin Erlandson Leads Archery Clash

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Kevin Erlandson carried a 12-point lead in the men's senior division going into the third day of competition today in the National Archery Association's target tournament at Miami University here.

Following Wednesday's competition, Erlandson, of Elk Grove, Calif., had 1,200 points, followed by Spec. 4 Hardy Ward of Mount Pleasant, Tex., with 1,188 and Richard McKinney of Muncie, Ind., with 1,187.

NBA Governors Eye Bid For Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Basketball Association's board of governors meets in Chicago today for a likely wrangle over the proposed sale of the Chicago Bulls to an eight-man group headed by Arthur Wirtz, owner of Chicago Stadium and the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey Lague.

Beclouding the NBA's agenda is the question of anti-trust laws.

Chisox Blank Angels, 1-0

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The California Angels tried to knock on Wood Wednesday night—Wilbur Wood, that is—but Wood turned the tables and delivered a sharp rap of his own.

The portly knuckleballer of the Chicago White Sox outdueled California's flamethrowing Nolan Ryan 1-0, singled home the only run of the game and threw the race in the American League West into a turmoil.

The White Sox, six games out as recently as a week ago, climbed within one game of the one-time runaway Oakland A's, who lost to Kansas City 5-2.

Elsewhere, Detroit's lead in the AL East was shaved to one-half game of Baltimore when the Tigers split a doubleheader with New York 6-0, 1-2 while the Orioles battered Milwaukee 10-0. The Yankees trail by three games and Boston is four back after beating Cleveland 5-2. Minnesota, six out in the West, lost to Texas 3-2.

Chicago, without a hit against Ryan until the sixth inning, broke through with two out in the seventh. Ed Herrmann singled and Ryan wild pitched him to second. The Angels then decided to walk Luis Alvarado to get to Wood but the left-hander, who bats from the right side at a meager .157 clip, lined an opposite-field single inside the right field line.

"I'd say I got around on him real good," Wood laughed. "But I wouldn't trade my knuckler for his fast ball."

The Sox move into Oakland tonight for a four-game weekend series with the A's, who have dropped four in a row and six of their last seven games.

Kansas City tagged Oakland's Vida Blue, 4-7, for their first three runs and Cookie Rojas hit a two-run homer off Darold Knowles in the seventh. Rojas also ignited a two-run rally in the sixth with a double.

Texas scored three unearned runs to nip Minnesota behind the five-hit pitching of rookie Don Stanhouse. Vic Harris, another rookie, stole home for one run and Rich Billings drove in the decisive tally in the eighth ining with a sacrifice fly.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee Manager Del Crandall cast his vote for Baltimore in the AL East after the Orioles downed the Brewers for the third time in a row with Dave McNally pitching a four-hitter and hitting a home run, to boot.

"I don't see how you can stop this club," he said. "I think they've got all the ingredients—speed, defense, youth, talent, pitching and enough power. At least that's how they've looked in this series."

Rookies And Veterans Cut As Grid Deadline Passes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I knew they had a lot of receivers and my chances were slim," said a dejected Jimmy Hines.

"But I thought I deserved a better chance. I worked hard," added Hines, acclaimed the world's fastest human after winning the 100-meter dash in the 1968 Summer Olympic Games at Mexico City.

Hines' Olympic glory faded into disappointment Tuesday, when he was cut by the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League. It probably ended his brief and undistinguished pro fotball career.

After two unproductive seasons as a wide receiver and a kick returner, he was cut by the Miami Dolphins in 1970. The Kansas City Chiefs picked him up, then dropped him last season.

Tuesday was the day NFL clubs had to reach the 60-player limit—not counting players who participated in the recent College All-Star game against the Dallas Cowboys — and there were other notable additions and subtractions.

The New England Patriots cut nine players, including eight-year veteran quarterback Mike Taliaferro.

Taliaferro, who fired 19 touchdown passes in 1969, tying him with Joe Namath for the lead in the old American Football League, did not participate in a single play last season. Rookie Jim Plunkett called every offensive play for the Pats.

Little Dick Post, the AFL's rushing leader in 1969 with 851 yards, was waived by the Pittsburgh Steelers. He was attempting a comeback after undergoing a third operation on his right knee.

The Philadelphia Eagles cut veteran linebacker Doug Woodlief nd placed linebcker Adrian Young nd rookie safety Bobby Majors on the injured reserve list. Young has a sprained ankle and Majors is recuperating from tonsilitis.

The St. Louis Cardinals acquired offensive tackle Steve Wright and defensive lineman John Hoffman from the Chicago Bears for an undisclosed draft choice, released rookie running back Junior Riggins of Kansas nd placed six players, including quarterback Jim Hart and running back Larry Stegent, on injured waivers.

To replace Wright, the Bears obtained veteran Rich Buzin from the Los Angeles Rams for a future draft choice.

Elbert Drungo, Houston's starting offensive right tackle the past two season, was lost for the year after undergoing surgery to repair ligament damage in his right knee. Defensive tackle Gene Ferguson, who walked out of camp two weeks ago, was suspended by the Oilers.

And wide receiver Billy Parks, traded to Dallas last week by San Diego in the Duane Thomas deal, reported to the Cowboys' camp Tuesday.

Piranhas Hold Awards Fete

The Circleville "Piranha" Swim Team held its Annual Awards Banquet Thursday at Ted Lewis Park.

During the evening various awards were presented to top swimmers, and ribbons were presented to all swimmers who had earned them throughout the "Piranha's" undefeated season.

Certificates were also presented to the top ten scorers on the team: Nancy Guenther, Rojann Bowers, Jeff Lackey, Mark Beck, Dave Resler, Jay L. Arledge, Janice Meschke, Cindy Sparks, Steve Penn and Jeff Davies.

The following trophies were also awarded: To the Outstanding 8 and Under Swimmers, donated by Equitable Federal to John Bills; To the most Dedicated Boy Swimmer, donated by Circleville Kiwanis Club to Dave Resler; Most Dedicated Girl swimmer, donated by L. E. Cook and Son Insurance, to Terri Strawser; High Point Girl Swimmer, donated by Scioto Building and Loan, to Cindy Sparks; High Point Boy Swimmer, donated by 1st National Bank, to Jeff Davies; Outstanding First Year Swimmer, donated by The Savings Bank, to Kelly Steele; Outstanding Swimmer, donated by 3rd National Bank, to Cindy Sparks; Special plaques for effort were presented to Mike Sparks, John McCoy, Cindy Hughes and March Hutchison. These plaques were donated by Lowe's of Circleville, Dynamic Sales, Inc., Super-X Drugs and Palms Carry-Out.

Coaches trophies donated by Central Ohio Specialities and Central Heating & Cooling Company went to Jeff Davies and Steve Penn.

The trophy for the Outstanding Butterfly, donated by Beezie Anderson went to Steve Penn; the trophy for the Outstanding Backstroke, donated by Private Alan Krieger of the U.S. Army went to Jay L. Arledge; the trophy for the most outstanding Breaststroke Swimmer, donated by Debbie Shea went to Jeff Lackey; and the trophy for the most Outstanding Freestyle Swimmer, donated by Dr. Robert McCoy went to Janice Meschke.

During the evening, special tribute were paid by the swimmers and their parents to the coaching staff of the Swim Team: Jim Shea, head coach, and assistant coaches, Dick Penn, Vince DeFrank and Jeff Griffith.

Baseball Executives Hold Meeting

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Baseball club owners and executives went back to work today with one major issue—major league realignment—still under discussion and another at least temporarily sidetracked.

The question of overhauling the championship playoff series system was tabled Wednesday when the sponsoring Atlanta club of the National League withdrew its proposals after considerable discussion.

The realignment matter is the big issue on the agenda at baseball's two-day summer meetings, expected to close around noon today.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said that proposals to regroup into four six-team leagues or three eight-team leagues have found "considerable interest and much feeling against realignment."

Reds Trip L.A., 6-3

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds pitcher Tom Hall had three perfect bunts Wednesday night, but said he certainly doesn't consider himself very adept at bunting.

"I've never been a particularly good bunter," he said, "I have a tendency to pull away on my bunts. I've never been to good bunting."

Despite his protestations to the contrary, Hall laid down three perfect bunts in the Reds' 6-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. He laid down the second of his bunts in the fourth inning to load the bases and then Pete Rose knocked in a run and broke a 2-2 deadlock with an infield out.

"Of course, I haven't had to many chances to bunt," said Hall, who has been primarily a reliever in his major league career.

Two innings later, Hall again loaded the bases with a bunt toward third and Rose cracked a two-run double off starter Bill Singer, 4-11. The Reds added another run on an infield out.

"I really didn't expect to be a starter, but I was told after the All-Star game I would be and as long as I can help the team, that's okay with me," said Hall, now 5-1.

The Dodgers' Frank Robinson, a former Red, set a major league record in the fourth inning when he hit his 14th homer of the year to give him the record of homering in the most parks 29. It was the 517th of his career, tied the score, and was his 1,601st run batted in. Only 12 players have more.

"I didn't get any particular thrill out of the home run," said Robinson. "After all, the idea is to win the game."

The Reds scored in the first when Rose walked and scored on Johnny Bench's double. They added another in the second on a single, a sacrifice and a wild pitch.

Dodgers' manager Walter Alston said "Singer has been hurt this year by the fact he missed three weeks with a broken finger. But tonight control was his biggest problem."

The win was the Reds' sixth in their last seven games and as a result of the Atlanta Braves' 6-0 win over Houston Wednesday. Cincinnati now holds a seven and a half game lead over the Astros in the National League's Western Division. Third-place Los Angeles is now 11 games out.

Texas Tech Coach Carlen Bares Campus Visit Setup

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, TEX. (AP) — When Jim Carlen arrived on the Texas Tech campus two years ago, he brought a new sense of excitement and expectation to Southwest Conference football circles.

Carlen remains behind, sometimes watching two shoolboy contests a night and viewing game films.

If Tech is on the road the game plan is altered.

"Say we play Rice in Houston," Carlen explained. "We cover the whole Houston area with our staff. They'll go down Thursday. There's a lot of schools in Huston. You get 15 people in there and you can see 30 games in person right there."

Upon their return, there is the analysis session, whereby players are rated by number.

"A 'one' is being definitely good enough and we think he can play," Carlen said. "A 'two' we think is good enough for a scholarship. A 'three' is very questionable. We didn't take any 'threes' this year.

Carlen insists that two coaches approve every prospect.

"Occassionally one coach will say he's good enough and one will say he's not good enough, and then I get in it and decide myself."

Under SWC rules, a prospect is permitted only one official visit to the campus. Coaches normally like to make it a memorable one.

"We bring them out here, and we like to house them in our own dormitory," Carlen said. "I don't get 'em rent cars. I never have entertained a kid real big.

"We want him to see campus life as it is, so when he comes back he's not disillusioned and spoiled."

Conference rules permit issuance of 50 new scholarships a year but do not restrict the number of prospects who may be invited to the campus.

"I don't really bring a lot of players on campus," Carlen said. "I only bring the ones we think are good enough . . .

"I'd rather not bring him and not have his pride hurt than to bring him here and then have to turn him down."

Carlen said 110 youngsters were brought in last year.

"Once on campus, he said, "We try to adjust him to what college life is all about. And I want him to see our school from the inside out, so he'll know the good and the bad. And there's good and bad in every school.

"And that's our one visit." Tomorrow: "Morality Fats"

He said he finds training camp life pretty good to him.

"It's a lot easier now," he said "becauseI know what's ing on. I know what you're supposed to do and how you're supposed to do it, and I feel comfortable with Vince (Costello, the Bengals linebacker coach)."

Heat Shock Fells Kenton Youth

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 16-year-old Kenton high school youth was in critical condition in Ohio State University Hospital Wednesday after he was given 15 units of blood Tuesday for treatment and heat shock, a hospital spokesman said.

Mark Valentine collapsed during football practice a week ago and was taken to Hardin Memorial Hospital. He was then transferred to University Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said the blood transfusion was given to combat damage from heat shock.

Conquistadors To Pick 18 Cagers

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Diego Conquistadors, the American Basketball Association's newest franchise, will select 18 players—two from each of the other nine teams—in the league's expansion draft today.

Each existing team will be able to protect six players—plus rookies.

Tuxedo Gene Wins Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tuxedo Gene paced the mile in a new lifetime mark of 2:03 4-5 Wednesday night to win the featured race at Scioto Downs and pay $10.20, $5 and $4.20.

Lippe Hanover returned $4 and $3.20 for second and Si Si Adios $4.40 for show.

The 7-9 daily double combination of Dougs Special and Instant Winner was woth $79, and the 3-5 quinella $66.30.

Kevin Erlandson Leads Archery Clash

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Kevin Erlandson carried a 12-point lead in the men's senior division going into the third day of competition today in the National Archery Association's target tournament at Miami University here.

Following Wednesday's competition, Erlandson, of Elk Grove, Calif., had 1,200 points, followed by Spec. 4 Hardy Ward of Mount Pleasant, Tex., with 1,188 and Richard McKinney of Muncie, Ind., with 1,187.

NBA Governors Eye Bid For Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Basketball Association's board of governors meets in Chicago today for a likely wrangle over the proposed sale of the Chicago Bulls to an eight-man group headed by Arthur Wirtz, owner of Chicago Stadium and the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

Beclouding the NBA's agenda is the question of anti-trust laws.

OU's Bill Hess Sees Mid-Am Race Open

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University's Bill Hess, dean of the league coaches, best described the 1972 Mid-American Conference football scramble.

"It's very wide open since we've gotten Toledo back to normal," said Hess, whose Bobcats were co-avored with Miami in a preseason coaches' poll Tuesday.

"At least, I think we've got Toledo back to normal. I'd hate to go through another year of that," Hess said of Toledo's three-year splurge that led to a 14-0 conference record, three titles and the nation's longest major streak of 35 victories.

Despite those imposing statistics, Toledo was relegated to fifth in the coaches' poll and fourth in news media balloting during Mid-American meetings here.

Miami and Ohio earned 37 points apiece from the coaches, followed by Bowling Green with 35 points, Western Michigan 28, Toledo 21 and Kent State 10.

The newsmen made Miami their sole title choice with 146 points to 131½ for Bowling Green. Ohio was third with 125½ and then came Toledo with 81, Western Michigan 72 and Kent State 29.

Although Toledo lost 15 starts, Rocket coach Jack Murphy refuses to be pessimistic.

Carlton, Phillies Blank Pittsburgh, Win 2-0

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I hit him like I used to hit Koufax," Willie Stargell said of Philadelphia's Steve Carlton, ". . .which is like drinking coffee with a fork! You ever try that?"

Sandy Koufax, of course, is in Baseball's Hall of Fame now. And if a one-season performance had any bearing on such an honor, Carlton would be a shoo in for the shrine.

He was overpowering!"
'Amazing!"
"A hell of a pitcher!"
"He's a machine!"
"I can't believe it!"

The superlatives just wouldn't stop flowing Wednesday night in Pittsburgh after Carlton, a 6-foot-5 veteran left-hander, reeled off his 13th straight victory with a three-hitter to raise his record to 18-6—best in the National League—and struck out 12 batters to boost his major league-leading total to 232 en route to leading the Phillies to a 2-0 triumph over the Pirates.

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta blanked Houston 6-0, San Diego beat San Francisco 5-2, Montreal defeated the Chicago Cubs 8-2, Cincinnati turned back Los Angeles 6-3 and the New York Mets trimmed St. Louis 8-3.

To add insult to injury, Carlton also kicked in with his first home run of the season and fourth in his major league career—but that was just incidental.

"I just can't believe anyone can pitch better than he has," Phils' Manager Paul Owens exulted after Carlton extended to 54 his string of innings without allowing an earned run. "And he's a competitor. You give him a run or two early and he really gets tough."

The Phils gave him that run in the second inning against Steve Blass as Willie Montanez singled and raced all the way home when right fielder Gene Clines misplayed Greg Luzinski's single.

Carlton put the final nail in the Pirates' coffin the next inning with his homer over the right field wall off Blass. "He threw me one of those big changes he's got," Carlton said, "and I managed to regain my balance and hit it. I knew it was gone when I hit it."

But what, someone asked, did he think of his performance on the mound against the Bucs, currently the team with the best record in baseball.

"Very pleasing," he understated. "I've had success back and forth against them. Sometimes I've pitched well and other times they've come out on top. It's an accomplishment to hold them to a few hits like that."

Felix Millan drove in two runs for the Braves with a single and a sacrifice fly but it was Hank Aaron and George Stone who starred against the sagging Astros.

Aaron belted his 23rd homer of the season, a two-run shot in the first inning that gave him 662 for his career, just 52 homers short of Babe Ruth's all-time record. And Stone made the runs stand up with a six-hitter.

"I'm not counting them," Bad Henry said. 'I hope I'm on a streak, though — and I hope I don't stop." It was his first homer in Atlanta in a month, except, of course for his All-Star clout. "That's what really hurts me," he said. "This is the park I have to hit 'em in."

Braves Manager Eddie Mathews said Stone "had a lot of guts" to hold on for his complete game. "He got hit real good on the thumb in the fifth inning," flagging down a grounder with his pitching hand.

Stone downplayed Mathews' commets but did acknowledge: "My thumb was numb the whole game after I got hit. I can't even feel it now."

Juan Marichal, who has won just four games this season and none in nearly a month, dropped his 14th when the Padres jumped on him for three runs in the first inning, two of them on Clarence Gaston's single.

Garry Jestadt and Jerry Morales added solo homers later on. Willie McCovey and Ken Henderson homered for the Giants.

Mike Jorgensen and Ron Fairly drove in two runs apiece for the Expos, who broke open their tight game against the Cubs with a five-run ninth inning.

Montreal reliever Mike Marshall, picking up his 10th victory, wrecked Chicago's bid to blow the game apart, coming on in the seventh inning with the bases loaded, nobody out and the score tied.

He struck out Don Kessinger, got Jose Cardenal to ground into a force out at the plate, then wheeled and picked a stunned Carmen Fanzone off second base. "We failed to take advantage," Cubs Manager Whitey Lockman philosophized.

The Reds, widening their West Division lead to 7½ games over Houston and 11 over Los Angeles, got three runs batted in from Pete Rose and three perfect bunts by pitcher Tom Hall that set up run-scoring rallies. Frank Robinson homered for the Dodgers, bringing to 29 his major league record for the most parks in which he's hit home runs.

The Mets, edging within 8½ games of Pittsburgh in the East, got three runs batted in apiece from Ken Boswell and Ed Kranepool while Jim McAndrew scattered six hits in the victory over the Cardinals.

Tomlinson Cops Slow Pitch Tilts

Tomlinson Electric downed Ashville Bar and Grill, 9-6, and edged Hartley Builders, 9-7, in slow pitch action Wednesday at Ted Lewis Park.

Ray Phifer slammed two homeruns and a single while Chet Iery Sr. connected for three hits in the win over Ashville.

Gary Lacey and Tad Diemler each blasted a four-bagger and Mick Tomlinson rapped three safeties aginst the Builders.

Here is the slow pitch schedule for Sundy:

2:15 p.m. — General Electric vs Lewis Good Insurance.

3:15 p.m. — Morgan's Sporting Goods vs Circleville Oil.

4:15 p.m. — Circleville Oil vs American Legion.

CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE
OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC SERVICE
LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed proposals will be received by the Director of Public Service of the City of Circleville, Ohio, at his office, City Hall, 133 South Court Street, Circleville, Ohio 43113, for the following until 12:00 o'clock noon, Eastern Daylight Time, August 11, 1972, as authorized by Ordinance No. 38-72 for the 1972 Street Improvement Program.

The major portion of the work involves the application of approximately 55,000 square yards of Item 409 and various other minor items.

Specifications and contract documents may be obtained at the office of the Director of Public Service, City Hall, Circleville, Ohio 43113.

Each proposal shall be submitted on the forms provided and according to the instructions supplied. Each proposal shall also be accompanied by a bid bond given in favor of the City of Circleville, Ohio, for an amount equal to at least ten (10) percent of the total amount of the bid. The bid bond shall be either a bond issued by a surety company authorized to do business in the State of Ohio or a certified check on any solvent bank made payable to the order of the Director of Public Service of the City of Circleville, Ohio. If the bidder fails or refuses to enter into a contract within ten (10) days after notice of acceptance of his proposal, the bidder shall forfeit to the City of Circleville his bid bond.

The bid bonds of unsuccessful bidders shall be canceled and returned. The bid bond of the successful bidder shall be retained pending the proper delivery of the completed contract.

The Director of Public Service reserves the right to reject any and all bids, waive any informalities in the same, or to accept any bid or combination of bids based on lowest and best bid or bids

McGovern Gas Station In Operation

HONOLULU (AP) — You can get a fill-up of liquid gas and a bit of political gas at the same time at a service station being operated here to raise money for Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign.

The "McGovern Gas and Go" station, located at one of the city's busiest intersections, opened Wednesday.

Dennis Chun, the official spokesman for the Hawaii for McGovern Commitee, said his group hopes the station will net between five and seven cents a gallon on the gasoline it sells for five to six cents a gallon less than nearby stations.

Chun declined to estimate how much money might be raised at the station, which his group has leased through September.

Young McGovern supporters, working four-hour shifts with no pay, man the pumps with a ready supply of McGovern bumper stickers, literature and butons available to motorists. McGovern sweatshirts, worn by the attendants, are available for sale and a voter registration booth also is there.

After one of the attendants gets a motorist's order for gas, another moves in to wash his windshield and querie him about his feelings on McGovern.

"If he indicates an interest in McGovern, they are instructed to offer him some literature or a bumper sticker," Chun said.

"If he's definitely not interested, they just give him the gas," Chun added.

Tax Repeal . . .

claiming natural growth of the sales tax — which they estimated at $500 million to $600 million every two years — would finance current levels of expenditures.

Gov. John Gilligan, who endorsed the tax and helped guide it through the Republican-controlled legislature, claimed repeal would be a "step backward" for Ohio.

He said the money is needed not only for current expenses, but to finance expended state services "which the people want and deserve."

Netzley's group listed 366,036 signatures with Brown, but Rep. Joseph Tulley, R-37 Mentor, said there were several hundred others in the boxes that came in late and had not been included in the count.

All 88 counties were included, according to Rep. Richard Reichel, R-92 Massillon, who said the petitions also exceeded the legal requirement that 5 per cent of the last gubernatorial vote be obtained from each of 44 counties. He said 66 counties were over that percentage.

The anti-income tax group delivered the petitions in an armored truck to the Statehouse.

Use of the armored truck was not for publicity reasons, Reichel said. He disclosed that repeal headquarters in downtown Columbus had been broken into early in the drive and some petitions stolen.

He said the incident was not reported to police.

The repeal movement, opposed by both political parties and almost every lobbying organization in the state, was given little chance of success 10 days ago.

The United Auto Workers Union Sunday purchased newspaper ads against repeal in metropoitan newspapers and two legislators, a Republican and a Democrat, came out against it.

"That was the turning point," said Netzley. "Those ads and statements worked to our favor, not theirs. Nobody is for us except the people. Their strategy backfired."

Netzley said the entire repeal campaign to this point had been run for less than $15,000, with most of that amount going for postage.

3 Cars Collide At Intersection

Only two minor injuries were reported in a three car accident 7:35 a.m. Thursday when a man failed to yield the right of way to traffic on Route 22 and tried to cross in front of two cars on Route 104.

Steven E. Ray, 22, Chillicothe was charged with failing to yield the right of way to traffic by investigating Deputy Sheriff Earl Kuhn. He was southbound on Route 104 and had apparently stopped for the stop sign at the Route 22 intersection.

However, sunlight blinded him to eastbound traffic on Route 22 and apparently pulled his car into the intersection, spotted a car approaching and tried to accelerate to clear the roadway.

The car, driven by Thomas R. Porter, 30, The Plains, struck Ray's car in the right side and sent it careening on Route 104.

A second car, driven by John J. Kiser, 20, 325 E. Franklin St., and directly behind the Porter car, tried to avoid a collision but spun sideways into the rear of Porter's car.

Porter claimed an aggrevation to a back injury and Kiser had right side pains. Ray was uninjured.

State May Build Cleveland Office

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— State officials have revealed they are considering building a state office building in Cleveland, rather than continue to lease office space.

Ohio Building Authority executive director George F. Busche said it would be more economical for the state to construct and eventually own its own office building.

Housewife Busy Fixing Sports Cars

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Being a housewife, mother and businesswoman isn't enough for Astrid Umpenhour. She spends her spare time fixing sports cars.

Mrs. Umpenhour, who says she learned how to repair cars from her father as a teen-ager, serves as pit stop mechanic for her racing husband, Ken.

"I didn't realize how many roles I was playing until we raced in Colorado and Lance Reventlow (late son of heiress Barbar Hutton) was in the race with his $75,000 car," she said.

"Fourteen mechanics in spotless white uniforms and Jill St. John (his wife) jumped out of a mile long van.

"Ken came in second behind Reventlow," she recalled.

Ken added, "She didn't do badly against St. John either."

Once a pre-law student at Kent State University, the 5-foot-9 Mrs. Umpenhour works a full day as a purchasing agent for a chain of fried chicken franchises in adition to caring for four children.

She said she hasn't encountered sex discrimination and if she did she might not accept it.

"There are a lot of women who are typists and file clerks who could be executives if they were given a chance," she said.

"There's no discrimination in our company. Of course, if I leave and a man is hired at more money to do my job, it will be a different story."

'Monster' Seen Again

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — That big, hairy and ugly creature that some people think has been roaming Northwestern Ohio reportedly was seen again Wednesday—this time in northern Wyandot County.

A woman motorist told the sheriff's office a big, black thing jumped out of a ditch "right beside" her car.

Deputies searched but found nothing, as was the case when officers investigated two earlier sightings of "monsters" in Ohio.

Last month, a 7-foot, hairy, ugly creature that smelled like limburger cheese was reported seen in Marion County by a man who said the thing was alongside a road.

A similar creature was reported sighted in Defiance County early in July.

Arrests

Donald Dean, 54, Detroit, driving while intoxicated.

John Prentice Ratcliff, 48, Proctorville, driving while intoxicated.

Sara M. Clark, 50, Columbus, driving while intoxicated.
